Chrestomathies in Latin and Greek, have long been employed for the instruction of youth, in most of the countries of Europe. The utility of them is so evident, that scarcely any one has ventured to call it in question. A great variety of them are now current in our own country; although they do not bear the appellation to which I have been adverting. On the continent of Europe, however, where Chrestomathies in nearly every language that is studied, are almost universally employed, there has been some diversity of opinion among the learned, about the expediency of employing Chrestomathies in the Hebrew The late J. G. Eichhorn, of Göttingen, so well known to the literary world, in his Bibliothek, (a long continued and very able work, made up of learned reviews, essays, etc.), was accustomed to speak with much disregard of Hebrew Chrestomathies, and to protest against them. Others have done the same thing. But the reason of this is evident; and it must be acknowledged, also, that it was sufficient. Of all the Hebrew Chrestomathies which I have yet examined, (and I have seen most of them which have acquired any considerable name), none have been conducted on a plan, which affords substantial aid to the learner. Most of them have been almost a mere reprint of select parts of the Bible; and often times, of some of the most difficult parts of all the Scriptures, merely because the rhetorical qualities of the pieces selected were very striking. Against such Chrestomathies Eichhorn might well protest; for why should not the student at once purchase his Hebrew Bible, and study in that the lessons printed in his Chrestomathy, rather than purchase another book which offered him nothing more than a part of the simple text of his Bible?

A few Chrestomathies have contained notes, mostly of a kind which have respect to higher or lower criticism; but very few offer any considerable assistance in respect to grammatical analysis. Of course, books of this class have never satisfied the wants of beginners, and therefore they have soon fallen into neglect.

So far as my knowledge of Hebrew Chrestomathies extends, none have yet been published, which are like the present in regard to the specific object to be attained. It remains therefore for an experiment to be made, in order to determine whether a Hebrew Chrestomathy, more fully adapted to the wants of beginners than has been usual, will not find as good encouragement, and be of as much utility, as a Latin or Greek one. On this experiment the present little volume ventures; not claiming to have accomplished all which may be desirable, but aiming at least to break the way, in which others may follow, and do for the Hebrew that which has in some cases been so admirably accomplished for other ancient, and for the modern languages.

That which is done viva voce in the lecture-room, and addressed to the ear of Hebrew students, on the continent of Europe, it is my aim to exhibit here to the eye of our students, on printed pages. The author of this small volume, while he cherishes the highest regard for the profound and extensive erudition of many scholars and teachers in the old world still professes himself unable to see how a beginner in Hebrew, who receives oral instruction ex cathedra, (and writes down as well as he can, which at the best must be very badly at first, what is dictated to him, phrase by phrase, or word by word, and then cons over what he has written), can be more profited, than to have the same instruction, of which he has made but an imperfect copy in his notes, fully exhibited in a well printed book, and so arranged, that recurrence to it is, at all times, easy and without the danger of mistake. With all his deference to the great masters of teaching in Europe, he cannot persuade himself, that in this point they are not mistaken. at least, with regard to the elementary part of linguistic study; and above all, in regard to such a language as the Hebrew, the writing down of which is so difficult for the unpractised beginner. No wonder that so few in Europe ever pursue the study of the Hebrew to any great length, while the process of acquiring it is made so tedious; and while (it may be added) their studies are conducted on a plan, which makes the learner rather a passive recipient than an active agent. The human mind, from its very nature, cannot long follow such a course of study with much satisfaction.

In regard to the selection of pieces for this Chrestomathy, it has been my design to choose those which are easy, and, in some respect or other, of special interest; and which may therefore serve PREFACE.

at once to excite the student and to instruct him. If any one should suggest, that there are other pieces in the Old Testament of equal or of superior interest, and which ought to have been preferred, I shall not dispute the point with him; for in a book, which is all divine, and of such a compass as the Old Testament, it would be strange if some thirty chapters should comprise all that is striking, and useful, and beautiful. It were easy to make out many more volumes of Chrestomathy, like the present, and yet to leave much behind, which one must pronounce very excellent. My plan has been, to take that which might serve to aid and to instruct the beginner; which is easy, and yet inviting; and in following this plan, I have, of course, omitted most of the awfully sublime parts of the Old Testament, nearly all of which are replete with exegetical and grammatical difficulties. How incongruous it would be, in a selection of such pieces as the present, to be guided only by rhetorical taste, and to make out a book merely containing "the beauties of the Bible," no considerate person will fail to perceive.

I have extended the selection so far, as may serve the purposes of an introduction to the regular, exegetical study of the Hebrew. My views of the importance of accurate, grammatical analysis, are sufficiently explained in the notes appended to this volume. In estimating the present work, I must beg the reader to remember, that my principal design is, to aid the student in the grammatical study of the Hebrew. All else besides this, is added for the sake of smoothing the way, and making it more attractive. No student of any understanding, can long content himself with the mere study of words, forms, and syntactical constructions; he must understand, in some good degree, the meaning of what he reads, in order to take any pleasure in it. Recognizing this principle of our nature, I have all along, from the very outset, added such brief exegetical remarks as may assist the beginner, and make his progress more agreeable to him. As the Notes advance, they become (as is proper) more exegetical, and less grammatical. But no grammatical difficulty whatever is wittingly passed over, without an attempt at explanation. The exegetical remarks are, for the most part, very brief; but, I would fain hope, such as are better adapted to beginners, than if they were more formal. What is sometimes given in a single sentence, has cost me hours of study. But the parade of learning would ill become a book of this kind; and I would rather hazard the imputation of having written too briefly, than of having made out a great book, which the learner could neither relish nor understand. A case like the present I take to be one, in regard to which it may be truly said, μέγα βιβλίον μέγα κακόν.

Some of the investigations, which led to remarks made at the close of various pieces in this selection, have cost time and effort which critical students, and probably such only, will know well how to estimate. If these remarks should prove to be useful to the learner, either in the way of instruction or of excitement to further investigation, it will be more than a compensation for all the labour bestowed on them.

The expense of publishing books of criticism on the Hebrew language, and of printing Hebrew, is a thing that is yet but very imperfectly understood, in our country. That the public may be enabled to make some proper estimate of it, and so to judge. on good grounds, whether the price of books like the present is put too high, it is proper to state, that the labour of correcting a printed sheet of Hebrew, with the accents, is at least twenty five times as much as that of correcting English printed with a type of the like size; and that the labour of the printer in setting up and correcting such a sheet, is at least six times as much as that of executing a sheet in English. Then the labour of the original writing or composition, where so many Hebrew words are to be written as occur in the notes to this volume, is, at least, four times as much as that of composing a like quantity in mere English. Besides all this, no sheet is contained in the present volume, which has not, in the printing, gone through at least five several corrections or revisals, besides the corrections of the printers. Let those who know how to estimate the severity of such labour, judge, in view of these facts, whether the present book and others of a similar character, can reasonably be asked for at a lower price than that at which they are actually sold.

If the reader should find the Hebrew text contained in this volume to be accurately printed, (which I trust will be the case), he must attribute this, in good part, to the untiring diligence and praise-worthy accuracy of Mr. William G. Schauffler, of Stuttgard in Germany, a member of the present Middle Class in our Theological Seminary, who made the three first revisals of it, as it came from the printers' hands; to the kind and valuable aid of Mr. C. E. Stowe, one of the assistant Teachers of the Greek and Hebrew languages here, for the present year, who went through with another complete revisal; and to the unwearied diligence and patience of the printers and publishers, who have spared no pains to accomplish all which I wished to be done. Several errors in the text of Van der Hooght, (from which the Hebrew is copied), have been detected and corrected; but how many more are committed, time will develope. He who has once printed Hebrew, will never boast of security against being detected in some errors. types break off or draw out, and frustrate the hopes which his labours at correction had led him to cherish; the ink does not always reach the minuter vowels and accents so as to give a due impression; and where there are so many objects of attention, as the printing of Hebrew with vowels and accents necessarily presents, humanum est errare. I can only say, that I have done all which my time and circumstances rendered it possible for me to do, in orPREFACE. VII der that the text might be correct. The whole book has gone through the hands of Mr. Stowe, as well as my own, in the correction; and although not immaculate, will, I hope, be found to be so far accurate as not to give the student much trouble.

The reader will observe, that from the 56th page onward, 16 pages are numbered, 56a, 56b, etc. The reason of this is, that when the printing of the book was commenced, both parts of it, viz. the Hebrew text, and the Notes, were begun at the same time, and 56 pages were allowed for the first part, so that the Notes were commenced with p, 57 etc. But in printing, the numerous breaks in the Hebrew text, and especially the poetic part of the Hebrew, occupied much more room than was anticipated; so that, in order to comprise what was desirable in the Chrestomathy, it was necessary to extend the Hebrew 16 pages beyond the space that had been left for it. This will occasion no inconvenience to the reader; but it is proper to say, on account of the publishers, that this volume contains 16 pages more than it seems to contain.

As the circle of clementary Hebrew books is now completed, and a Lexicon, Grammar, and Chrestomathy will not, all together, cost more than the former price of a Hebrew Lexicon, it is to be hoped that the progress of Hebrew study may keep pace with the facility and cheapness of the means to aid it. Hebrew is now accessible to all classes of people, who may wish to learn it. Private persons, for their own advantage and gratification, may study it. I venture to affirm, without the fear of being contradicted by any one who has had experience, that the Hebrew is now more accessible than the Latin or Greek, and can be learned in less than half the time which either of these languages costs. The apparent difficulties, at the outset, arise from the difference of its written characters. (especially of the vowels), from those of our western languages. These difficulties, however, speedily vanish; and then the simplicity of arrangement, of declension, and of conjugation, in the Hebrew language, is such, that the progress is much more rapid than either in Latin or Greek. The imaginary terrors, in which this language has been clothed, belong to some of the older books of instruction. and not to the Hebrew itself. I do most earnestly hope that the day is coming, when the subject of Hebrew study will be treated with more candour than it has been in our country, for a century past; and that the obscurity which has been thrown around it, by such treatises of former days as have invested it with confused and confounding mists, and the terrors also, which have been merely imagined to exist by such as are reluctant to make the exertion demanded of those who embark in the study of it, or have not enough of the energetic spirit of acquisition to urge them forward in such a study, will vanish away before the illuminating and enterprising spirit of the day, and never more make their appearance. Incepisse dimidium est. A moderate part of the time that has been spent by many an excellent minister of the gospel, in the pursuit of Commentary on the original Hebrew Scriptures, in order that he might understand the meaning of them, (which, when he attains it, is only a secondary source, and the correctness of which, he must, without a personal knowledge of the Hebrew, often be unable to estimate), would have enabled him to go directly himself to the original source, and to satisfy his own mind by original evidence. May the time speedily arrive, when this will be better understood, and more extensively believed!

Should the present volume meet with sufficient encouragement to open the way for more works of a similar nature, it is my design to go on with the selection of other appropriate parts of the Hebrew Scriptures, so as to complete a full course of exegetical study in the Hebrew language. The present volume is designed as the first in such a series. The extent of such a Course of Study, will depend on the encouragement given to works of this nature in our country, and on the measure of health which it may please a kind Providence to bestow upon me. It is not my design to publish in extenso any more of the Hebrew text, as in the present volume; because every student should of course have a Hebrew Bible. A selection, however, from the Hebrew Scriptures, adapted to a proper course of Hebrew study, is what I intend to make: and on this, will be written critical, grammatical, and exegetical notes. The last will, of course, be the predominant ones, in all future publications designed to be a continuation of the present. But as the whole course will be adapted to beginners, so more particular attention will be paid to their actual wants, than any of our present commentaries have given. The forms, syntax, and etymology of words will never be neglected, nor any pains spared to lead the student to an accurate and fundamental knowledge of what properly belongs to philology.

PART I.

NOTES.

The object proposed by the following selections of Hebrew words in Part I., is, to furnish the student with examples, in order to aid him in the practice of declining, both viva voce and by writing out, the various forms of words as made by conjugation, declension, etc. If learner and teacher will have the patience to go through with all these, in regular course, they may be assured that a more radical knowledge of grammatical forms will be obtained, in this way, than can be done by reading over the Hebrew grammar and simply committing it to memory, for almost any limited period of time which can be named.

It is not intended, however, that Praxis in this way should, at the outset, be the sole and exclusive occupation of the student, for any considerable length of time. A few lessons, devoted entirely to it, will impart a facility of pursuing it, which will make it afterwards more of a pleasure than of a toil. After such lessons, the student can begin with the study of Part II., and proceed on regularly. In the mean time, however, as soon as he begins to make some progress in Part II., one paradigm at least, under some one of Nos. I-XXXVII. Part I., should be either written out, or recited viva voce, as often as he recites a lesson in Part II. It is best, by all means, to write out Paradigms, at least one half of the time employed in the exercises on Part I. It will be useful, for the other half, to recite them vivd voce. This will accomplish two objects at the same time; it will impart a facility in Hebrew chirography, (which is altogether desirable); and it will train the mind of the student to habits of nice grammatical and orthographical accuracy, which cannot be acquired equally well in any other way. But the student need not write out all his paradigms fully. Of some, he may make skeletons; writing out only the 3d persons singular and plural of the Praeter and Future, with the Inf., Imp., and Participles. But let him also write out many paradigms fully. And where there is a class, and the instructer attends to them all at the same time, the correction of one exemplar, which exhibits a written paradigm, (if the correction be made viva voce and in presence of the class), will of course serve for the paradigms of all the class; as they can be required each one to correct his own paradigm, while in the lecture room, agreeably to the directions of the instructer.

I would earnestly recommend to all teachers and learners, who make use of this Chrestomathy, to pursue the method here pointed out. Experience has long since taught me, that seemingly rapid advances, at the commencement of Hebrew study, are not to be regarded as being of course real advances. He will ultimately make the most rapid and sure progress, who carefully, deliberately, and with great pains-taking as to grammatical principles, lays a foundation broad and deep, on which he may erect a superstructure at his will. I venture to pledge myself, that if the method above recommended be followed, neither learner nor teacher will ever see cause to regret it; nay, that both will become fully persuaded of its usefulness and importance.

The examples in No. I. are chosen, with much pains-taking, from roots which have neither Gutturals, nor Quiescents, nor Aspirates in them, in order that the student may have as little difficulty as possible to encounter, in the first stages of his praxis. A few of the examples have a final Resh; but such a Resh usually makes no irregularity, excepting that the Future (and its cognates) of such verbs not unfrequently has a Pattahh final. But in the examples here selected, this is not the case; and all, therefore, which are ranged under a., may be declined, in respect to their vowels, after the model of by.

Those under b, are declined after the manner of $\neg \neg \neg$ in Par. I. of the regular verbs. There are but very few verbs of this kind.

In No. II., the examples under a. resemble אַבָּי, בְּבֶּשֶׁ, בְּאֵשֶׁ in Par. II. of the regular verbs. The student must resort to the Lexicon, in order to determine the forms of the respective Futures, etc. The verb אַשֵּׁ properly belongs to verbs שׁ Guttural; but it was necessary to employ it here, in order to exhibit the peculiar forms of the 2d person plural in the Praeter of Kal.

The examples under b. comprehend nearly all the verbs final Hholem, that have three radicals in Kal Praeter. Of the last four of them, no Infinitive Future or Imperative occurs.

No. IV. exhibits verbs with an Aspirate for the middle radical. Kal Inf. אָבָּרְ, 80. Fut. יְזָבֶר, 79. 2 and 81. 2, Note 2. Imp. יְזָבֵר, 80. Part. יְזָבֵר, 80. Niph. יְזָבָר, 79.2. Fut. יְזָבֵר, 10. Piel יְזָבֵר, 71. also 78, Note 2. Pual יְזַבֵּר, ib. Hiph. יְזָבֵר, 19. 2. Hoph. יְהַיְזַבֵּר, ib. Hith. יְהַחָזַבֵּר, 71. also 78, Note 2.

No. V. exhibits verbs with an Aspirate for their final radical. Kal Inf. const. לְּבָּלִי, Fut. בְּבָּלִי, Imp. בְּבָּלִי, Part. אָבָּלְיָלִי, Niph. בְּבָּלִי, Piel בְּבָּלִי, Pual בְּבָּלִי, Hiph. בְּבָּלִי, Hoph. בְּבָּלִי, Hith. הַבְּלֵילִי, all according to the principle in § 80, as corrected above. Also Imp. Fem. בְּבִּלִי בִּיה him-dhī (not בְּבִּלִי הַיּה בֹּעִרּ him-dī), 81. 1. Plur. בְּבִּלִי, ibid. 'The same is the case in the Imp. of Nos. VII. VIII. IX

^{*} In all references, the first number refers to section (§) in my Hebrew Grammar; the subjoined numbers or letters, to subdivisions in the same which follow; e.g. Imp. פְּקְדִי, פְּקְדִי, פְּקְדִי, פְּקְדִי, כְּפִּדְי, כְּפִּדְי, בְּחָבִּ, etc.; comp. 81. 1. 2, and Notes. The same principle applies, of course, to all cases of the like nature.

No. VI. exhibits verbs with two Aspirates for the two first radicals. Kal מוס, 79. 1. and 80.* Fut. במים, 80. and 81, Note 2; also 79. 2. Part. פֹבְים, 79. 1; also 80. Niph. בְּבָבּי, 80; also 79. 2, comp. 81, Note 2. Fut. יַבְּבֵי, yı̃k-kā-bhēsh, 71. and 78, Note 2; also 80. Piel מוס, 79. 1; also 71. Pual מוס, ibid. Hiph. בְּבִיי, 80; also 79. 2. Hoph. מוס, ibid. Hith. בְּבִיי, 79. 2; also 71. and 78, Note 2.

No. VII. exhibits verbs, with two Aspirates for the two final letters. Kal. Praet. אָבָּי, 80. Future בְּבָּי, 79. 2; also 80. Niph. בְּבָּי, ibid. Fut. אָבָּי, 80. Piel בְּבָּי, Pual בְּבָּי, 71; also 80. Hiph. בְּבָּיִר, 79. 2; also 80. Hoph. בְּבָּיִר, 79. 2; also 80. Hiph. בְּבָּיִר, 71; also 80.

No. VIII. exhibits verbs, with Aspirates for the first and third radicals. Kal Praet. בַּוֹבְ , 79. 1; also 80. Fut. בְּיִב, 79. 1; also 80. Put. בְּיַב, 71; also 80. Piel הַכְּיִב, 79. 1; also 80. Pual בָּוֹב, ibid. Hiph. הַכְּיִב, 80. Hoph. אָרָב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִב, ibid. Hiph. אָרָב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִב, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִבּ, ibid. Hiph. בְּיִבּ, ibid. Hiph. בּיִב, 19. 2; also 80.

No. IX. exhibits verbs, with Aspirates for all their radicals. There are very few of these, in the Hebrew language. Kal Praet. בַּחָב, 79. 1; also 80. Fut. בַּחָב, 80; also 79. 2; also 80. Niph. בַּחָב, 80; also 79. 2; also 80. Fut. Niph. בְּחָב, 71; also 80. Piel בַּחָב and Pual בַּחָב, 79. 1; also 71; also 80. Hiph. בְּחַב, 80; also 79. 2; also 80. Hoph. בְּחַבָּה, ibid. Hith. בְּחַבָּהָר, 80. 79. 2; also 71; also 80.

Remark. If the student will diligently and faithfully pursue the writing off of the various paradigms with Aspirates, he will, in this way, speedily acquire a familiar knowledge, not only of the usual forms of regular verbs in general, but of all the minutiae which pertain to the mode of writing them, when they contain Aspirates, in all their different conjugations, moods, and tenses.

^{*} In accumulated references like this case and others which follow, the design is, that they should answer to the various cases in which Daghesh lene is admitted or excluded, as they successively follow each other in each word.

Nos. X. XI. XII. exhibit verbs 5 Guttural, 5 Guttural, and 5 Guttural. The diversities of the Future, Imperfect, etc. are to be sought for in the Lexicon. The exercises in these are very important, in respect to the attainment of a proper knowledge of the manner in which the composite Shevas are employed in the Hebrew; and also of a knowledge of the manner in which the Gutturals affect the vowels, employed in connexion with them.

No. XIII. exhibits examples of verbs with Resh; viz. (a) Verbs in. (b) Verbs in. (c) Verbs in. In these it will be useful for the learner to exercise himself, so as to acquire, by experience, an accurate knowledge of the various departures from regular analogy, which these species of verbs exhibit.

No. XIV. exhibits verbs No, whose N is treated as a Guttural. The principles by which these are regulated, are to be sought for in § 224 seq., which treat of verbs Pe Guttural. Amarked with*) has two forms; for which consult the Lexicon.

No. XV. exhibits verbs \mathring{n}_{2} , with a quiescent \mathring{n} . Those with (*) have two forms; see Lex. Those with final \overrightarrow{n} , may be omitted until after the exercises in verbs \mathring{n}_{2} .

No. XVI. exhibits, (a) Verbs of the first class in with Fut. Tseri in both syllables. Actual instances of the Fut. do not occur in all the examples, but they are ranged according to probability; § 244. a. (b) Verbs with final Pattahh and penult Hhireq long; § 244. b. It should be added, that the penult syllable, rather than the ultimate, distinguishes these two species of verbs; e.g. In belong to the class a, because they have Tseri in the penult, and take Pattahh final only because of a Guttural or Resh, § 113. But in the class b, the penult vowel is Hhireq; and besides this, the Imp., Inf. and Fut. usually retain the first radical, viz. the Yodh.

No. XVII. exhibits all the verbs of the second class 50. Of these, * pbelongs, in Kal, to class 3d; it is only in Hiphil, that its characteristics are developed. It should be noted, too, that property and property, produced as examples in § 249 of the Grammar, are not reckoned in the list contained in § 248. Note. This is because property, in one form and meaning of it, belongs to verbs of but the corresponding Arabic verb, viz. , belongs to the genuine class of in that language.

No. XVIII. exhibits all the verbs of Class III., whether they belong wholly or partly to this species. Further examination of this class of verbs makes me more inclined to assign them, in general, to roots לָּבָּי, as Simonis and Eichhorn have done. But these lexicographers are not consistent throughout with themselves. For example, they call the Daghesh in the Inf. of לֵבֶי, (in לֵבֶי, viz. לֵבֶי etc., they say, is borrowed from בַּבָּי; to which, however, they assign no meaning kindred with that of בַבִּי. So also, בַּבֵּייִ (1 Sam. 6: 12) is said to borrow its form from בַּבָּי; all of which does not stand well together.

As to the form הַבְּי, it may be referred to the root הְבָּי, Hiph. הַבְּי, formed according to § 261, in a manner resembling that of the Chaldee. But the student had better follow the Lexicons in his praxis; I mean such Lexicons as conform to the arrangement of Gesenius, which differs from that of Simonis.

No. XIX. exhibits verbs jo, whose different Futures, Imperatives, Infinitives, etc. must be sought for in the Lexicon.

Nos. XX. XXI. exhibit verbs 30 and 50, many of which also present more or less variations from the Paradigms; all of which should be noticed in the exercises upon them.

In No. XXI., a. exhibits such verbs as have a quiescent; b. such as have a regular moveable, and are to be regularly declined; c. verbs Ayin Yodh, which exhibit peculiar forms in Kal only.

No. XXII. presents verbs &, with various combinations of Aspirates, Gutturals, etc.; to which due attention should be paid.

No. XXIII. consists of verbs 7, in most of their varieties. The student should practise writing off and declining those which have Gutturals, Resh, etc. in them, as well as the others. The Lexicon will give him the various forms in the different conjugations.

No. XXIV. contains verbs $\dot{n}\dot{b}$, the peculiarities of which are designated in § 293.

Note. For verbs doubly anomalous, see Grammar § $294\,\mathrm{seq.}$, which exhibits nearly all the cases that occur.

NOUNS MASCULINE.

No. XXV. nouns of Dec. I., with immutable vowels. The word made belongs here, only in its singular number. No. XXVI. nouns of Dec. II., with only the final vowel mutable. No. XXVII. nouns of Dec. III., with only the penult vowel mutable.

No. XXVIII. nouns of Dec. IV., with the ultimate and penult vowels mutable. The few which have a Segholate form in the construct state, may be discovered by consulting the Lexicon; see § 355. 5.

No. XXIX. nouns of Dec. V., with ultimate and penult vowels mutable, but in a peculiar way, so far as it respects the construct state; \S 358. 3.

No. XXX. exhibits nouns of Dec. VI., which has a large variety of forms. The divisions, 1. 2. 3. etc. explain themselves. The student should in a particular manner bestow his attention on this declension, both on account of its frequency in the language, and the difficulties which attend it.

No. XXXI. nouns of Dec. VII., all of which seem to be mere participials, having the form of the Part. present in Kal, and almost exclusively an active sense.

No. XXXII. exhibits nouns of Dec. VIII., which are not very numerous in the language. In making out the various forms, the student will be careful to note, that for the vowel-changes he must consult the other declensions, according to the nature of the vowels in the words belonging to this. It is the reduplication of the last letter of the ground-form, in case of accession, and this only, which characterises Dec. VIII.

It should be noted also, that strictly speaking, \(\gamma\) and \(\Gamma_2\), in the Paradigm of Dec. VIII. (Gramm. p. 228), do not belong to Dec. VIII., because the final letter is not actually doubled, when these words receive accession. So far as the mere mode of declension is concerned, these words belong to Dec. I.; but in respect to the real implied nature of them, they rank with words in Dec. VIII.

No. XXXIII. nouns of Dec. IX. These are quite uniform in their changes, and are but a small class in respect to number.

NOUNS FEMININE.

Nos. XXXIV—XXXVII. exhibit the various classes of fem. nouns. The anomalous plurals of Dec. XIII. will require particular attention. The Lexicons afford the necessary aid for making out the various forms of them.

PART II.

NOTES AND EXPLANATIONS.

In the Preface to my Hebrew Grammar, p. vii., I have given general directions for the first reading or study of the same, recommending that the parts included in brackets should be omitted, and that when the student has advanced as far as the declension of nouns, he should begin to read and parse in the Chrestomathy. In addition to what is there generally said, I would now add, that the various accounts of all the irregular verbs may be lightly passed over, in the first reading of the Grammar; for the object of this reading is rather to shew the student where he can find what he needs, than to make him acquainted with the details of the various forms, etc. of the language. When the student, therefore, has advanced to § 332 in the Grammar, and made a beginning in his exercises on Part I. No. I. of this Chrestomathy, as directed in p. 57 above, he should then commence his exercises in Part. II. of this work, taking only a few words for the first lessons; and at the same time, he should continue his grammatical recitations regularly, and also his exercise on Part I. as mentioned above, adapting them, as to length, to the time which he has to spare for them. He must be cautioned here, against yet making the Chrestomathy a principal study, and the Grammar and Praxis only a subordinate one; for the main object of the Chrestomathy is, to introduce him to a thorough knowledge of the Grammar and Praxis.

In going forward with the Grammar beyond § 332, the student may confine himself, for the first reading, principally to what is printed in large type. When he has advanced to the Syntax, let him stop there, and commence again with his Grammar, reading carefully, but not committing to memory, what is included in brackets; and after the brackets are omitted, (i. e. from § 332 onwards), reading in like manner what is printed in small type. During this second reading of the Grammar, let him commit to memory and recite regularly, the Paradigms of verbs and nouns, as they respectively occur. This will greatly facilitate learning to parse and construe, in the Chrestomathy; while on the other hand, the exercises here will much facilitate, and render more interesting, his exercises in the Grammar and Praxis in Part I. above.

The teacher should take special care, all along, that the lessons in the Chrestomathy be so apportioned as merely to promote and accelerate the acquisition of the Grammar, and not to interfere at all with real and solid progress in it. Students are usually very desirous to push on, in obtaining a knowledge of the manner merely of translating Hebrew words, and seem to be satisfied that they are making rapid progress in the language, when they can translate a considerable portion at a lesson. But this is a mistake; and often it is one, which leads on so as utterly to defeat, in the sequel, all accurate study and knowledge of the Hebrew at a future period. Students will usually go on as they have begun to proceed; and it is harder to turn about, and break up old habits of loose and inaccurate study, than it is to form a correct habit at the outset.

It is for this reason, that I have chosen, so far as I am able by means of the notes which follow, to conduct the student in the way of thorough analysis, from the very beginning. I have tried both ways of studying a language, on myself and on my pupils; and I am most fully persuaded, that for adults, it is best to enter radically into analysis, from the very outset. It may be different with children; but in the business of this Chrestomathy, children are not concerned.

I have endeavoured to leave nothing unexplained in the Notes, which the student may know, and ought to know, in the initial stages of his study. All my readers have before them, in these Notes, what I should give them if I were personally present as their instructer. By proceeding in this way, they will go slowly, indeed, at first, but surely. In a little time, principles will begin to appear plain and familiar. Apparent irregularities in the forms of words will diminish apace, by a constant reference to those parts of the Grammar which explain them; and these once mastered, the progress will be much more rapid in Hebrew, than either in Latin or Greek; for the former language is far more simple than either of the latter.

In going the second time over the Grammar, the student should proceed on through the Syntax. On completing this, let the study of the whole Grammar be immediately recommenced, with more particularity than before; and so a fourth, a fifth, and (at least) a sixth time. The regular recitation, at every Lecture, of some portion of the Grammar, should not be intermitted at all, for the first six months of study.

In regard to the Accents, I have introduced but few of them into this second part. I did not wish to embarrass the student with too many of them, at first. I have used only such as serve for the larger pause-accents; or such as mark a penult tone-syllable. The latter I have employed, principally for the sake of directing the student where to lay the stress of voice, in reading the Hebrew words. Those which are not marked with any accents, have the tone on the ultimate syllable, according to the general rule in § 99 of the Grammar; a considerable number, also, which are marked with pause-accents, have the tone on the ultimate.

Most persons who study the Hebrew, either partially or wholly neglect the Accents. They do so, because it seems to require too much time and attention to become well acquainted with them. But such a knowledge of them as is requisite for grammatical and exegetical purposes, may be attained with a very moderate share of attention. Let this be obtained gradually, from the commencement of study, and the loss of time occasioned by it will never be felt. The student may rest assured, that he never will regret having followed this advice. The accents are not, indeed, of any binding authority; but they are often a grateful exegetical and grammatical aid. At any rate, no Hebrew student can fail to perceive, that an acquaintance with them is desirable. He need not go into the fictitious schemes and subtilties of a Wasmuth, a Boston, and many others, concerning them; but their general and usual powers and object, he ought to understand.

In reciting this second Part, the student should be required to give an account of the principle or the rule, in the Grammar, to which any and every reference is made in the Notes that follow. The instructer will thus be enabled to determine, whether the student has bestowed due labour upon the acquisition of what he professes to recite.

Should the learner, at any time, feel himself unable to construe any of the select Sentences, in Part II., he will find, in the Notes, a reference to the place in the Hebrew Bible from which any sentence is extracted. He can, therefore, consult the corresponding English translation, if necessary. In regard to such passages, however, as are taken from the book of Psalms, the English and the Hebrew verses do not always correspond. The reason is, that in Hebrew, the title of a Psalm is reckoned as its first verse; but in English, this is never done. Consequently, when the Psalm has a title, the English verses are one behind the Hebrew, and must be looked for accordingly.

I. Ps. 7:12. אֱלְהַרָּם, ground form sing. אֱלָהַרָּם (אֵּרּנֹס ah), Dec. I., the final He having Mappiq, 84,* and consequently being moveable. The vowel under the He is Pattahh furtive, 69, which, not being a proper vowel, fails away when the word is changed by receiving the accession בּיִב, which forms the plural, 325. The in the sing is omitted in the plural, because the syllable joined on to make the plural, has a Quiescent in it, 65. אֱלָהָרִם agrees with אֵלֶהָרִם, a Part in the singular, 437. 2.

שרבים, act. Part., root שַּשָּׁשׁ, 202. It is here, (and so often elsewhere), employed as a verb in the present tense, announcing ^{*} Note. Throughout, the first reference in common numerals, is to the Section (§) in the Hebrew Grammar. If there be a second, or third reference connected, they relate to subdivisions under the first. But when several sections are referred to in succession, the signs §§ stand before them, or the word and, or also, is inserted between them.

a general proposition, Syntax 527. a. Meaning: 'God vindicates, decides in favour of, the righteous.'

קדיב, adj. used as a noun, and employed here in a generic sense, i. e. as a noun of multitude; with vowels immutable, and therefore like Dec. I. of nouns; Acc. after מַלְּיִם, Synt. 531. The accent under the word בְּדֶּיב, although of the same form as the Methegh, is not one here, and never is one at the end of a verse, but is a Silluq, 85. Note, also 93. No. 1. The two large square points, after בְּיִבְּיַ, are the Hebrew period, called בְּלִים, i. e. end of a verse. With these, Silluq invariably stands connected, being either on the ultimate or penult syllable of the final word. This explanation will serve for all future cases of the same nature.

II. Ecc. 3: 17. און sign of the Acc., 408. 4. and 427. The ground form און, with a long vowel (Tseri), shortens that vowel here because Maqqeph follows, 89.

יה , the syllable הָ is the article, whose usual punctuation is הַ followed by a Daghesh forte, §§ 162. 163. As the Daghesh cannot be admitted into the ה, 111, the vowel Pattahh belonging to the article is prolonged instead thereof, 112; see also 152. a.

2. שַּיִּדְי is an adj. employed as a generic noun (like בַּדִּי in No. 1) of Dec. IV., in the Acc. here, governed by בַּשִּי. Note; the position of the Acc. before the verb or Part. which governs it, seldom occurs in Hebrew, except among the inversions which poetry occasions.

ບ່ອນຸ້າ, Fut. of ບ່ອນຸ້າ, §§ 197. 198. Meaning: 'God will condemn, pronounce sentence against, the wicked.' ບ່ອນຸ້າ may also be rendered in the present tense, 'condemns,' as in universal propositions, Synt. 504. b.

ק הַ הְּאֵלְהִים, ק is the Art. here, 162 seq., and 152. a. 2. The use of the article before אֵלְהִים, (a kind of proper name), is not common, 413. For אַלְהִים, see under No. 1.

III. Prov. 30: 5. לֶבֶּ (köl), Kaph with Dag. lene, 79.1. Groundform בְּבֹ (köl) with long O pure, which is shortened before a Maqqeph, 89. In Hebrew בַ, all, is a noun; and בַ is in regimen here with מַבָּב, 332. מָבֶּב, lit. universitas verbi.

אַבֶּרָת, Dec. XII. 387—389, see Parad. of Dec. XII. Groundform אָבֶר, being derived from the masc. form, אָבֶר, having only the final vowel mutable, in the singular, agreeably to the laws in 381. אָבֶרָת is in the Gen. as it regards בָּבָּי; but in regimen or the construct state, in respect to אָבִלּה, 434. b.—אַבָּר is in the Gen. after אָבָרָת, see for the word, under No. 1 above. In Latin, we may translate the three words אַבְּלַבְּת אֱבָּרָת אָבְרָת אָבִּרָת אָבִּלּהַ. by universitas verbi Dei.

אַרּפָּם, fem. Part. from the root אָרֵבְּ, Part. pass. masc. is אָרִפּּם, 202, of Dec., III.; hence fem. אָרִפּּם, 323; under examples in Par. of Dec. III., see אַצּיּר with its feminine, in 323.

IV. Is. 40: 8. בתר, const. of הְּבָּר, Dec. IV., 354, see Par. of Dec. IV. בתר, plural of בוֹלָהָ (see No. 1), in the suff. state, 334, ביבה being the suffix of the 1st pers. plural; see Par. in 336. The plur. ending ביב is dropped in order to receive the suffix, 339. The accent (– i. e. Tiphhha) under the בוֹ, is a Disjunctive, 93. Par. No. 4; which is used here, in order to mark the tone on the penult syllable, 100. j.

קקה, Fut. of דָּדְּס ף, 268. b. see Par. of the verb. Meaning: Shall endure, continue.'—בּיְבֹיביׁ, בְּ a preposition, 152. b, governing the Acc. here.—בּיְבֹיל , Dec. II. 347. and Par.

V. Ps. 119: 11. בַּלְבֵּי, prep. 152. b, with Dagh. lene, 79. 1.—קבָּי, noun from בַּ, Dec. VIII, 374. also 375. b. For the shortening of the Tseri in בַּל, when it receives the accession בי (suff. pronoun), see 129. c. a; comp. under 128. b.—For the suff. pronoun ב, see 336. Par. 1st person sing. under d.

The conjunctive accent Munahh, (-93. No. 21), marks the penult tone-syllable, 100. d. Meaning: 'Treasured up, laid up.'

אָמִלְּהָה, for the word אַמְלֶּהְ, see under No. 3 above. אַבְּרֶהְ, is a suffix-pronoun, 336. Par. a. 2d pers. sing. masc. The (¬) after the penult vowel (¬), is the Accent Silluq, 93. Par. No. 1. The form of the word with the accent on the ultimate, would be, אָבְּרֶהְאָ; in which case, the first accent under the Resh is a Methegh, see in 66 under E.g. But in consequence of the tone being thrown back, 100. l, the Silluq falls on the Sheva under ה and converts it into Seghol, 148. The form אַבְּרֶהְ, in No. 3. above, becomes אַבְּרֶה here, because, the n being thrown into another syllable, the Resh and its vowel make a simple syllable, which causes the vowel to become long, 130. a.

VI. Ps. 119: 161. מְּרָבֶרָה is a prefix preposition, in its original form 77; but here (as usual) the 7 assimilates with the following 7, and is written in it by a Daghesh forte, 71, comp. אס אין אין דבר is from דבר Dec. IV., see Par. It is in the suffix state, 334, having the pronoun 7 appended, 336. Par. a. 2d pers. masc. For the difference between the const. form (הְבַק), and the suffix-form, see Par. of Dec. IV. The reason of Qamets under the = , in such forms as in=7, 7,57, etc. is found in the mode of syllabication. In the cases just named, the Resh is thrown into the last syllable, which leaves the syllable simple in which a stands, and of course prolongs the vowel, 130. a.—In regard to the accent over the 7, i. e. the dot over it like a Hholem, it is a distinctive accent named Rebhia, 93. No. 10. It is added here, because it has an influence on the Pe at the beginning of the word which follows, causing Dagh. lene to be inserted, although Pe is preceded by a vowel, 79. 3. Were it not for such an accent, the Pe would of course omit Dagh, lene, 80.

সাত্ৰ, Kal. Praeter, Fut. A. The student should here search the Lexicon for the conjugations of this verb, which are actually employed, and make out a synopsis of them.—For সূট্ট see No. 5. It is the Nom. to সাত্ৰ here; and the Nom., in Hebrew, is more usually put next after the verb.

אָטֶר, commonly a pronoun, 168, but here a conjunction, 409. מ.—אָמְרֶהְיִּהְ, see in No. 5, where the pause-accent makes a difference in the penult syllable.—אָמֶרֶה, root יַשָּׁבָּר The form, without the accent Silluq, would be אַמָּכֶּי, see Par. I of reg. verbs, Kal Praet. 3 pers. plural. But the accent restores the original Pattahh under the Mem, and lengthens it, 146.

VIII. Deut. 4: 2. הוֹסְבּוֹ, root רְּכֵּוֹ, verb יֹם first class, see Par. VIII. Hiph. Fut. 2 pers. plural masc. The Yodh between the two last radicals and characteristic of Hiphil, is here omitted, as being quiescent in the preceding vowel, Hhireq, 63. The full form would be הוֹסִיםוּ. The Dag. lene is not inserted in the m which begins the word, because the preceding word ends in a vowel-sound, and has no pause-accent upon it, 80.

קבְּבֶּר, the הַ followed by Dag. forte is the article, 163.—הְבָּבְר, is a proper relative pronoun here, 168.—אָלָבִיר, 164. 1st pers. singular.

קבּעָּה, from אָדָבְּ a verb אֹדֹ, a Part. in Piel; the י is moveable here, 268. a. Note, comp. 271. b; see Par. XVI. Piel. The Part. אָבָרָה, preceded by the pronoun אָבָּרָ, is used in the room of a verb of the present tense, Synt. 527. a.—בּבָּה, אָאָ the sign of the Acc., 427. בּבָּ, fragment of a pronoun, 2 pers. plur. masc. 336. For the manner of union with אַבָּרָה, see 408, Par. of אַבָּרָה of Accusative. The Acc. בּבָּאָרָה, is governed by the Participle, Synt. 526. a.

IX. Prov. 17: 27. דְּשֵׁךְ, Part. act. Kal, 202. from דְּשַׁרָ, Fut. Pattahh with rough enunciation, בְּשָׁרָ, 225. בְּשָׁרָ, ground-form אָבֶּר, Dec. VI. E class, 364; in the plural, with the suff. בין attached, 336. Par. c. 3d pers. sing. masc. In order to receive this suffix, the appropriate ending of the plural (בִּיב) is dropped, 339; see Par. XXIV.

ירֹבֶץ, root דְבֵּי of בּ first class, Part. act. Kal, 202; for Pattahh furtive under Ayin, see 69. For peculiarities in Hith, see Lex.

— אוֹלָי, with Silluq (93. Par. No. 1) which prolongs the Pattahh under the Daleth, 144. אוֹלָי (the orig. form) is properly a fem. Inf. form, Dec. XIII. 390. Comp. 195. Note. The masc. form of the Inf. is אַבָּ (de אַבָּי) with Pattahh furtive, 69; the fem. Segholate form, therefore, is אַבַ , 141. It is used as a mere noun. Meaning: 'Knowledge, knowing.' Governed by אַבָּי , Synt. 531.

X. Obad. verse 21. יְהֵיְחָה, vehã-yethã, and [the kingdom shall be, Praet. with יו used for the Future, Synt. 503. e, root יולה verb לה, 280. Par. XVI. For Methegh under the first He, see 66. e. g. and 87. c.

קלהנה , an anomalous form. The true original points of the word יְחִנְה are unknown; the Jews, from time immemorial, having omitted to sound it, when reading the Scriptures. Instead of the proper word ההוה, they read אַרֹּבָּי. Accordingly, בֹּרִבָּי, has the appropriate vowel-pointing of אַבּרֹבָי , an abridged form of the proper word. 119. c. 1. בַּבְּרֹבָי is in the Dat. of possession, after בַּרְבִּרֹבָי, like the Latin est mihi, est tibi, etc.

הַבְּלֵּכְה, הַ art. 162. הַלְּבֶּבָה, Dec. X. 380., Nom. to הַּבְּלַבְּה. The Dat. of possession more commonly follows, as here, immediately after the verb of existence, and the Nom. of the verb then succeeds.

XI. Prov. 1: 7. בְּרְאָה, Dec. X., in the const. state, from בְּרָאָה , see in No. 10.—בְּרָאָה , noun of Dec. I., because all the vowels are immutable, fem. ending ביה 319. Note 2, in const. state with הַבָּה; for which last word, see in No. 9.

XII. Prov. 1: 22. בְּכֵּלְבֶּח, Dec. I. plur.—יְנְיּאָר, verb אָלָּא, 276. Par. XV. Fut. 3d pers. plur.—יְדָּבָּא, for Qamets, see in No. 9. The Daghesh in Daleth is a mistake in the printing. It should be ד Raphe, i. e. without a Daghesh lene, 80.

XIII. Prov. 18: 15. בל, see under No. 5.—קלב, Part. in Niph. from בל, 273 and comp. 268. b, Dec. III. 350 and Par.— יַּקְבָּיָר, Fut. Kal from בְּיִרְ verb בֹּיל, 282. b.—מבּיך, see in No. 9. But the Daghesh is here euphonic (not lene), 75. a, and is called Dag. conjunctive; for the word בַּיְדָּ is preceded by a syllable ending in a vowel, which has no accent upon it (comp. 80), and Dagh. lene would be omitted in such a case. The two words, מבֹיִר בַּיִר, are read, ȳuq-nēd-dā-āth. The Maqqeph between them takes away the accent from the first word, 89.

XIV. Ps. 94: 11. קְּהַלְּהְי, in No. 10. בְּיַבְּעֵּר, No. 9. בְּיִבְּעַבְּי, No. 94: 11. בְּיִבְּיִבְּי, in No. 10. בְּיִבְּעַבְּי, No. 94: 11. בְּיִבְּיִבְּי, Dec. XI. or XIII. const. plur. בְּיבָּי, Dec. IV. but it has no const. or plur. state. בְּיבִּי that, conj. בְּיבִּי they, or they are, Synt. 469. In בַּיבָּי, the בַּיבָּי, is paragogic, as the penult accent denotes, it being under the first syllable. The accent here employed, is a conjunctive, viz. Merka, 93. No. 23. In regard to the penult tone, see 100. i.

לְּבֶּבֶּל, orig. form הָבֶּבָּל, which has its first vowel changed by a pause-accent, 144. Dec. VI. A and E form.

XV. Prov. 9: 10. הְּחָבֶּה, Dec. X. const. — הְּחָבֶּה (hhōkh-mā) Dec. X., Gen. after הַּחָבָּה, 332.—הַבָּי, No. 11. Before this word, the verb of existence (הָּבָה) is understood, 554. In such propositions it is very rarely expressed.

אָרָבְּיֵר, see in No. 9, where the larger pause-accent prolongs the first vowel. Here, the accent (which marks the penult tone, 100. a) being only of the second class of Disjunctives, 93. No. 5, it produces no effect on the vowel; as is often the case.—בְּיִבְּיִר lit. of the Holy ones, i. e. of God, the plural being used as plur. excellentiae, 437. 2. g. The sing. is בִּיבִּר , Dec. III. For the omission of the Vav in the plural, see on בִּיבִּר under No. 1.—בִּיבָּר, Dec. X., the verb of existence being understood before it, 554.

XVI. Ecc. 1: 18. בֹרְבָּ, בְּ a preposition, Dag. lene, 79. 1; בֹר, Dec. VIII. form as e, no plural; with Maqqeph בַבְ (röbh) short O, 89. בַּבֶּט, from בָּבֵּט, with pause-accent, 93. No. 2.— אָיִיֹטִיף, נְיִיּטִיף, Fut. Hiph. from בְּבָּח, 243. b. בַּבָּח with accent on the penult tone, 100. a.—בַּבְּאוֹב , Dec. I. the vowels being immutable.

XVII. Prov. 12: 1. אַרְבָּא for אַרְבָּא , 63. also 202. and Synt. 527. a.—קוֹבְבָּא , Dec. II.—אָרְבָּא ; conj., אַרֹבָּא , 202.—חּבֹבָּא , Dec. XII., ה at the beginning Raphe, i. e. without Dag. lene, 80 and 83, because of the preceding vowel, with conjunctive accent on the penult tone, 100. a.

XVIII. Ps. 22: 29. לְהַהְּלְּיְבָה , No. 10. הַמְּלִּיְבָה , ibid. בְּמִנִים , ibid. בְמִנִים , 202 and 527. a. בְּמִנְיִם , בַ with Dag. lene, 79. 2. The full form would be בְּבְּבִּיִם , but the article הַ suffers syncope in such cases, 152. a. Note.

XIX. Ps. 145: 13. אָרָבְּיבָי, האָרְבָּיבְ, noun. fem. Dec. I. in the sing., a Heteroclite in the plural, not ranking under any of the declensions, with vowels immutable; e.g. plur. בַּיבְּבָּיבְּה, 326. c. For the omission of Dag. lene in the בֹּ, see 82. b.—ק suff. pronof 2d person, 336. Par. a. 2d masc. singular.

קלכור it, 554.— בּבְּלֵבְיּה in reg., the verb of existence being understood before it, 554.— בּבְּלֵבְיּה (kōl), 89.—בּבְּבְּיִבְּי, from בּבְּיִב, Dec. II. For the omission of the , see 63. Lit. thy kingdom [is] a kingdom of all ages, regnum universitatis seculorum, i. e. eternal.— בְּבִיבְיִבְיּ, זְּ instead of יִ, 152. c. 4, noun of Dec. XIII., יִ suff., point over it is the accent Rebbia, 93. No. 10.—בּבְבַ (bɛkhōl), 89. Beth with Dag. lene, because a pause-accent precedes, 79. 3.—בּבִי, יַ instead of יִ, 152. c. 3.

XX. Ps. 103: 19. בְּשָׁמֵים for בְּשָׁמֵים, 152. a. Note, הַ being the article; שָׁמֵים, dual form, but used as plural, 329. Note 2. For the accent at the beginning of the word, see 93. No. 5. 95. a. The real tone-syllable is the penult here, 100. b. הַכִּין, כּוֹן hiph. of הַכִּין, כּוֹן is a contracted form, used instead of הַכִּין, פוֹן, 268. b. e. g.

יברסא , root בּרְכֵּא , the ה being assimilated, 107. 1. c. In all the suff. and plur. forms, the Dag. forte is dropped, e.g. אַכְּאָיִה, הַכְּאִיה, etc. and so in הַכְּאִיה, 73. Note 3. This practice is so uniform, as to point to the necessity of another root, viz. אַכָּאָ Dec. VI. e, where all the forms may be made; considering all the instances of the plur. to be in reg., or in the suff. state, as they may be considered. But if these forms may be all regarded as coming from אַכָּאַ, they belong to Dec. VII. 371.—i suff. pronoun, 336. Par. b. 3 masc. sing.

י הְּבְּלְכּוּתוֹ , זֹ (for יְ) 152. c. 4.—הְבָּלְכּוּתוֹ, in No. 19.—i as above.
—בְּבָּלְנִוֹתוֹ (instead of בְּבִּלְנִוֹן), 152. a. Note. בְּבָּלְנִוֹתוֹ (instead of בְּבַּלְנִוֹן), 152. a. Note. בְּבָּלְנִוֹן (instead of בְּבֵּלְנִוֹן), 152. a. Note. בְּבָּלְנִוֹן (instead of בְּבַּלְנִוֹן), with Silluq (93. No. 1) on the penult, which restores the original vowel (Pattahh) under the בּ (for the original ground-form is בְּבֵּלְנִוֹן), and prolongs such restored vowel, 146. It is a verb Praet. 3d pers. fem.

XXI. Prov. 10: 1. קב, Heteroclite, forms in the sing. mostly of Dec. VII; but not all, e. g. const. אָדָ, plur. דְּבָּבִּים, Part. adjective, Dec. IV.—קבָּים, Fut. Piel from עָּבָּים, §§ 235. 236.

אָאָ, Heteroclite, see Lex.; the accent on it should be an Athnahh (ֻ), 93. No. 2, and not a Methegh. הַבֶּן, 152. c. 4.—הַגָּה, const. of הַנְּהָ, Dec. X., theme הָנָה, the verb of existence (הַרָּה, is implied before it, 554.—יֹאַמּ, יֹ suff. pronoun; אַאָּ from אָּ , Dec. VIII. d; for Daghesh, and vowel-change, see 129. c. a.

XXII. Prov. 10: 4. אַרָּק, so written for יַּרָ, 270. 1 and 5, comp. 117. 2. שׁרָ is a Part. form, from שֹּוֹר. It is in the Acc. here, governed by שֹּיֵּי ; but such a position of the Acc. (viz. before the word which governs it) belongs rather to the liberties of poetry, to which class of composition the book of Proverbs belongs.—הַשָּׁי, Part. pres. from שִּׁשָּׁי, 282. b. and Par XVI.—קב, without Dag. lene in the בּ, because a vowel sound precedes without a disjunctive accent, 80, in reg. with יַרְבָּיִר; which last word is of Dec. X. Lit. בַּרְרַבְּיֵבוּ רָבִיּבְּיַר. the hand of sloth.

קרנצים, const. of יָד, Dec. II. a.—קרנצים, adj. with Qamets immutable, because it stands for הַלְּבִּים, 112. and 32, plur. of הַלְּבִיבּים, Fut. Hiph. 3 pers. sing. fem. (דְּבָּיִבָּים, Fut. in Kal is with the rough enunciation, יַשִּׁבִּיר, 225. Par. IV. The accent under Shin is Silluq. 93. No. 1; that under the Tav is Methegh, 87. a.

XXIII Prov. 10: 6. בְּרֶכוֹת , plur. Dec. XI. c.—עמֹים (for שֹׁיִם 118, or for מָּיִם 119. c. 3), a Heteroclite in its plur. forms, e. g. רָאשִׁים , etc., if considered merely in respect to appearance. In reality, בְאשִׁים , 119. c. 3, and בְאשִׁים , 118; and these forms would be regular in Dec. VI. i. It is preceded by the verb of existence implied, 554.

קבים, אולפ. כ. 4; פרים const. of פרים, plur. הוא מות אולים, a Heteroclite. בְּבָּים, plur. Dec. IV. בַבָּים, Fut. Piel of בְּבָּים, Dec. IV. On the sense of this latter hemistich, commentators are much divided. Umbreit, the latest commentator on the book of Proverbs, understands ב as designating the organ of enjoyment, and construes the clause thus: 'The injustice which the evil man practises, prevents his enjoyment of divine blessings.' This, however, seems rather far-fetched. May not Rom. 19, "να παν στόμα φοαγή, cast some light upon the phrase? The sentiment may be, 'The man of violence, instead of being blessed of Jehovah, shall be treated as guilty;' or, (as it seems to be here expressed), 'No plea for himself shall be admitted, his violence shall cover, i. e. stop, his mouth.'—στόμα αὐτοῦ φοαχθήσεται.

Another explanation is, perhaps, equally probable, if not more so. Dip may designate the violence done to the wicked, not done by him; and so be the direct antithesis of pip blessings, in the preceding clause. So Ziegler understands it, in his commentary on the Proverbs. The sense would then be, 'Violence, i. e. severe punishment, shall stop the mouth of the wicked, i. e. strike him dumb, render him unable to speak;' a lot very different from that of the righteous, 'on whose head blessings rest.'

XXIV. Prov. 10: 7. אָבֶר (also אָבָר), with acc. Munahh marking the penult tone, Dec. VI. e and d, const. before אַבְּרָבְיּ; which last is used in a generic sense.—אָבָרְבָּרָה, לְּבְרָבָּר, אָ prep. pointed with Hhireq because it comes before another Sheva, 137, and its own proper point is Sheva, אָ , 152. b. But two Shevas before a vowel are inadmissible, 90. 2. comp. 43 seq.; consequently the first goes into a short vowel, 137.—The verb of existence is understood before אַבְּרָבָּרְבָּרְ (which is of Dec. XI.), and the noun with its preposition, is used as an adjective, 442; i.e. 'The name of the righteous shall be blessed,' meaning that men will bless or speak well of them.

ק , (יְנְקּב c.), const. of שֵׁם, Dec. VII. מ.—קר, 212. 1, בְּרֶבְּרָ, 212. 1, בְּיִלְבּר. with Silluq, 144.

Note), Dim with I merely a fulcrum, 64, because the Hholem here is pure; before Maqqeph it is Dim tom, with suff. Dim, e.g. as indicated etc. 129. c.b, Dec. VIII. f.— it, Fut. of it, the quiescent of the root is dropped, 244. a. The usual form is it, but in the text, the final syllable of this word immediately precedes an accented syllable in the next one, which causes the accent to be thrown back, 101. d, and consequently the long vowel Tseri is changed into a short one, 129. a.— it is, Dec. VI. h, used as an adverb here, 403. b. Athnahh marks the penult tone.

קְּבֶבֶּי, Part. Piel from בְּיִלְּיִר. עָבָקָי, plur. with suff. בְּיָלָי, 336. § 339, ground-form דָּבֶּדְ, Dec. VI. מ.—יַבָּדְי, Niph. Fut., root יָבָּרָבָּ, 243. b. For the final Pattahh furtive, see 69.

XXVI. Prov. 10: 11. מְקוֹר Dec. III. const. הַיָּרֶם, sing. דֶּר, which however is used only as an adjective, Dec. VIII. i. פּרָש, see under No. 23. יַבְּטָה דֶּבְיֶּה, see under No. 23.

XXVII. Prov. 10: בְּרֵב, No. 16. בְּרֶב, plur. Dec. IV. מּ. בְּרֶב, Par. IV. מָשֶׁבֶּ, ground-form בְּּתְבָּ, Dec. VI. h; for Qamets under בּ, 144. שָׁבָּה, dual with suff. בְּרָר, from שָּבָּה, Dec. XI. מּ. בְּיִבְּהָ, Part. Hiph. from בְּשָׁבָּל.

XXVIII. Prov. 10: 20. In אָפָבָּ, the accent Munahh marks the penult as the seat of the tone. אַבְּבָּ, Part. Niph.—זְישׁבָּ, Dec. III.; verb of existence before it, Synt. 554.—בַּ, No. 5. בַּבְּיבָּ, אַ conj. here becomes בּ, see בְּ in No. 24. בַּבְּיבָ, (without accent בַּבָּיבָ), a proper adj. Lit. The heart of the wicked [is] like something little, or, like a little thing; i.e. is mean, worthless.

XXX. Prov. 15: 33. רְרָאֵרָ No. 11. מְרָסָרָ, const. of Dec. II., verb of existence implied before it, 554. יְרָלְּפָרֵי , יְרָסְרָּבִּי , יְרְסִיּרָ, אָרָי , const. plur. of יִרְּבָּי, which has no sing. 327. 3. The probable ground-form in the sing. is אָפָרָה used as a prep. 407. c. For b with Hhireq, see in No. 24. בְּרָרָה , Dec. III. עַבְּרָרָה , Dec. XI., verb of existence implied before it, 554. Meaning: 'The fear of Jehova, i. e. piety, is the instruction of wisdom,' i. e. wise instruction, 440, or, a learning of wisdom; 'and before honour,' i. e. exaltation or praise from men, 'is humility,' viz. a humble, unambitious spirit, is of greater worth than any honour which men can bestow; or, 'honour is preceded by humility,' i. e. the way to attain true honour is to be humble.

XXXI. Prov. 16: 2. בַּרְבֵּר, const. plur. Dec. VI. a.—קַּב, adj. Dec. VII., sing. and in concord with בָּרֶרָּר, בָּעִינְיִרּ, בְּעִינָיִר, בָּיִר from אָבָן. Dec. VI. o. dual const. § 338. § 339, suff. in 336.—קבה Part. act. Kal.—הזרח, comm. gen. Dec. I., sing. אין with Pattahh furtive, 69. For fem. plur. see 327. 1, comp. 321. Meaning: 'In a man's own view his actions are pure; but Jehovah, who looks upon the heart of man, estimates him according to the character of his spirit or internal man.'

XXXII. Prov 16: 6. אָבֶּיבֶּהְ , זְּלֵּהְרָּהְ, 152 c.—אָבֶיבָּהְ , an abridged form of אָבֶיבָּהְ, 107. 2. The prep. בּ is understood before it.— בַּבָּר, Fut. Pual from בַּבָּר, used as present tense, 504. b. בַּבְּיִרְ אַמּרִּסָּח), Dec. III.—אָבָיבְּיִּהְ זְּלֵּבְּרָ אַרָּהְ, 152. c. 4; בַּ prep.—יַבְּי, Inf. const. as a noun, 519.—בַּיְרְ אַרַרְּעַרְּ, 406. The ז is commonly assimilated with the letter which follows it, and written by a Dagh. forte, 107. 1; but here the Dagh. is excluded, 111 seq.— בּיִרְ מִּלְּתָּ, ground-form בּיַר, which the pause-accent prolongs, used as a noun here, 445. Meaning: 'By kindness and faithfulness sin is covered,' i. e. is forgiven, the punishment of it is remitted; 'and by piety [comes] turning away from evil,' i. e. reverence for God occasions departure from evil.

XXXIII. Prov. 15: 29. בְּחֹקֹ, adj. and predicate of the sentence; therefore placed before the noun, 446.—ב before בְּשָׁלֵּים, see בְּיִשְׁלֵּים in No. 32.—הְּהַפַּלֵּח, זְּ 152. c. 4; בְּיִבְּיִם const. of Dec. X.
—ישָׁלֶּי, pause-accent on the final vowel lengthens the Pattahh, 144. I.

VI. suff. state, from אַצִּר, class A, Methegh under Tsadhe, 87. a, Silluq under Daleth. Meaning: 'Let a man devise his way,' i. e. lay out plans for his future employments and success, 'it is the Lord who must establish his goings,' i. e. his success depends on the aid which the Lord may afford.

XXXV. Prov. 16: 12. קּוֹעֲבַה, Methegh under Tav, 87. a. מָלָבִּרם, Dec. VI.—הוֹעֵב, Inf. const. of מָלָבִּרם, used as a noun, 519, preceded by הָיָם understood, 554.—עשַה, Dec. VI. E class. The pause-accent here has no influence in prolonging the vowel which precedes it, 149, it only marks the penult tone.—הַצְּדָבָה, pointing of the prep. ב, 137; ק has no Dagh. leae, although it follows a silent Sheva, 81. 2.—יְבִּיֹן, Fut. Niph. of בְּבָּא. see בְּבָּא, see הַבְּבָּא, see in No. 20. Meaning: 'It is an abominable thing for kings to do evil; but by the practice of equity, the throne is established.'

XXXVI. Prov. 16: 16: הַבְּהָ, for Methegh see § 87. j, rare form of Inf. const. from הַבְּהָ, 283. 2; used as a noun const. 519. מָהִרשׁוֹב, māt-tōbh, with Dagh. euphonic in בּ, 75. comp. 170. Note.—נְיִר מָּהְרְרִינְץ. is the particle of comparison, 454, Dagh. omitted in ה, 111.

קָּבָּד, reg. Inf. const. of קָּבָּד, used as a noun const. 519.— בְּדְלָּד, Part. Niph. from קַבָּד, sense of the Latin Part. in—dus, 529.—קּבָבְּד, בַּ comparative here, 454; בַ instead of בַ, 144. Lit. The acquisition of wisdom, how good compared with gold! and the acquisition of intelligence is to be chosen, in preference to silver.

XXXVII. Prov. 16: 18. בְּבָּבְּי, in No. 30. — אָבָּיָ , Dec. VI. E class. The accent Merka, 93. No. 23, marks the penult tone. אָבָּי , Dec. III. 554, the Athnahh under א belongs to the final syllable, the accent being placed on the letter which immediately precedes the vowel of a syllable, 98. אָבָּי , Dec. III. ל. אַבָּי , Dec. VI. k, with He Mappiq, 84. const. state before אַבָּי , Merka marks the penult tone. אַבְּי , see in No. 31. Meaning: 'Pride precedes destruction; and haughtiness of spirit is the precursor of stumbling,' i. e. of ruin. The prep. בְּבָּי signifies before in respect to time, as well as in respect to space; see Lex.

XXXVIII. Prov. 16: 25. בַּב, indeclinable, peculiar, see Lexview of, in the sight of.—מָּבֶר, before, i. e. in the view of, in the sight of.—מַבְּרָכִּה, before, i. e. in the view of, in the sight of.—מַבְּרַרְיָּחָה, a fem. suff., 336; בָּבֶרְ which precedes, is comm. gender, and a fem. suffix may follow. The adj. בְּבֶרְ , also agreeing with בָּבֶרְ , is masculine; comp. 451.

—בְּבֶר בָּבֶר , const. plur. of בְּבֶרְ בִּרְ בִּר being without Dagh. lene, 81.

1, because the ground-form בְּבֶרִכִּים excludes Dagh. lene. Meaning: 'There is a course of conduct, which men may judge to be right, but which leads to destruction.' The phrase בַּרְבֵי בַּרָבִי בַּרָבִי מַבְּרַבִּי מַבְּרַבִּי מַבְּרַבִּי מַבְּרַבִּי מַבְּרַבִּי means, 'deadly ways, destructive ways.'

XLIII. Prov. 17: 3. מְצַבֶּבָ , Dec. VII.—אָבֶבֶּבָּ , for אָבֶבֶּבָּ , for אַבְּבָּבָּ , for זה מוֹנוֹנִי , for אַבְּבָּבָּ , for אַבְּבָּ , for אַבּ , for אַבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבְבָּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבָבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבְּבָּ , for אָבָבָּ , for אָבָבָּ , for אָבָבָּ , for אָבָבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבְּבָּבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבָבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּ , for אָבְּבָּבָּ , for אָבְבָּבְּבָּ , for אָבְבָּבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּבָּ , for אָבָבְּי , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּי , for אָבְּבָּבְּי , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָּ , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָּ , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָּ , for אָבְבּבְּבָּבְּ , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּבָּבָּ , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּי , for אָבָבְּיבָּי , for אָבְבָּבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְ , for אָבָבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְ , for אָבָבְ , for אָבָבּי , for אָבָבְ , for אָבָבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְ , for אָבָבְ , for אָבָבְּיבָ , for אָבָבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּיבָּי , for אָבָבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּיבָּ , for אָבָּבָּבָּי , for אָבָבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּיבָּ , for אָבָבְּיבָּי , for אָבָּבָּי , for אָבָּבָּבָּי , for אָבָּבָּי , for אָבָּבָּבָּי , for אָבָּבָּי , for אָבָּבָּבָּי

XLIV. Prov. 17:9. מְלֵּכְהַף , part. Piel. , tone on penult, 95. מ.—עַבְּקַשׁ , Part. Piel.—מְבָּקִשׁ, Dec. X., Methegh under the Aleph, 87. מ.—הַבָּשׁ (for שִּבְּקִשׁ), Part. act. of הַבָּשָּׁ, followed by a before the noun which it governs, 506.—קבָּבָּק , ב Raphe, 80. Meaning

'a matter, a report, a thing.'—מְפַּרִר, Part. Hiph., 527.—אַפֿוּק, No. 40.

XLV. Prov. 17: 13. מַשׁרַב, Part. Hiph. from מָשׁרָב, 268. b. Par. XIII.—רָעָה, Dec. X. fem. of רֻב, which properly involves a Daghesh forte; and this is the reason why הַבָּרה has the first vowel immutable, 111 and 127.—פֿרָת, Fut. Kal 3 pers. fem., agreeing with רָבֶּה, root מַבְּרָהוֹם, suff. state of רַבָּה, Dec. VI. o, with praefix Mem.

XLVI. Prov. 17: 14. אושר form of Part. act. from אושר form has been a great stumbling block to critics, who seem in general to have supposed, that words of this form could denote nothing but an active agent; e. g. אוֹבָּי a shepherd, אוֹבָּי a sailor, אוֹבָּי an enemy, אוֹבָי a seer, etc. But it is a mistake, to suppose that this form always implies an agent. For example, אוֹבָי lead, are clear cases of a different nature. In accordance with the tenor of these words, may שוֹבִי be understood as meaning, "the letting out;" which being a kind of active sense, is even less remote, than the examples above, from the common analogy. In this way, all the obscurity about the text is removed.

As the sentence has a comparative sense necessarily implied in it, the particle ב as, is to be understood before בְּבָּים, 559.—בּבָּים, 329. Note 2, with accent praepos.—בְּבָּים, 554.—בַּבָּים, Dec. III. Meaning: 'When strife commences, it is like the bursting forth, or the letting out, of water which is restrained or dammed up; which, when thus set at liberty, will rush with accumulated and increasing force. So is it with strife; which, when once commenced, grows in violence as it continues.'

אָרָבְּפָלֵּע, No. 30.—יְבְּפַלֵּע, Inf. Hith. with final Pattahh, 236, used as a noun, 519, lit. the growing warm.—יב, קרב art. 152. a. 2. —יבול , Imp. of מים, with Vav fulcrum merely, 64, inasmuch as the Hholem here is pure, 212. 5. Meaning: 'Before contention waxes warm, refrain from it.'

XLVII. Prov. 17: 17. לֶבֶ, const. of לֶב, 89.—אֹהֶב for אֹהֶב, Part. act. 63, used as a verb, 527. a.—בָּדָ, הָרֶצָ art. 152. a. 2; צֵ with Patt. furt. 69.—הַאָּ, a Heteroclite, but essentially of Dec. VIII., as the plur. is essentially of a Daghesh'd form, 58.—בָּבֶּה, b prep.; בַּבָּה בָּבֶּה, 58, because the first Qamets is impure and therefore immutable, 127. and 111. In respect to actual declension, it belongs to Dec. X.—קַבָּה, Fut. Niph., 243. b. Sense: 'He who is a true friend, (בַּבָּה the friend), will be constant in his affection; and a true brother will help in times of adversity.'

XLVIII. Prov. 17: 19. בְּבָּהֹ, No. 47. בְּבָּהַ, accent 95. בְּבָּהַ, Dec. X. Lit. he loveth harm, that loveth strife. בְּבָּהַ, I understand here, with Umbreit, as meaning, 'the consequences of transgression,' viz. punishment, or harm. So בּבְּבָּה sin, and בְּיֹבָ iniquity, also mean, the consequences of sin, viz. punishment, misfortune, affliction. In respect to this sense of שַבָּבָּ, comp. Dan. 9: 24. So often, בֹּעִבּּסִרוֹם in the New Testament. The like expression in Proverbs is, "All that hate me, love death." In this way, a truly poetic parallelism between the two members of the sentence, is preserved.

אָבֶּרִבְּ, Part. Hiph., with He Mappiq and regular, 84.—יָבָּרָבָּ, from הַּשָּׁ, Dec. VI. E class, with suff. הַבְּבָּרָ, Part. Hiph. with final Tseri shortened to Seghol, 89.—יַבָּרָ, with accent, 144. i.q. שָׁבֶּר. Meaning: 'He who demeans himself with haughtiness, will occasion his own destruction.'

I understand this figurative description of pride, or exaltation, as grounded on the custom of princes, nobles, and wealthy men, in the East, erecting a lofty portico in front of their dwellings, through which the entrance into them lay. The ruins of the temples in Egypt, at Baalbec, Palmyra, and other places, exhibit the same taste in architecture. In reference to this same custom, (an emblem of honour or elevation), I understand the terms Sublime Porte, (Ital. Porta, German, Pforte) as applied to the Ottoman Emperor at the present day. The lofty gate, (for so Sublime Porte means), is a designation intended to point out him who lives in the dwellings connected with the lofty gate, i. e. the gate which by way of eminence is lofty, or the most lofty of all; in other words, it means the Emperor or reigning Monarch. Whether this explanation does not better accord with the oriental manner of framing designations, than the explanations commonly given of Sublime Porte, the reader acquainted with the style of the East may judge. When the same terms are applied to designate the Ottoman Emperor and his Divan, i. e. his Council, they are employed in a like figurative way.

XLIX. Prov. 17: 25. אָבֶּר, root אָבֶּר, for the suff. form, see Par. XXIV. No. II.—קָבֵּר, 554.—סָכֵּר, in apposition with זָבָ, 435.

—קבָּר, the accent Rebhia is over the Mem, 93. No. 10, and marks the tone-syllable.—זֹבְיְבִּר, Part. act. fem. from קַבֶּר, used as a noun of Dec. XIII. a. Sense: 'A grief, or cause of bitterness, to his mother.'

L. Prov. 18: 6. מְּפָּחָר, const. dual of Dec. XI., from מְּפֶּחָר, מְּשִׁרְּה, אִי without Dag. lene, 81. 1.—יְבָּאוֹר , Par. XX., Munahh marks the penult tone. בְּיִר, 152. c. 4; מְבִּיר , phīv, with suff. זְבְּיִר הַ A Heteroclite from בְּּבְּרִירִם, pl. of Dec. X., Methegh, 87. a.—יְבְּיִרְאָר. c. Sense: 'A fool's lips come along with (cause) contention; and his mouth calls for smiting;' i.e. he loves contention, and calls for, promotes assaults.

Ll. Prov. 18: 7. פָּר, const. of בְּּהַבְּלֹּים, מְּהַהְבֶּּה, mɛhhit-tāl-lō, Dec. X., with Dagh. euphonic in the בְּלָבָה, אָלָקָם, pec. VII. b, Synt. as above.—בַּּקְבּיה, from שַבֵּי, Dec. VI. a, suff. form.

III. Prov. 18: 9. הְּבֶּשְׁהַי, Part. Hiph. from הְּבָּשְׁה בּיִּבְּיּאַרְהוּ suff. state of בְּבְּעָבְּה, Dec. XI., (for בַּבְּעָבָה 118), with א otiant, 118. Note 2.—אוֹה, is he, 469.—אוֹן, לְבַעֵּל מַשְׁדִיה, lit. to him who is possessor of wasting, i. e. to a waster or prodigal, 444. c.; מַשְׁדִיה, Part. Hiph.

LIII. Prov. 18: 10, בְּלְבָּיִ, const. of Dec. IV.—בּשַׂ, const. of Dec. VII., 554.—בֹּ, into it, form in 408.—רְּקְי, Fut. Kal of יָרִרּץ, fut. Kal of יָרִרּץ, Part. Niph., lit. is elevated; i. e. is secure, safe, like one who betakes himself to an elevated place, and thus places himself out of the reach of enemies.

LIV. Prov. 18: 13. בַשִּׁיב בְּבָר, Part. Hiph. from בָּשֶׁיב בְּבָר, he who gives answer to any matter.—בְּשֶבְ , before, as an adverb, 403. a. הַיֹּא , אַנֶּ בֶּׁר. אַנָּבְּר, with penult tone. , 469.

LV. Prov. 18: 14. לְבַלְבֵּל , Fut. Pilpel of בּוֹב , 176. 3.—קבָל הוּ suff. state of Dec. IX., from אָבֶּבְיבָ, Methegh, 87. a; for the suff., see 379. 2, and comp. suff. in 309. c.—אָבָבְ, fem. adj. from אַבָּי, 323. Part. under V. אָנָאָרָ, with epenthetic אָבָּ suffix, 309. d; אָנָאָר, Fut. Kal from אַבָּי, 296. d. The fem. suff. אַבָּ refers to אַבּ, which is of the common gender.

LVI. Prov. 18: 21. בְּרָבֵּה , Dec. VI., penult tone. — בְּרָבָּה , Dec. VIII. penult tone. בְּרָבָּה , Dec. VIII. in the hand of, i. e. in the power of. בְּרָבְּהְּא, suff. plur. Part. of בְּרָבָּה, Dec. VII., Methegh, 87. a. The fem. suff. בְּרָבְּי relates to בְּרָבָּה, Dec. VII., Methegh, over Beth marks the penult tone. בּרָבָּה, Par. VII. בְּרָבָּה, with suff. fem., Dec. VI. s. Meaning: 'Those who love it,' viz. the free use of the tongue, or slander etc., 'shall eat the fruit of it,' viz. of a slanderous disposition.

LVII. Prov. 19: 2. בַּבָּה , lit. with nothing of know-ledge of soul, i. e. that the soul or mind should be destitute of knowledge. בְּבָּה , fem. Inf. from בָּבָּר, 247. a, as a noun with penult tone, of Dec. XIII. 390. בְּבַרְה , 554. בְּצָה, he who hasteneth, Part. act. from אָה to urge forward, to hasten. בְּבַבְּר, Par. XXVII., penacuted, 100. b. בְּבַּרָה, Part. act. as a verb, 527. Sense: 'He who urges rashly forward with his feet, without considering how he is proceeding, אָהָה, will make a mis-step, i. e. will stumble, or, will err from the right way.'

LVIII. Prov. 19: 5. אָד, Dec. VII. g.—שָּקָרִים, plur. of שְּקָרִים Dec. VI., lit. a witness of falsehoods, i. e. a false witness, 440.— בְּבָּרִים , Fut. Niph.—יְבִּידִּם, Fut. Hiph. from הַּבְּרִים, Dec. IV. lit. he who breathes out lies, comp. Acts ix. o de Σαῦλος ἐτι ἐμπνέων ἀπειλῆς καὶ φόνου εἰς τοὺς μαθητὰς τοῦ Κυρίου.—יִבְיִבֶּים, Fut. Niph.

LIX. Prov. 19: 9.—יאֹבֶד', 240. It is easy to see, that this proverb is the same as that in No. 57. The last word only differs; but the sense which it conveys, is the same as that of אַבְּיבֶּי. So, often in the book of Proverbs, the same maxim as to sense is repeated, with some slight difference of diction like to the one in question.

LX. Prov. 19: 14. בְּלֵב, Dec. VI. o. הוֹן, Dec. I. בְּלֵב, const. of Dec. X., 554. Lit. are the heritage of parents, i. e. an inheritance given or bequeathed by them; א but, for this particle often stands before an antithetic part of a sentence; see Lex.—בַּבְּיִּבָּי. If the Jews had read the word אָבְיִבְּיִּבְּי as we do, the pointing would be מִּבְּיִבְייִ: but they read, and still read, אַבְּיבִּי, אַ, because Aleph does not admit a Dagh. forte, אַבְּיבִי, irreg. see Lex.—אַבְּיִבְייִ, אַ for אָ, 131, Part. fem. Seghol. Hiph., from שִּׁבִּי, Par. XXI. Meaning: 'Dwelling-houses and wealth may be given to children by their parents; a discreet wife is the special gift of heaven.'

61. Prov. 19: 16. לְּפֶשׁ, suff. state of שֵּבֶי. Meaning: 'He who obeys the divine commands, shall preserve his own soul or life.' There is a paronomasia here, אַשְּׁי in the first clause having the sense of obeying, observing; in the second, the sense of preserving, 571. e.

LXII. Prov. 19: 20. שְׁמֵל , 235.—מְבֶּל , Dec. XI.—בָּבֶּל , penult tone, compos. accent, 93. No. 11. בְּבָּל , penult tone, compos. accent, 93. No. 11. בְּבָּל , penult tone, compos. accent, 93. No. 11. בּבְּבָּל , 225.—קְּבָּב , for הְ because of the Silluq, 148. a. Meaning: 'In time to come, for the future;' or, 'At the end of life.' The Chaldee translator has taken it in the latter sense, rendering it, בַּבּליבָּך , in thy end; so the LXX., בֹּב בֹּבְעָלִדְשׁעִּ σου; Vulgate, in novissimis tuis. But the former sense is preferable, as it embraces the latter, and much more besides.

LXIII. Prov. 19: 21.—חובר, adj. plur. fem. of בן, 323. Par. under Dec. VIII.—מְדְשָׁבוֹת , 87. a, plur. of Dec. XI. or XIII.
—בֹּ, instead of בַּ, 89.—חבַּ, Dec. XI.—מוֹת (hī) 164, used for the sake of energy here, 467.—חובר, Fut. Kal. of דוף, 3 pers.

fem. Meaning: 'Many are the plans which the mind of man devises,' (because his plans are often subject to disappointment); 'but the counsel of the Lord always stands,' i. e. he always fully accomplishes every plan which he devises. Perhaps the meaning is: 'However numerous the plans of men are,' viz. in opposition to the Lord, 'the counsels of the Lord shall stand,' i. e. be fully accomplished.

LXIV. Prov. 20: 1. לְבֵי, Part. with Tseri, from לְבִי, 270. a. 5.—קְבַיִּן, ה art. 163; יְבִי, Dec. VI., tone on penult, although the accent is praepositive, 95 and 93. No. 5. Verb of existence before it, 554. — הַבָּה , Part. act. from הַבָּה , lit. intoxicating drink is an alarmer, i.e. excites alarm, makes or occasions commotion, disturbance. בְּבֶי (köl) for בֹּב, 89.—הַבָּי , Part. act.; lit. every one who staggers with it.—יֹב בּבְיּי, shō-ghēb-bō, 75. The natural tone-syllable in בִּבְּיִר בִּבְיּי, בְּ for בַ, 144; for pointing in the first syllable, 225.

LXV. Prov. 20: 6.—בֿרָ rŏbh, for בֹּר, 89; lit. as to the great part of men, Nom. abs. 415.—נְּקְרָא, each one will celebrate, אָבְּרֹיִם הַּלְּהָּ, his own goodness, suff. state of הַבֶּלְהָ, Dec. VI. a.—בְּקְרָא, properly from אָבֵּלְּהָּ Dec. I., but the sing. (by Syriasm) is written אָבִּלְּהָ, 119. d. 2, and seems to belong to Dec. III, while in reality it is of Dec. I. Lit. a man of faithfulnesses, i.e. a truly faithful man, 440, and 437. 3.

LXVI. Prov. 20: 9. אמר , 240. יוֹפּרָתּר, 286. 1. בְּבִּרְתִּר, No. 5. בְּבִּרְתִּר, I am pure, from טְבֶּר, 181. Note 1. The tone is on the penult, although it is not marked here. מָבְּרְתָּר, אָבֶר, 406 and 111, for Methegh see 87, בּבְּרָתְּר, Heteroclite, for אַבְּבָּר, 119. c. 3. But the const. state is מְבָּבְּר, as if the word belonged to Dec. II.

LXVII. Prov. 20: 12. אַזָּךְ, penult tone, Dec. VI. i; dual in Par. XXVII. O. fem. gender, 320. b. 6.—עָּבְּיָרָ , Part. fem., Par. XXI. בּ Gutt. 141, with acc. Tiphhha anterius, 93. No. 5, comp. 95. a, as the tone syllable here is the penult.—קַבָּי , fem. 320. b. 6, Dec. VI. o; dual in Par. XXVII. The accent marks the tone on the penult.—קַבָּי , fem. Part. of בַּאָר , masc. Part. בַּאָר , fem.

קּבָּים, Par. XXI. בּלָיַה, 323. 5. comp. 301. בְּשֵׁה בַּם, where the first word having a conjunctive accent, the second omits Dag. lene in its אָבָיְהָם, from the dual בְּיָהָם, in the suff. state, בְּיָהָם being the suffix, 336, comp. 338.

The nouns is and if are in the case abs., 415. Lit. rendered; 'As to the hearing ear, and as to the seeing eye, Jehovah hath made even both of them.'

LXVIII. Prov. 20: 13. הַאָּהַה from אָהָה , 240. also 87. a.— אָהָה , Dec. XI., accent praepos. 95. a, while the tone is on the ultimate.—קבּ, Pe with Dag. lene, 79. 3.—עַּהָה, Niph. Fut. from אַרָ, 243. b.—קבָּ, Imp. 235.—קבָּע, dual suff. from אַבָּר, מַּבְּרָם, for הַּלָּה, for הַּלָּה, for הַּלָּה, for because of the Silluq, 131. The last clause, lit. Open thine eyes, be satisfied with bread, i. e. be wakeful, vigilant, active, and thou shalt procure a competent supply of thy wants. The latter Imp. here, has a Fut. sense, 505. a.

LXIX. Prov. 20: 20. בְּבְּרָם, Part. Piel from בְּבָּרָ.—זְבָּרְ, Par. XXIV. No. II., 309. a.—זְבָּרָ, Dec. VIII. d, from אַבּרָר, 130. c. a.—זָבָרָ, 230.—זְבָּרָ, with suff.—זְבִּיִּרְ, Dec. I., in the midst of. So the text should be read, viz. אַבְּיִשְׁרֹּן, and not (as in the common editions) בְּבִּיבְּיִיבָּרְ, i. e. בַּבְּיִבְּיִבְּיִר, the Qeri noting on the margin that the in the first word is superfluous. The latter form is a Chaldee word, and is only a stale gloss of the passage, which does not seem to have been correctly understood by the Masorites.—זֶבֶּיִה, Dec. VI., the dot over the right tooth of the Shin is a Hholem for the preceding letter, as well as a diacritical point for the Shin, 62. 2.

LXX. Prov. 21: 1. בַּבְבַ , const. plur. Dec. VI. a, omits Daghesh lene in ג, see the ground of this in 81. I. e.g. בַּבְ , from בַּ , 89. בַּר , const. of בָּ , Dec. II. a. The conj. בְּ as, is to be understood before בַּבְּב , 561. c. Meaning: 'Jehovah directs the hearts of men, as easily as he does the rivers of water. - בַּ בְּ köl, from בַּ בַּ , 89. בַּ בְּבַ , Fut. Hiph. from בַּבָּ , Par. XIX., with suff. epenthetic, 309. d. 3 sing. masc., comp. in Par. XXIII. Hiph. Fut. epenth. Lit. Unto all which he chooses, he inclines it, viz. the heart of man. The student will notice the frequency of the Maqqeph, in the whole sentence.

LXXI. Prov. 21: 17. בְּהְכוֹר, Dec. I., אֵישׁ מַּקְוֹכוֹר, a man of poverty, i. e. a poor man, shall be (בְּהָרָהְ: is understood, 554) the lover of mirth, but the latter, however, is the Nom. before the verb of existence, when rightly translated, i.e. the meaning is, 'A lover of mirth shall be a poor man.'-בְּיָרָ,', Dec. VI. o.— בְּיֵבֶּירָ, בְּיִנְּהָּיִר, 152. c. 3. The second point over the tooth of the Shin, together with the accent on the right of the Vav, constitute the composite accent Rebhia Geresh, 93. No. 11, and mark the penult tone.— בְּיֵבֶּירַ, 224; for Methegh, see 87. a.

LXXII. Prov. 21: 27. אַבָּדָּ, Dec. VI. h, the accent Munahh marks the tone on the penult, 93. No. 21. בְּשִׁבִּים, plur. of Dec. IV. a.—הַבְּשַׁבִּים, Dec. XI. b, verb of existence implied before it, 554. אַרְ בָּיַבְּים, how much more, see Lex. under אַר בִּיבְּיבָּים, how much more, see Lex. under בּיבְּיבָּים, The Methegh under בּיבּים is according to the rule in 87. l, the accent being thrown off from בַּיבְּיבָּים, Dec. X.—בְּיבְּיִבֶּים, Fut. Hiph. of אַבְּיבָּים, Par. XX. The Qamets under the praeform. Yodh is dropped, because the accent is thrown forward on account of the suffix בְּיבִים, which is the epenth. form 3 sing. masc., 309. d; see in Par. XXII. Fut. Sentiment: 'The sacrifice of the wicked is not pleasing to God; how much more must it be unpleasing, when he presents it הַבְּיַבְּי, with a crafty intention, i. e. hypocritically, malo animo, with the intention of deceiving.'

LXXIII. Prov. 22: 2. יְּשִׁרָּר, adj. used as a noun, 445, Dec. III.—יְ and, 152. c. 3.—שֵׁיִ, Part. of שֵּׁיִן, Par. XIII., used as a noun of multitude; declined as in Par. XXI. יַּבָּבְּשֵׁיַ, with accent, instead of יִּבְּשָּׁיֵל, without accent, 146. For the sense of meeting together, i.e. of a reciprocal meeting, see in 182. b. 6.— יִּשִּׁיִּג, const. state of the Part. יִּשִּׁיִּג, Dec. IX., from יִּשִּׁיִּג, Par. XVI.—בַּבָּבַּ יָּבָּ suff., Lamedh takes Dag. forte, because יַבְּ the ground form belongs to Dec. VIII. e, comp. 129. c. b. Meaning: 'The Lord has ordained, that men should consist of both rich and poor; let both regard this as being arranged by his Providence, that so the rich may not despise the poor, nor the poor envy the rich.'

LXIV. Prov. 22: 14. בַּקַּקָּה, fem. of בְּּתָּהָ, Dec. VIII., see in 323. Dec. VIII. בְּהַרָּה, const. of בְּּתָּה, Part. fem. plur. from בְּּתָּה, Par. XXI. בְּּתַּה, pass. Part. const. of בַּּתָּה, in reg. as a noun, 532. b; בְּּתָה, the object of the indignation of Jehovah, he with whom Jehovah is angry. See, for such a latitude of meaning in case of regimen and Gen., 424.—בַּלֶּה, Fut. of בַּבָּל, Par. XI. The is superfluous. It is read, צַּיִּרְהָּטָּל, because the Hholem is shortened before the Maqqeph, 89. The star over the word refers to a Note (usually printed in the margin opposite, in our common Hebrew bibles, but) put at the bottom of the page, in this Chrestomathy. The note, בּיִּבֶּר, means, Vav is superfluous; comp. 64. The vowel-points are written just as if the orthography were בַּבֶּל. בּיִבָּל, therein, adv. viz. into the deep ditch, mentioned in the first part of the sentence.

LXXV. Prov. 24: 24. אַבָּאָר, o εἐπων, he who saith, Part. active.—אָבָּאָר, with pause-accent Merka Mahpakh, 93. No. 3. Usually the accent above, is on a different letter from the one below; which latter marks the tone-syllable, 95. b. But the length of the word here, does not permit this usage in regard to the position of the accents; אָבָּאָרָ for אַבָּאָרָ, 144.—אָבָּאָרָר, Fut. Kal of אַבָּי, with suff. אָבָּי, on account of which the preceding אַר, which would stand at the end of the verb, is omitted in the orthography, 65; and the Vav thus falling out, Qibbuts vicarious is employed in the room of אָבָּיִר, plur. of Dec. VIII. אָבָּיִרְּהָּר, Fut. Kal of בּאַרָּר, with suff. אַבְּיִרְּהָר, and the preceding אין written plenè, contrary to the usage in אָבָּיִר, and the Pattahh under the אַר, in the Fut. of this verb, is restored and lengthened here, 146, although the accent is Merka, a Conjunctive, 149. b.—אַבָּיִר, pl. of בּאַבָּי, Dec. VIII.

LXXVI. Ps. 67: 2, 3.—יְבֶּבֶּלְ, yɛhhön-nē-nū, 66. b, Fut. Kal from לְבֵּלְ, Par. XII., with suff. בבּל The final Nun of the verb receives a Dag. forte because of accession, 258. The Hholem in the Fut. לְּתְיֵׁ is shortened, because the accent is thrown forward, 129. The Qamets under the praeform. Yodh is dropped, for the same reason, 133.—יְרֵבְּרֵר, יִרבְּרָבָּר, יִרבְּרָבְּר, יִרבְּרָבְּר, יִרבְּרָבְּר, זִיבְּרָבְּר, זִיבְּרָבְּר, it is follows, see 115. The verb is Fut. Piel, with suff. יַבּר. For the dropping of the final Tseri of the verb, see 312. 8.—יְבָּר, Fut. apoc. Hiph. of יִאֹר, 206. It agrees with יַבָּר a noun plural, although the verb is singular, 489.—יָבָּר, suff. state of בִּרָר יִבְּרָרָבּ, compounded of יִּבְּרָר יִבְּרָּר יִּבְּרָר יִּבְּרָר יִּבְּרָר יִּבְּרָר יִּבְּרָר יִּבְּרָר יִּבְּרָר יִבְּרָר יִבְּרְר יִבְּיִיר יִיְּבְּיִר יְבְּיִר יְבְּיִיר יְבְּיִיר יִיְּבְּיִר יְבְּיִבְּיִר יְבְּיִר יְבְּיִבְּיִר יְבְּיִיר יִיּיִי יְבְּיִר יִיְיִי בְּבְּרִיר יִיי יִיי יִּבְּיִבְּיִי יְבְּיִי יִי יִּבְּיִר יְבְּיִבְּיִי יִי יִי יִּבְּיִי יְבְּיִי יְבְּיִי יִי יִי יִּבְּיִי יְבְּיִי יִי יִי יִּבְּיִי יְבְּיִי יִי יִי יִּבְּיִי יְבְּיִי יִי יִי יִבְּיִי יִּבְּיִי יִבְּיי יִי יִי בְּבְּיִי יִי יִּבְּיִי יִי יִּבְּיִי יְבְייִי יִי יִי יִּבְּיי יְבְייִי יִּיי יִייְי יִיי יִי יִּבְּיִי יִּיְי יִּבְּיִי יִּבְּיִי יִי יִּבְּיי יִבְּיי יִייְי יִּיְי יִייְי יִּבְּיי יִבְּיי יִיי יִי יִיי בְּיי יִיי יִיי יִיי יִי יִייי יִיי יִי יְּבְּיי יְבְּיי יִיי יִיי יִּבְּיי יְבְּיי יִיי יִּי יִיי יִּי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יִי יִי יְּבְיי יְבְייִי יִּי יִיי יְיִי יְבְּיי יִּבְּי יִבְּיי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יִיי יְיִיי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יְבְייִי יְיי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יְבְיי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יְבְייִי יְיִיי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יְבְּיי יְבְיי יְבְיי יְבְּיי יְבְייי יְבְּייי יְבְּייי

קבת (for דְבֵּה), because of the pause-accent, 148. a.—קבֶּק, pl. of אוֹרְבָּה, Dec. I.—קבּה, with Silluq under the ה, 148. a.

LXXVII. Ps. 119: מו. בְּלֶּהָה, Kal. Praet. 3 fem. of בְּלֶּה, agreeing with בְּלֶּה, for Methegh, 66. in E. g.—קּהָשׁרְקּה, לְּהְשִׁרְּהָרָ, דְּ prep.; קּ suff.; with Methegh after Qamets, 66. under E. g. See also 87. c.—בְּלָּהָר, suff. state of Dec. VI. For בְּלָהָר, see קְהָבֶּר, for בְּלָהָר, (for בְּלָהִר הַר), with Silluq on the penult, Piel of בָּבָּל, b., Dag. being excluded from the ה, 111, and 232. b.

לבָּב, 3 plur. of בְּבָּב, comp. 118. and Note 3, בְּבָּב being put for בָּבְּר, dual. suff. of צֵּרָר, Dec. VI.—בָּבְר , with accent, instead of יְּ without one, 148. a.—בֹב (for בָּצְבָּר, 119. c. 1. Lit. whilst saying, whilst I say.—הָבָּר pt. Piel with suff., from בַּבָּר ; the Tseri under the ה is dropped, 312. 8.

LXXVIII. Ps. 32: 10. בְּבִּים, Dec. VIII., from בַּת.—עַבָּיָשָׁלָ, בָּ, has the punctuation of the article, which is omitted, 152. a. Note. The accentuation is the composite Merka Mahpakh, 93. No. 3. A verb of existence is implied before this noun, 554.—בּוֹם, הַ article, used as a pronoun, 412. Note 1, הַ with Pattahh furtive, 69.—בּיהָה, see under No. 10.—יַסְבָּבָּוּל, Poel of בַּרַהָּ, 262, with epenth. suff. 309. d; drops Tseri under the first Beth, 312. 8.

LXXIX. Ps. 33: 6. בְּעֵשׁרָ , Niph. of אָטָיָ; for the vowels under the two first letters, see 224 seq.; for Methegh, 87. a.—אָבָּי, suff. state of אָבָּי, 89. בַּיְבָּאָל, suff. state, Dec. IV. g. Sentiment: 'By the command of Jehovah were the heavens formed, and all the stars (host of them), by his mandate (by the breath of his mouth), viz. by what he uttered or spake.'

LXXX. Ps 33: 12. אַשְׁרֵר , plur. const. of אָשֶׁר, Dec. VI. a.

LXXXI. Ps. 34: 8. הֹבָה , Part. act. with a omitted, 63.—סברב ל , בֹרבְאָרוּ , בֹרבְאָרוּ , בֹרבְאָרוּ , בֹרבּאָרוּ , בֹרבּאָרוּ , אַרבּאָרוּ , אַרבּאָרוּ , אַרבּאָרוּ , אַרבּאָרוּ , suff. plur. of בּרַבּאָר , apparently of Dec. V., but really of Dec. III., 358. 4.—בּרַבְּבּיבּאָר, Fut. Piel with suff., the Yodh praeform. omits the Dagh. which follows Vav conversive, 208. in E.g. Sentiment: 'God protects the pious, and delivers them from danger.'

LXXXII. Ps. 34: 9. בְּלֵּמֹבְ , Imp. of בְּלֵּמֹבָ , 229 seq.—אָדְּלְּמִּלְּ, with accent praepos. although the tone is on the ultimate, 95.; אול זְ, 152. c. 4; אַבְּירֵ וּשִׁרְּ, instead of בְּצִּרֹ , 118.—אָבֶרְ , No. 80.—הַבֶּּבֶּר, with article הַ, and with a composite accent over the two first letters, 93. No. 11.—בּוֹבְרֵר, ye-hesĕb-bō, Fut. Kal of הַּבָּר, Methegh, 87. a.—וֹב with Dagh. euphonic in the Beth, 75. a.

LXXXIII. Ps. 34: 19. קרוב , adj. Dec. III., (from קרב), verb of existence implied, 534. בְּשָּבְּרֵי, const. of Niph. Part. from שָבָּר, the final Qamets in this Part. being pure and mutable, בַּשִּבְּרִילֵּב, regimen, 532, b.—יִבָּשִּב, 89, also 408. Note 4. בְּשַבִּרִי, for Pattahh furtive, see 69. Sentiment: 'The truly humble, Jehovah will aid; and he will deliver them from danger.'

LXXXIV. Ps. 36: 6. 미끄션크 , where the art. is retained after the prep. בְּ, which is contrary to the more common usage; comp. 152. a. Note. בְּיִבְיּבְיּבְ, 148. a. בְּיִבְיּבְיּ, from בְּיַבָּי, Dec. VI. b. Sentiment: 'Thy mercy is exceedingly great, thy faithfulness exceeds any bounds which we can measure;' so the verse that follows, leads us to interpret this passage.

LXXXV. Ps. 36: 7. בְּבְּבְּיִב, Dec. XI., the Methegh marks Qamets, 66. e.g; for the accent, see 93. No. 22. בְּבְּבִי, plur. const. of הָבְר Dec. VII. a. Mountains of God mean, 'very lofty mountains,' 456. e. מְהַבִּיבְּי, comm gender, fem. here; בְּבַּבְּי, with the accent Rebhia over the Mem, 93. No. 10, Dec. XI. Sentiment: 'Thy righteousness is very great, thine uprightness is boundless; thy kindness extends to both man and beast.'

LXXXVI. Ps. 36: אַ רָּבֶּבְּי, מְהַרְיָּבְּ, מְהַרְיִּבְּ, אָרַרְיִּבְּּ, אַבְּרִים , māy-yā-qār, how precious! 75. a. —בּיִבְּי, Voc.—בּיִבְּי, 152. c. 4, and 540; בְּבָּי, const. pl. of בְּבָּיִר, sing. בַּבִּי, suff. dual of בָּבָּי, with comp. accent, and tone on the penult, 336. Par. c.—יְבָּיִרְּיִּרְיִּרְיִּ, Fut. Kal with 7 parag., 211. a. 1; also with original Yodh restored, and the preceding vowel lengthened, 147, comp. 146. b. Lit., Under the shadow of thy wings, the sons of men find a refuge; an image borrowed from the protection which fowls afford to their young.

LXXXVII. Ps. 37: 23. בֵּיְהְרָה, by Jehovah, an anomalously pointed word. The Jews read for it, בֵּיְהְרָה, with a Tseri under the Mem, as a compensation for Dag. forte omitted in the א, 112. comp. 406. The variation in the punctuation of בַּיְהָרָה, consists merely in putting a simple Sheva under the Yodh, which will not bear the composite one found under א, in the word שִּבְּבֵּרִי, const. pl. Dec. II. — אָבַרִּרָּ, Polel of בַּבְּבֵּרִי, with composite accent, and with a restored and prolonged vowel under the first Nun, 146. a.— ץ בַּבָּרַ, 225.

LXXXVIII. Ps. 37: 24 בְּבֵּל, Fut. of בְּבֵּל, Fut. Hoph. of אָם, with pause-accent, 144. 1.—יָדָר, יָדְרֹּ, with suffix. Sentiment: 'Jehovah will uphold and support the righteous, so that they shall not utterly fall.'

LXXXIX. Ps. 41: 2. בַּשְּׁבֵּר , Part. Hiph. from בָּעָּ.—בַּבָּ, with pause-accent, from בַּ , Dec. VIII.—בָּבָר, Dec. X., the first Qamets being immutable.—בְּלְּעֵהוּר. Fut. Piel with suffix; the accent marks the penult tone, 100. j. Sentiment: 'Happy the man who regards, pays attention to (מַשָּׁבִּרל), the poor, i. e. relieves their wants and woes; in the day of adversity Jehovah will deliver him.'

XC. Ps. 47: 2, 3. הַּעָבְּרֹם, 152. a. 2.—קּבְּ, with Qamets because of Athnahh, 144; Kaph Raphe, 80—קָּרָעָּרָ, with penult tone, 100. g, Hiph. Imp., from יוֹרָ in the sense of No. II. אָלָרִין, proper adj., altus, the lofty or exalted one, Dec. I., a title of the Most High, (as we express it in English).—אָבָרִיּ, Niph. Part. from יוֹרָא, is to be feared, 529.—נְּרָאֹרָ, Dec. III. h.

XCI. Job 20: 4, 5. האדם, הן interrog. 152. d, used here in the sense of nonne? so that, with the word which follows, one must translate, Dost thou not know this?—הַבְּיבָּר, with the accent praepos., 95. a, but tone on the penult, 100. d.—יִבָּי, poetic form of הַבְּיבָר, preposition.—יִבָּי, eternity; here, ancient times, days of old; the pause-accent does not prolong the vowel here, 149.—יבי ווהל. Kal from שיש or שוש , used as a gerundial noun here; יִבָּיִבּ, lit. from the establishing, placing.—יַבָיַי, prep., but with a form like a noun plur. const. of בוּבָי, 407. b.

רְכְּבֵּה (not רְבָּה), 73. Note 1.—בְּקָבוּה 406, lit. from near by; the meaning is, brief, short, of small duration or extent.—קַבָּר, Dec. V.—יָבֶר, prep., plur. form of עָבִר, 407. b.—יָבֶר, for בָּגַר, 144. 1.

XCII. Job 22: 12, 13. אֹבֶה, nonne? is not? interrog. בְּהַ, — בְּבָּהְ, Dec. VI., with ה final moveable, 84. The prep. בְּ in, is understood before בַּבֹּא, 559. Meaning: 'Is not God exalted above all?' אָבָה, Kal Imp. of בּאָנִי, Dec. I. in the sing. בְּבָּרִים, plur. of Dec. II., Methegh under Kaph, 87. e.— בְּבִּרִים, from בְּבָּרִים, with Silluq. Meaning: 'Behold the summit, height, of the stars, for they are high.'

יָלְאָבֵיְרָ, yet thou sayest, יְ yet; the tone of the whole word here, is on the ultimate, 101. a.—בָּבֶּרָב, māy-yā-dhā, 75. a, lit. How doth God know? the Praet. being used for the universal Present, 503. d.—בַּבֶּרַ, בַּבְּבֶּר, interrog., 152. d. 1.—בַּבָּר, with tone on the ultimate, 141. Note 2; it is one of the few words in Hebrew, whose root consists of more than three letters, and whose compound ingredients are obscure.—unwith it fulcrum merely, as the Hholem is pure, 64. Lit., Can he judge behind the darkness? i.e. 'Is God omniscient? Are not some things concealed from him?'

XCIII. Job 25: 4, 5. בְּבִּיבִיבָּק, 75. a. lit. How can a man be just with God? i. e. in his view.—אַ , properly the mighty one, a frequent appellation of God. The regular plur. is not applied to the true God.—בְּבָּיִבְּהָ, זְּלֵבְּהַ זְּלֵבְּהַ וּאָרָם, זְלֵבְּהַ וּאָבָּרְ, const. Part. pass. Kal, from בְּבָּר, בַּמַרְּבָּר, בַּמָּרָבּ, Heteroclite, see Lex.

דְבֵּרִל. Hiph. fut. from בְּבֵּרִל, Hiph. fut. from בְּבֵּרִל, Hook even to the moon, and its splendid, בְּבַבִּר. Meaning: 'Look even to the moon, and its splendor fails,' i. e. in the sight of God, the splendor of this heavenly body is, as it were, nothing; or, 'Its light is comparatively darkness.' אַל הַבְּרַבְּרַם,', Methegh under Kaph, 87. e.—וְבַּרָּבָּרָם, from יְבַּרָּבְּרִם, Kal Praet. 3 plur.— אַל הַבְּרָבָּרָם, Beth Raphe, 80; בְּבֶּרְבָּרָם, dual suff. of בְּבֶּרְבָּרָן. Lit., And as to the stars, they are not pure in his sight; i. e. the light or splendor of the stars is not pure light in his view. In other words, 'Such is the perfectly pure and holy nature of God, that even the most pure and perfect of all created objects are, when compared with him, impure and imperfect.'

אַר כּר , how much more, see Lex; or rather, here, surely then.
— אַרָּהָ, poet. appellation, for which אָרָה is employed in prose, Dec. I. in sing., the plur. is irreg. and of Dec. VI. רָבָּדְרָאָרָ, 554.— אָרָה, the same as אַרָּה, 444. d.

XCIV. Job 23: 8, 9. בּרַהָּ, with Tiphhha anterius, 95, as an adverb here, forwards.—אָבָּרֹהָ, Methegh, 87. a, 1st pers. sing. Fut. Kal, with smooth enunciation, 224; used as Present, 504 b; the common Fut. here is from בָּרַרְ, see Lex.—אַרַרָּ, suff. זשׁבָּרָ, suff. זשׁבָּרָ, const. אַרְּרָ, see Lex.—אַרָּ, suff. זשׁבָּרָ, const. אַרַרָּ, before a suffix; here an adverb, taking an epenth. suffix like a verb, 405. Lit. And not he, i. e. he is not there, is not to be found.—אֹבְרָ, Methegh, 87. l. and 87. e.—זְּבֶּרָ, Par. XIV., used for the Present, 504. b.—זֹבָּ, prep. בֹּרַלְּ ter the verb בַּרַרָּ, 506.

שמאול, שמאול, or שמאול, Aleph in otio, semol, (instead of במאב, 118), Dec. I., no plur., Acc. of place, 428. 2. Before בעשה, the verb אהלד is understood, 562.—ישמא, is sō, 62. 1, איט (for בשיה 64), Inf. of עשה, 280. seq., 283. 2. Note.— שניהוד, when he works or operates, 521. a; lit. in his acting, in agere ejus. - The, out of pause, * The, 1st pers. Fut. of Kal, apocopate Segholate form, see on page 107, Par. of forms, 5 Gutt. apoc. form. The full form would be and, from att. Pattahh is employed in the Segholate form of the verb, because of the Gutturals, 283. Note 3. Lit. I can not see, viz. him; the Subj. mood being made by the Fut. tense, 203 seq. The pronoun 15, him, is implied after אַדָּל, 562; for it, pron. with preposition, 506.—קֹביק, 225.—ימרן, Acc. used adverbially, 428. 2.—האראה, Fut. 1st pers. from המה, with full form, as usual at the end of a sentence. The Seghol under N, instead of the short Hhireq which is found in the other persons, is occasioned by the Guttural N, 138.

XCV. Job 9: 1-3. יַבֶּדְ with Dag. forte after it, 208; בַּדָן apoc. Fut. of τος, 283. γ. Par. letter g; the Guttural occasions the Pattahh, 283. Note 3. Like all Segholate forms, it takes a penult tone. רְאִמֵּר, 208; רְאִמֵּר, 240. Note. Par. VII., penult tone, 101. b.—ממנם, אמשר nam, 66; for adverbial ending, see 402. מ. בדעה , tone, 100. d. , so, thus, 554. בדעה , how can [a man] be just, 75. a.--γבּדְיב, 225.--בָּרָב, בְּרָבָּר, 152. b. 2; ביב, lnf. with ב, 522. Meaning: 'If man should choose to contend with God.'-אָבָּבָּדְ, Kal Fut. from אָדָ, with epenth. suffix: see in Par. XXIII. and 313; comp. accent marking penult tone. אַחָר, fem. of אָחָל, הַחָּדָת for הַחָּדֶת, 107. 2. בְּיִר , poet. for קה prep. - קבא, 144. I. Meaning: 'Man could not answer him,' (יַבְּבָּבוּ, Fut. used as Subj. mood, 203), ' as to one thing of a thousand,' i. e. as to one of the thousand accusations which God could make. General sentiment of the whole: 'In the sight of God, man is exceedingly sinful.'

^{*} Out of Pause means, when no pause-accent in on a word; in pause means, when a word is furnished with a pause-accent.

XCVI. Job 18: 5, 6. בּבַּ, surely.—קַבָּיִר, in pause, verb intrans., shall be quenched, shall go out.—קַבָּיר, from מַבַּי, Fut. Kal, 252, with Mappiq, i.e. moveable, 84.—בַּבָּשׁ, const. form of Dec. III.—קַבָּיִּבָּי, suff. state of בַּאַי, Dec. VIII.—קַבָּיבָּי, bɛo-hºlō 67. b, suff. sing. of בַּיִּבָּי, Dec. VI. k. One might expect a Pattahh under the ਜ in the ground-form, but we find Seghol employed.— בַּבְּיִר written both בַּבְּיר מַבְּיִר, prep. בַּבַּ, in the form of the suff. plural of a noun, 407. b, with a pronoun suffixed; lit. above him, referring to the position of a lamp or torch, suspended from the ceiling of a room, or the summit of a tent, and elevated above the persons in it. Sentiment: 'The prosperity, or flourishing circumstances, of the wicked, shall speedily come to an end, and be succeeded by misery.'

XCVII. Job 27: 8, 9. מְהַקְּהָם, Dag. euphonic, 75. a; מְהָּהָה, const. state of Dec. X., י moveable, 56. ו. אָהָה, when.— יְבָּאָר, in pause, lit. when he [God] shall cut off, viz. the soul or life of the wicked. אָר, when. י בְּשָׁל, apoc. Fut. of בָּשָּׁל, 283. γ. a, and Note 2. Meaning; When God shall take away his life.

יה הבְּצָהָק, הַ interrog., 152. d. The accent before it is praepos., 95, and the real tone is on the ultimate of the word; the noun is of Dec. XI. d.—אָרָה, Par. XX. 3 fem., agreeing with הביי, in No. 96. Lit. Will God hear his cry, when distress shall come upon him?

XCVIII. Job 32: 8, 9. אָבֶּי , with accent praepos., and tone on the ultimate, 95.—קַּיִּבְּי , Methegh, 87. m.—אָבִי , is, for the verb of existence, 469.—קַּיִבְי , const. of Dec. XI. c.—יַבַּשַ , prob. a noun with an old plur. ending, 325. b. b. from שִּ , mighty, and so (like אַבֹּיִבִּים) a pluralis majestaticus.—קַּבִיבָּה , Fut. Hiph. from בָּיבִּיבָּים is suffix, 309 under c. The Qamets under the ה falls away, because the tone is moved forward by the suffix, 133. Meaning: 'Truly there is a spirit in man; and the inspiration of the Almighty has given him understanding;' i. e. there is an intelligent spirit of divine origin, an inspiration of the Almighty, given to man. So, with Umbreit, would I construe this passage; and not with Rosenmueller, who makes the two parts of the sentence antithetic; e. g. 'although man has a rational soul, yet God only gives him understanding.' Is not understanding given, on the part of heaven, when a rational spirit is given?

רַבִּיכִי, majores natu, elders, comp. Gen. 25: 23, where it is opposed to אָלְהָבָּיִי, in pause, 144, also rough enunciation, 225.—בּבְּיִבְּיִּר, in pause, 144, also rough enunciation, 225.—בּבְּיִבְּיִר, in pause, 144, also rough enunciation, 225.—בּבְיִּבְּיִר, Par. XIV.—בַּיִּבְיִּר, rectitudinem, what is right. It is the young Elihu, who says this to Job and his friends. His meaning is, that 'he himself enjoys the inspiration of the Almighty; but that the persons whom he addresses, are not to be taken for wise men, i. e. for men wiser than himself, because they are older than he.' In other words, he claims the right of teaching them, although his seniors; and presumes to do this, on the ground of special divine illumination.

XCIX. Job 36: 5, 6. אָבָּרָ, i.e. אָבָּרָ, 89.—אָבָּבָּרָ, with accent praepos., and tone on the ultimate, 95.—אַבְּי, nor; or it may be literally rendered, et non.—בְּבָּרָרְ, in pause.—זְבָּבָּ, adj. of Dec. I., in const. state before אַבָּי, or in the abs. state, if one construes thus, mighty as to strength of heart, which is the preferable method. 'Mighty as to strength of heart' means, who has great strength of mind, who (as we say), is magnanimous. In what this magnanimity consists, is pointed out in the following σιίχος.

קברם, Fut. Piel from לְּבִירִם, plur. of יְבָּיָּרָ, Dec. VIII., vowel changes as in Dec. III.—קבּיִּר, Kal Fut. of בָּבָּרָ, 254. 2. Meaning: 'God will not keep alive, i.e. God will destroy, the wicked, and vindicate the right of the oppressed;' and this, 'because he is great in strength of mind, i. e. because he is magnanimous.'

C. Job 40: 3—5. בַּבֶּרַ, see in No. 95.—מְבָּרַ , see in No. 95.—מְבָּרַ , tone on the penult, 100. f. Note. — מְבִּרְ אָשִירְ , Hiph. Fut. 1st pers. from שִּישׁי, the Qamets under the א is dropped, because the tone is thrown forward by the suffix בָּבָּר, which is for בְּבַּר, 309. d. 2.—יִר, my hand.—יִבְּיִּר, Praet. of בּבִּר סִר בִּיבִּי , poetic form of בְּבִּרִּיבִי, upon my mouth.—יב, Pe Raphe, 80. The suff. - (Yodh pronoun) coalesces with the Yodh of בַּבָּר, const. form of בַּבָּר, 336. Note 3. Meaning: 'I impose silence upon myself.'

אַבָּקָת, see in No. 95. דְבַּרְתִּר. Piel, with tone on the penult, 100. d, although it is not marked, in this case. אַבֶּבָּהְ, from זְּבֶּבָּהְ, full form of Fut., comp. 283. γ. בּ Gutt. letter h. בְּבָּבָּהְ, dual, fem. of יַשְּבָּבִּי ; prob. שִּבְּבִּי is for שִּבְּבִּי (Gesenius says, for שִּבְּבָּבְּי). I take the Dagh. in the Tay, (which is inserted contrary to the rule in 80), to be a kind of compensative Daghesh, 74. b. Note.— אַבְּבִּר, Hiph. Fut. of יְבַּרְ . Meaning: 'I have spoken once, viz. with haste or inconsideration; yea again, or a second time, in like manner; but I will do so no more.' The whole expresses the deep sense of vileness and inconsideration, which Job entertained with respect to his past character and conduct.

PART III.

NOTES AND EXPLANATIONS.

WHEN the student shall have completed the study of Part II., agreeably to the directions given in the introduction to the Notes on the same; and shall also have reviewed the same in a proper manner; he may be supposed to have acquired such a knowledge of the forms of Hebrew words, of the method of grammatically analysing them which ought to be practised, of the manner of employing the grammar for this purpose, and of finding in it what he needs in order to obtain a complete view of the principles of any analysis, that the Notes may, in future, be less copious and particular than they have hitherto been. All this, I repeat it, may be now taken for granted, provided the student has REVIEWED Part II. in a proper manner. By this I do not mean. the going through with one solitary review, and this a hasty one too, (as is usually the fact); but I refer to a review, conducted on the principles which Jahn has laid down, in his Dissertation on the Study of the Oriental Languages; a piece which, I would hope, will be attentively read by every one in our country, who intends making a serious effort to acquire a knowledge of the Hebrew tongue. I mean a review, which shall be repeated continually along the way, when the student first goes over with Part II.; and then again made entire, with respect to the whole of Part II., after the first reading is completed.

With the knowledge thus acquired, the student will come to the study of Part III., with some good measure of due preparation. Let him not think the time and pains spent on Part II., to be in any degree lost, or expended in vain. Although he may seem to go slowly, yet he is, by such a method of study, laying the foundation for rapid progress, at some future period of his efforts. Grammatical forms and analyses being once well mastered, the progress in the Hebrew language will probably be such as to exceed the sanguine expectations of most students. But unless they are mastered at the outset, there is great probability that they never will be at any future period. In most cases, such is undoubtedly the fact. And if the student, in his subsequent exegetical studies of the Old Testament, finds himself, at every turn, in a state of doubt or uncertainty as to the real grammatical construction and arrangement of any passage; how is it possible, that he should ever be able to acquire a comfortable degree of assurance, that he is right in his conclusions with regard to the meaning of any difficult passage? Suppose he resolves to consult commentators, who have a more profound knowledge of grammatical and lexicographal matters than himself; often such commentators disagree; and then where shall he resort for satisfaction? Or if they agree, they assign reasons for their opinion, of which his acquisitions do not enable him to judge; then how is he to obtain satisfaction? All this shews the importance of laying well the foundation of Hebrew study, and in such a way, that any superstructure can be built upon it, which the future may require; as has been already said above. Indeed, if there be any object in expending time, and money, and labour, upon the study of Hebrew, that object must be, or ought to be, a truly valuable one. But of what value is a superficial knowledge of the language in question, which neither enables one to interpret skilfully himself, nor duly to appreciate the labours of others who have performed such an office?

I would hope, that these brief remarks on this important subject are not out of place, at a time when the student is shaping his course for all his future life, in respect to the study of the Jewish Scriptures. "Drink deep, or taste not," is advice which may be urged as properly on the young philologist, as on the poet. Indeed, if there be any who have no taste for such studies, and no proper sense of the value of them, and who want nothing more than the name of having studied Hebrew, while they are too indolent or too irresolute to make the acquisitions necessary to understand this language well, then let them keep away from our public Seminaries, where such study is required, and prepare in another way for the ministry, where their sloth and irresolution can be more creditably indulged. There can be but one persuasion, in regard to this whole matter, among all men of sense. Either the acquisition of the Hebrew language is valuable, or it is not: if it is not, then choose a course of study which supersedes it; if it is, then study it so as to get something valuable from it; something more than the name of being a Hebrew scholar, a name which is not unfrequently bestowed on some, who would find it, in most cases, beyond their power to distinguish a Qamets Hhateph from a Qamets.

Let not the student, then, who is in earnest, deem one hour misspent, which is spent in giving him elementary knowledge that will make him radically acquainted with the nature of the language which he is studying. Let him patiently pursue the method of thorough analysis, to which I have attempted to introduce him in the preceding pages; and then I can promise him a rich harvest in due time, for all his toil in thus sowing the seed. Those who will not cultivate the soil, nor duly sow the seed, must expect a harvest that will be light; or at best, a crop of grain, the kernel of which is either shrivelled or blasted.

The Notes, for the future, will, as intimated above, be more sparse than heretofore, on account of the reasons stated at the commencement of these remarks. Still, they are intended to leave nothing of an analytical nature unexplained, which one may not now suppose the student able to find out, by his own efforts.

The biblical accentuation, for a few of the first Nos., is but partially inserted. It is intended to be employed, only in case the larger pause-accents occur, or a word has the tone on the penult, or there is some special reason (which will be the subject of notice) for inserting it.

After these Nos., which reach as far as the end of Gen. II., the whole train of accents is introduced. The reasons for this will be stated, when I came to the Notes on that part of the sequel, which commences with Gen. III.

I would fain hope, that the student will pursue the same thorough course of analysis, in regard to all which is to come, as he has been taught to do, in regard to Part II. In this way, the knowledge which he may have already acquired will be put to the test. The instructer, also, should persevere in the same particularity of demand upon the student, which the nature of the Notes above has led him to make. In this way, a multitude of difficulties, that must press upon the Hebrew student at any advanced course of inaccurate study in the usual way, will be removed in limine, and gradually; so that he will never be sensible of any loss of time, occasioned by efforts to overcome them. The knowledge necessary to remove them, will thus incorporate itself with all his linguistic acquisitions of the Hebrew, and become a component and necessary part of it. I repeat it, and I desire it to be distinctly remembered by every student of Hebrew, who uses this book, that it is much better to master all the difficulties, at an early period, (and a great saving of time also, if the whole course of study be taken into view), than it is to pass them over, and defer them to a future opportunity, which it is supposed will be more convenient. Like most procrastinated objects, this, in all probability, will never be obtained, where such a course is taken.

NOTES ON PART III.

No. I.

(2)* הַּרָהָּה, 3 fem. Praet. from הָּרָה, Methegh, 66. e.g.— אַהָּה, tone on the penult, the first accent marking it, 95. b; הַהָּה, as the tone shews, 100. a, is a Segholate, employed instead of הָּהָה, 120. b; Tav Raphe, 80.—הָּה, the same throughout, the kind of accent only excepted.— הָּהָה, hhō-shēkh, 62. 2.— פָּבֶּר, Piel Part. fem., Par. XXI.

^{*} The Nos. in parentheses denote the verses in the Hebrew text.

Some have supposed that NIE, in v. 1, means only, to dispose, to arrange, to form, viz. out of materials already existing, to reduce to order. But v. 2 shews, that no mere arrangement or disposition of matter can be intended by & ; for after the action implied by Nnz had been performed, the earth still remained in a chaotic state. That the original matter of the heavens was in a similar condition, is evident from vs. 6-8, and 14-19. All order and arrangement plainly seem to be considered, by the writer of Gen. 1., as having been effected after the original act of creation. With the apostle, therefore, we may safely believe, that " the worlds were formed by God, so that the things which are seen, were not made from those which do appear, Heb. 11: 3," i. e. were not originally made out of matter already existing. The original act of creation, as understood by the sacred writers, appears plainly to have been, the calling of matter into being, the causing of it to exist; and out of this, the heavens and the earth were afterwards formed, i.e. reduced to their present order and arrangement. Philosophy may speculate on this, and maintain, with Aristotle, the eternity of matter; but philosophy can prove nothing on this subject, nor even render such speculations probable, if revelation were out of the question.

אוֹהוֹ (וּהֹהּ נְבְהֹהֹה, lit. emptiness and desolation, or, empty and void, two synonymous words, of nearly the same import; and designed therefore to express intensity, 438. d. and Note; so that the meaning here seems to be, 'The earth, in its original state, was altogether empty or void,' viz. devoid of the various productions which it afterwards was caused to exhibit.

קרוש, etc. i. e. no light yet existed, to shine on this empty, desolate מוֹרִים,. This last word seems to denote the abyss of chaotic elements, out of which the world was formed; probable root, בּוֹרָם, to be confused, bewildered.—בּוֹרָם, divine energy or efficacy; comp. תּעְּנִינְעִם in Wahl's Lex. no. 6. b. a. etc.—בּוֹרָם, hovered over, brooded over; lit. applied to fowls hovering over their young. It seems here to designate the power or energy of the Creator, which, as it were, brooding over the newly created world, imparted to its elements the power of communicating life and energy to plants, animals, etc.; comp. Gen. 1: 11, אַבֶּקָהָ, let the earth cause to spring forth; and v. 12, רְבָּאָרָה, and the earth did bring forth, viz. plants, trees, etc. Comp. also Gen. 1: 24 seq. where it is stated, that the earth produced animals of various kinds. To this vivifying influence, the בְּרֶבֶּהְ of our text seems plainly to refer.

בּיִבּי indicates the same thing here as בְּיִבּי and so, on the other hand, מְּבִיבּי is frequently used for בַּיִב, see Lex. That the original chaotic mass, from which the earth in its present form was made, exhibited בַּיִב , water, as the predominant element, appears from Gen. 1: 9. The assertion, that בּיבִי אֱלֹהִים brooded בַּיִבְּיבְיבָ , over, on the face of, this element, borrows its costume from the action literally indicated by בַּיבְּיבָּים. Meaning: 'Divine influence communicated a productive, vivifying power, to the original elements of the earth.'

No. II. Gen. I. 3-5.

(3) יְהֵּר, a Segholate apoc. Fut. of הָהָה, 283. ץ, k, instead of יְהָר, or יְהָר, 120. b; or instead of the nude apoc. form יְהָר, comp. the Segholate forms of nouns, in 367 and Par. of Dec. VI. s—w. This apoc. Fut. 3 pers. is used instead of the Imp., 201. Note.—יְהָר, with Vav conversive, but Dag. omitted in the Yodh, 73. Note 3; Methegh here, 87. g.

This sentence presents one of the highest instances of moral sublimity, which can be any where found. Longinus has cited it as such, in his work on the Sublime.

בְּבָּבֶּרָ, 216. 4.—קְשָׁהַבָּ, ה with Pattahh, 152. a. 3; הַ without Methegh, comp. 87. g.

(זְרָאוֹר for בְּאוֹר , 152. a. Note. לְּאוֹר וֹשׁם, to the light, day. After a verb of naming (אָרָא), the Hebrews put the object addressed in the Dat. with בְּ , and the name given in the Acc., and govern it by אֵרָה — זְרֵשְׁהֹב for דְּהַהְּדֹּר, 152. a. Note. בּוֹבְּיִב out of pause; הוֹ is merely paragogic, and the original ground form is בִּיבָ , Dec. VI. בְּיִבְּה , see in v. 3.— זְרָה (the const. is בִּיבָר, see 142. a; for the use of בַּיִב as an ordinal, see 396.

"But could there be day and night, at this period, when no sun was created? The heavenly luminaries were not formed, until the fourth day; see vs. 14—19."

The seeming difficulties involved in this, have led many recent critics to deny that the account of the creation, in Gen. 1., is any thing more than a kind of philosophical speculation, adorned with a species of poetic costume. 'But here, i. e. in v. 5,' say they, 'the writer has forgotten himself; for he has represented the first, second, and third days as having had a regular existence, before the heavenly luminaries were formed.' That the representation itself is such as they assert it to be, need not be denied. But that 'the writer forgot himself,' is not equally certain. In Gen. 1: 3, 4, light and darkness are distinctly related to have had an existence, before the sun, moon, and stars were created. All that remains then, to render the fact probable that day and night existed at the same period, is, to suppose that the same Almighty Creator, who formed the light and the darkness, did cause successive alternations of these, so as to make day and night, before the heavenly luminaries were called into being. Was not the same omnipotence which created the light, competent to effect such an alternation of it? That it did not effect it, who is able to prove? And until it is proved, we may acquiesce in the views of the sacred historian.

No. III. Gen. I. 6-8.

(6) בְּחֹיך, ground-form קָּהָ, Dec. VI. ח.—יִּדִי, consists of the Fut. יְרָהִי, as above, joined with r conjunction, (not r conversive, which takes the vowel Pattahh, 208). The original points would be thus, רְּהָדְּה , which is an impossible syllable, 42, comp. 137, and also 152. c. 5. The reason why יְהָה (not יְהָה) is here used, is to connect this word, in construction, with יִה in the preceding clause, and to shew that both stand in the same predicament as to meaning. The use of יְהָה here, would give the sense of, and it was; which the writer does not mean to say.

בּרְ בֵּיִם וּבִּין בִּיִם לְּבִים בְּרֵם בּרִוּ בִּיוֹם בְּרֵם בּרִוּ So in Deut. 17: 8; comp. also in Gen. 1: 7. This use of after בֵּין is peculiar, and not explained sufficiently by the Lexicons. Lit. By a separating (בִּיִן) of the waters, in respect to (בְּיִן the waters; i. e. of the waters above the visible expanse of the heaven (בְּרָבִין), from those on, or in, the earth beneath; comp. v. 7.

- (קיביש (פּבְרָבי, 283. γ. בַּבְבֵּבּל , in v. 4. בַבָּב , compound of מָבָל , 407. f. מַצַל לֶּבְרָעִי , lit. from the above (the upper part) of the expanse, or, the above in respect to the expanse.
- (8) לֶרָקִיבַ שָּׁבֶּי, construction after a verb of calling, or naming; see on v. 5.

No. IV. Gen. I. 9-12.

(9) יָקְרָּוּ, ȳq-q̄q-v̄ū, with the first א moveable, 56. 1, Fut. Niph. of הַבָּשָה, יְנְהַרְאֶּה, v. 6; הַבָּשָה, Fut. Niph. 3 fem. sing., from הָבָּשָה; for הַ, comp. $\S\S$ 111. 112.—הַבָּשָה, hǎy-yāb-bā-shā, Dec. VI. fem., like the Greek $\mathring{\eta}$ $\xi\eta\varrho\acute{\alpha}$.

Meaning: 'Let the waters which cover the whole earth' (making it a הַּהִה), 'be collected into an ocean, or oceans, so that the solid earth may appear.'

- (10) הְלָמִקְנֵה, ū-lɛmǐq-vē, from מְקנָה , Dec. IX., in const. state. בְּקנָה, see on v. 4.
- 11. מְּדֶשֵׁא, Fut. apoc. Hiphil; for Methegh, see 87. h. Comp. v. 2 with this, as to sentiment.—עָּשֶׁב, in apposition with מָּדֶּי, בְּיִרִרעַ, Part. Hiphil.—יָבֶי, the tree of fruit, i. e. the fruit-tree. יַבְיִרְרַעָּ, v̄o-sĕp-pɛrī, 75. a. The accent is placed here on the first syllable in עָשֶׁה, because the word is immediately followed by a tone-syllable, בְּרַרְ, לַבְּיִבוֹי, being a monosyllable.—יָבְיִרְנִ, לַבְּיִבוֹי, whose seed, 478.—יֹב, [is] in it, 554.

(12). בַּלְּבֵּא, Vav conversive, and apoc. Fut. Hiphil from בָּלָּבָּא, אָבֶּאָרָבָּה, אָבָּאָרָבָּה, אָבָּאָרָבָּר, suff. pronoun, see in Par. under 336.—בּבָּאָרָבָּא, אַפּֿיּבּה, אָבָּאָרָבּּרָה, 75. a. But here the accent is removed, by the Maqqeph which follows, 89, making a difference between this and the instance in v. 11 above.

No. V. Gen. I. 14-19.

- (14) יְהִי, sing. apoc. Fut. (see on v. 3. above), while הַאַרְאָּרָ, is plural; see Synt. 489 and Note.—הֹאָבָ, from הַּאָרָ, Dec. III.; for the omission of Vav in both the final syllables, see § 63. § 65. בְּרָבְיִלְּ, 137; בְּרָבְיִלְ, const. of Dec. III.—בְּרָבְיִלְ, Inf. Hiph., for form, see 216. 3, and comp. 152. a. Note.—יְּהָילָ, וְרָבּוּ conj. giving the Praet. form a Fut. sense, 209.—רוֹחַאּבְ, from הַאַּ, and for אַרֹּחָיִר, $ 63. § 65.—בּיִבְיִּר, from הַאַרָּ, הַרְּבָּרִילָּ, from הַאַרָּ, מִינְיִרָּ, וֹנְיִרָּ, וֹנְיִרָּ, Dec. II., Munahh on the Mem instead of a Methegh, 87. Note 3, comp. 87. a.—בּיִבָּי, Dec. XI. Meaning: 'Let them be for signs which shall distinguish seasons, days, and years.' Lit. Let them be for signs, even for stated seasons, and for days and years.
- (15) יְהָרוּ , see on v. 14.—יְבְּאוֹר, ibid. The student will observe the diversity of orthography, in regard to the insertion or omission of the Quiescents; see § 63. § 65.—יָבָאָת, with a pause-accent of the second class, but Pattahh not prolonged, 149.

 אוֹר, Inf. Hiph. of אוֹר, for the בְּ, see 521. c; lit. for the causing of light.
- (16) יביש, supra v. אַרִּבְּשׁי, dual const. of מַבְּשׁי, in const. state with מַבְּשִׁי, 457. a.—מַבְּשׁי, with the article, 414. 1.—מַבְּשׁי, Acc. after שַבְּיִי implied, and mentally brought along from the preceding clause; for אַרְבִּשְׁי, see 427.—מַבְּשִׁילָּהָר. Dec. XIII. For the rule of the day, is a figurative expression, denoting the powerful or predominating influence of the sun by day. So Pliny calls the sun, Coeli rector; and Cicero, Omnium moderator ac dux.—מַבְּשִׁרַבְּשִׁי, as above.—מְבַּשִּׁי, the small, i. e. the smallest, or the smaller, 455. a.—מַבְּשִׁרַבָּת, with parag. הַ, and tone on the penult, 100. i.—מַבְּשִׁרַבַּת, Methegh, 87. e.
 - (17) בַּחַן, Fut. with ז conversive, from נָחַן, 254. 2; lit. set or put.—בּתָּא, חַאֵּ sign of Acc. combined with suff. pronoun בּ; see under 408.

- (18) בְּלֵילֶת ְיֹלְרָתְּיֹלְ, זְרְ conj.; לְּדְרָתְּיֹלְ, Inf. construct. Before it, מְּלֵבְתְּעֹלְ is implied; lit. [and he set them] for ruling.— בְּלֵבְלָה for בַּלְּבְלָה , for בַּלְּבְלָה , for בַּלְּבָלָה , for בַּלְּבָלָה , for בַּלְּבָלָה , lnf. Hiph., where the contrary practice, viz. that of retaining ה, is exhibited, 216. 3.— בַּהַלָּבְר בָּל , 152. a. 3.
 - (19) יברא , v. 4 above.

No. VI. Gen. I. 20-22.

- (20) אַלְשְׁרָצוֹּ, 201. Note.—יְרְשָׁרָצוֹּ, a mode of construction exceedingly common in Hebrew, viz. that of joining a verb with its correlate noun, in order to designate intensity, certainty, repetition, etc. יְבֶשׁ here plainly means, the smaller water animals.—יָבֶּשׁ חַׁרָּבָּי of living or animated breath. As to the meaning of breath (for שַבֶּי), see Job 41: 13, an undoubted instance; and nearly as clear is it, in Gen. 1: 30, below.—יָדַ, properly adj., from יַדְ, Dec. VIII. Meaning: 'Smaller animals which live and breathe;' or, 'which have the breath of life.' I take יִּבָשׁ to be in the const. state, before יִבֶּשׁ יַבֶּשׁ to be in the const. state, before יִבָּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשִּבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁי יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁי יִבְּשׁי יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִּבְּשִׁ יִבְּשִּׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִּבְשִׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשְׁ יִבְּשִׁ יִבְּשִּי יִבְּשִׁ יִבְ
- י אָלֹבְּלָּבְ, noun of multitude, no plural, Dec. I. יְעֹבֹּבְּלַ, Poel of אָבֶי, 175 and 262. על־פָּבֵּי, Rosenmueller renders, versus, towards; and he appeals to Ex. 9: 22. 10: 21. Gen. 19: 28, for confirmation. The meaning thus given is: 'Let the fowl fly over the earth, toward the expanse of heaven;' or, 'toward the firmament above.' On account of the word בְּבָיִי here, it would seem necessary to acquiesce in this explanation.
- (21) בְּלֵּבְיבֶּהָ, Yodh omitted in the last syllable, 63; lit. seamonsters, the larger sea-animals. הַבְּיבָּים, every living being, or living creature, or living thing; the two latter Hebrew words designating any thing which has animal or animated life. בְּבֶּיבָה, article for pronoun here, 414. 2. b. Note; בְּבֶּיבָה, part. fem. Seghol., see in Par. XXI. לְבִיבָּה, suff. of plur. pron. בָּבָּי, see in 336. אַבָּי, lit. of wing, i.e. every winged fowl, 440. a.
 - (22) זְלֶבֶרָן, Vav convers. without the Dagh. after it, 73.

Note 3; יְבֶּרֶךְ, with penult tone, 101. b, and Tseri shortened in the final syllable, 129. a.—מָּהָר, see on v. 17.—מַהְלָּהְלָּהְ, for בְּבֶּהְרָּהְ, לְּבְּלִּהְ, for בְּבְּהִּי, for בְּבְּלָּהְ, לְבִּיּהְ, לְּבְּיִּהְ, לְבִּיּהְ, לְבִּיּהְ, לְבִּיּהְ, לְבִּיּהְ, לְבִּיהְ, for בְּבְּיִּהְ, for בְּבְּיִהְ, for בְּבְּיִבְּיִּהְ, for בְּבְּיִבְּיִּהְ, for בְּבְּיִבְּיִּהְ, for בְּבָּיִהְ, for בְּבָּיִהְ, for בְּבָּיִהְ, 152. a. Note, from בְּיִבְּיִּהְ, pec. VIII. irreg.; בְּבִּיִּהְ seems here to mean, the cavity, or gulf, in which the waters of the ocean repose. In the same sense it is plainly used, in ls. 11: 9. Hab. 2: 14; although the Lexicons neglect this sense.—בָּבָּה, apoc. Fut. Kal, from בְּבָּרִּהְ, 283. γ.

No. VII. Gen. I. 24-31.

- - (25) אַדְמָה, Methegh, 87. e.
- (26) אָבָּיָב, Fut. Kal. 1st plur., from אָבָּיבָּיָ. Most of the older critics find an intimation in this plural, (as they believe), of a plurality of persons in the Godhead. But the evidence seems too doubtful, in this case, to be relied upon. The pluralis majestaticus, or pluralis excellentiae, as it is called, in respect to אָבּיִּבָּי, פָּרַיִּיִּם, etc. seems now to be generally conceded, 437. 2. That pronouns may be used, and are used, in a similar way, among the Oriental nations, seems to be somewhat certain from the following examples; viz. Ezra 4: 18, 'The letter which ye have sent unto us (אַבִּיבָּיַ Chald.);' it is king Artaxerxes who says this. Dan. 2: 36, 'We will tell the interpretation of it;' it is Daniel who is speaking. So in 1 Macc. 10: 19, 20, king Alexander says, Ακηκόαμεν-καθεστάκαμεν. In 1 Macc. 11: 31, 33, 34, king Demetrius says, Γγοάψαμεν - ήμων - έκρίναμεν - έστακαμεν, κ.τ.λ. In 1 Macc. 15: 9, king Antiochus says, Κρατήσωμενδοξάσομεν. So in John 3: 11, Jesus says, οίδαμεν-λαλουμενέωρακαμεν. In Mark 4: 30, Jesus says, ομοιώσομεν-παραβάλωμεν. In 1 John 1: 4, this apostle says of himself, γράφομεν; and Paul often employs the first person plural. Comp. with בינטה above, Gen. 3: 22, 'Like one of us;' Gen. 11: 7, 'Let us go down, and let us confound; also Is. 6: 8, 'Who will go for us.' The passages sometimes adduced, in Gen. 29: 27. Num. 22: 6. Cant. 1: 4. 1 K. 12: 9. 2 Sam. 16: 20. 24: 14, and Job 18: 2, 3, may be all considered as communicative, i. e. as common to the speaker and his friends, and so do not fairly belong to the above illustrations; although Rosenmueller has adduced the three last passages, in the latest edition of his Commentary on the Pentateuch, as evidence that the plural was used by an individual speaker, and appropriated to himself.

It is clear, that this idiom is not common or frequent, in the Old Testament; it is more common in the Apocrypha, and in the New Testament. In modern times, it is the well known and general usage of royalty. It is singular, indeed, that kings should employ it for the sake of adding emphasis to their claims of honour, while a private individual, in particular one who addresses a public assembly, employs it to avoid the appearance of egotism, or of assuming too much; a manifest abuse of its original design.

Modern usage, however, can not help us to determine the usus loquendi of the Hebrews. So far as this is now discoverable, by the evidence before us respecting the use of the plur. number in the Old Testament, I feel constrained to agree with those critics, who resolve it, on the whole, into the pluralis excellentiae.

אבל אינור אין, with suff. בר היים, from אין, Dec. VI. a. The plural ביל is to be accounted for on the same ground with בַּעָשָׁה above. בּיַעָשָׁה, suff. state of בַּיִּגרָה, Dec. I., בו as before.

Not a few recent critics have maintained, that the writer of Gen. 1. believed God to be in reality of the same form with man, i.e. that the writer was an Anthropomorphite. But was Paul one of this sect, because he says, in 1 Cor. 11: 7, that 'man is the image and glory of God?" and this too, not in reference to his moral qualities, as in Eph. 4: 24. Col. 3: 10. Was Moses, (who, if not the author of the account of creation, yet at least was in all probability the person who inserted it in the Pentateuch), was he a believer in the real physical, human form of the Divinity? This same Moses, who, in the second Commandment, has so absolutely and utterly prohibited all resemblances whatever of the Godhead, either to be made, or to be worshipped? What other motive, but a belief in the spirituality of God, could induce him to do thus? In a word; one may well ask, whether there is any more Anthropomorphism in Genesis, than in other parts of the Bible; and a considerate, fair answer to this question, will enable us to judge of those opinions, which ascribe such childish views of the Supreme Being to the early ages of the world, and in a special manner to the early part of the Hebrew Scriptures. If God ever revealed himself, in any way, to the early progenitors of our race, it is at least essential to suppose, that his spiritual nature was one of the first things which was revealed and understood. How could the idea of a Creator and Governor of the Universe, consist with the idea of a Divinity limited by a physical form, and of course circumscribed in his operations? The early ages of the world were not so stupid as to be incapable of seeing this; nor are the monuments left behind of their skill and capacity, such as to warrant us in taxing the people of God with the grossness of Anthropomorphism.

In regard to the words "" and "" they stand related in Hebrew, as imago and similitudo do in Latin. They are so nearly synonymous, that they are plainly employed here together, for the sake of intensity or emphasis, 438. d. Meaning: 'God made man peculiarly in his image, i. e. in a manner altogether distinct from that of other created terrestrial beings.' That this has special respect to the intellectual, rational, and moral powers, with which man was endowed, and to the consequent pre-eminence or dominion over the lower creation which these gave him, seems to be obvious, when all the passages respecting God and man, in various parts of the Sacred Writings, are compared together. His pre-eminence is particularly referred to in what immediately follows.

יִרְרָדּוּ, יִרְרָדּוּ, not conversive, but only connecting the Imp. sense here, with the Imp. sense of בַּשָּשׁׁה in the preceding clause; see on יִרְהַיּ, v. 6 above.—זְּרָדְּוּ, Fut. of הָּרָה, 201. Note.— יִרְהָּוּ, the verb taking ב prep. after it, 506; Beth Raphe, 80; בְּבָּה, from בְּבָּה, Dec. XI., ג Raphe, 81. 1.—קָּבִּיּרְה, with prep. בְּ, for the same reason that בַּבְּהַלָּה (for בַּבְּבָּה, 152. a. Note), and in בְּבַּהְּהָה (bis) in the latter part of the verse; for all have יִרְּהָּרָה, art. for pronoun, 414. 2. b. Note.

The pre-eminence of man over all other terrestrial creatures, is clearly and strikingly expressed by this.

- (פר בּיִבּיִר, used generically here, as the plur. pron. בּיְאָרָה at the end of the verse, clearly shews. יְבּיבְּבְּי, omitting here, which was joined with בְּבִיב in v. 26. Intensity of expression, however, is here effected, by a repetition of בּיבָּיב itself, as follows in the sequel; see 438. d. הוא, him, see in 408, Par. of אַ with Accusative. בְּבְּבָּה, Dec. XI. The application of בְּבָּבָּה to בִּבְּבָּה, shews that this last word is here generic. בּיִבְּהַב הַּאַר, see in 408 as above.
- (28) בְּרֶבֶּרְ, see on v. 22.—בּהָבֶּרְ, 506.—בְּרֶבְּרָ, see on v. 22.—בְּרֶבְּרָ, שׁ with Qibbuts vicarious, instead of שׁ, 41; for the omission of the Vav, 65; הָ, it fem., viz. the earth.—
 וואר, Imp. of בְּרָבִּהְ followed by בְּ prep. before the nouns which it governs, as in v. 26.
- (29) בְּחַבְּי, for בְּחַבְּי, 254. c. Note. בְּחַבְּי, Part. act. of בְּחַבִּי, art. הָּגְיץ Dec. VII.—בּבְין, in which, 478.— יְבִרבּיִּן, tree-fruit, dendral fruit.—בְּבָיִן, lit. seeding seed, i. e. producing seed. Meaning: 'Every fruit tree, which has the power of propagating itself;' or, 'every one which has the power of producing a regular crop.'—בּבְּיִבּיִּבְּי, like the Latin, sit testimonio, sit decori, etc.; אַבְּבָּהַר, Dec. XII.

Because animals are not here mentioned, it has been maintained by many, that animal food was not originally permitted to man, before the flood. But see Gen. 4: 2, 4. Why was Abel a shepherd? See also Gen. 7: 2, where beasts clean and unclean are distinguished. Does not this probably refer to animals, allowed or forbidden to be eaten? Still, in Eden, our first parents probably did not eat flesh.

(30) בְּלֶכְלֹר, i. e. בְּלֶכְלֹי, from the preceding verse.—יְבֶּלֶּלְ זֹב in which, as above.—יָבֶלָּלְ מִחֹיִם, animal or animated breath; see on v. 20.—יְבֶּלֶרְעֶרֶלְ, i. e. בָּהַתִּי , I have given; בָּהָתִי , grass, vegetation here of the herbaceous kind, as the word בַּעֶּבֶּל denotes, which is subjoined as explanatory.

The fruit trees, therefore, seem to have been originally given to man, for his nutriment; and the gramineous, herbaceous substances appropriated to the animals.

31. מוֹב מאֹד, 456. a.

No. VIII. Gen. II. 1-3.

- (1) לַּבְבֵּלֵּלְ, יֵ conversive Vav, with Dagh. after it omitted, 73. Note 3, comp. 87. g, which shews that Methegh is usually inserted in such cases, although the omission of it is pretty frequent.—
 יְבֶּבֶּי, Pual Fut. of בְּבֶּבְי, Rosenm., 'omnes copiae celestes ac terrestres.' But elsewhere, אַבָּב, in connexion with בִיבָּשָ, always refers to the stars; and so I take it here; as in Neh. 9: 6.

firms, that God on the seventh day, had completed (בְּבֶיְ) his work; for that this is the sense of בַּבְיָבִי etc., which follows.

(3) בְּבֶּבֶר, see 208. e. g. Meaning: 'God declared this day to be worthy of peculiar distinction, honour, and observance.' So the sequel explains it; בַּבְּבָר (208. e. g.), and set it apart, consecrated it to a special and sacred use; such is the meaning of שַבְּבָּ Greek, aqooiseiv.—יֹם, on it, during it.—יֹבֶבֶ בַּבְּי שׁׁוֹנֹה he had created in respect to making; i.e. which he had created and made; or, which he had formed by assiduous operation. Comp. Ecc. 2: 11, for a like expression. The phraseology is unusual; but the meaning does not seem to be obscure. As a comment on the sense of בַּבְבֵּר and בַּבָּר here, read Ex. 20: 8—11.

The efforts made by recent critics and geologists, to explain away the account here given of creation, or to explain it so as to accord with their respective theories, are well known to every critical reader. The ratio loci et temporis does not permit me to enter into a particular examination of them here. A few hints are all that I shall give.

The account of the creation, in Gen. I. II., has been represented as a song, a $\mu\nu\nu\partial \sigma s$, a philosophem, i. e. a philosophical speculation about the origin of the universe, and (more prevailingly) of late, among a certain class of critics, as a kind of semi-poetic $\mu\nu\nu\partial\sigma s$, philosophic in its speculative origin, but adorned with popular tradition as to its various particulars. Even Rosenmueller, in the latest edition of his Commentary on the Pentateuch, more than intimates, that the cosmogony of Moses is to be interpreted on the like principles with that of Hesiod, (Vol. I. p. 58); that the division of the work of creation into a period of six days, and the declaration respecting the sanctification of the seventh, was made by Moses only to give currency to his law respecting the Sabbath, p. 59. And in the sequel he declares his belief, that Moses borrowed his cosmogony from the Egyptians.

The difficulties alleged to lie in the way, by critics who belong to this class, are, that the writer of the cosmogony in Genesis believes the earth to be the centre of the universe, and that the sun, moon, and all the heavenly bodies are merely subservient to it; that one day, and one only [the fourth], suffices to form all the myriads of suns and planetary worlds, while five days are occupied with the formation of the earth, (which shews the ignorance of the writer in question respecting the real nature of the universe); that the clouds and sky are represented as a solid expanse above us, holding one division of the waters in its bosom, Gen. 1: 7; that days and nights are represented as having an existence, before the heavenly bodies were created which occasion them; that not only vegetables, but even animals, spring from the earth, Gen. 1: 11, 12, 20, 24; and, in a word, that the whole account has a mythic air, a costume which tradition and speculation have evidently put upon it. All these and the like objections have been variously, often, earnestly, and copiously urged by critics; while geologists have united in endeavouring to shew, in various ways, and by a great variety of theories and by appeal to phenomena, that the earth must have been several thousand years in forming; or, at least, it must have been made out of the ruins of another world. Even Dathe has embraced this last conjecture, and defends it in his translation and notes.

If a satisfactory answer can be given to all these objections and difficulties, still it would take a volume to make it out. After all too, one may well conclude with the apostle in Heb. 11: 3, that 'faith' is necessary, in order to believe that the worlds were created, agreeably to the Scriptural account. My own view of the Mosaic cosmogony I can state in a few words. If it does not agree with sound principles of interpreting Scripture, let it be rejected.

I believe the account in Gen. I., to be an account of matters of fact, of real verities; not a mere philosophical or poetical speculation or $\mu\dot{n}\theta os$; and that the record is authentic, and entitled to our full credit. That the Egyptian and Phenician cosmogonies resemble it, is no objection to its credit. Common tradition, from Noah downwards, propagated the original true account, with some additions, among heathen nations. How could it be otherwise?

But the costume of the narration is altogether anthropopathic, i. e. accommodated to the feelings, views, and methods of expression, existing in the time of Moses. For example; the Hebrews thought and spoke of the earth and of the heavenly bodies, according to their optical appearance. Agreeably to this, the heavens are an arch, solid, and retaining the waters above, Gen. 1; 7. 7: 11. 8: 2. Ps. 104: 3. 148: 4. Our author also represents the sun, and moon, and stars, just as they appear to a spectator from our planet, as made to subserve the purposes of light, and to cause the seasons; and so far as he goes, he truly represents them. He also represents the earth as producing vegetables, vs. 11, 12; the waters as producing fowls and fish, vs. 20, 21; the earth again as producing wild and tame animals and reptiles, vs. 24, 25; the two latter cases being contrary to our present experience, and, as it seems to me, the result of the peculiar productive power communicated to the original elements, by the divine influence mentioned in Gen. 1: 2. That the form of the parration, or rather, that the modus of the expressions employed in it, is evidently of optical origin, can hardly be doubted. But after all, what is the difference between the principle which led to this mode of narration, and that which leads us, with all our certain knowledge of the solar system, to speak every day, and always, of the 'sun as rising and setting?' Is there any illusion in this? Any design to mislead? If not, then why might not the Hebrew speak of his expanse (בְקרב), and of the windows of heaven, through which the rain descends, as well as we can say that 'the sun rises and sets?

The Bible was not designed to teach the Hebrews astronomy or geology. Had it been given to them in the scientifical costume of the present day, it would have been a book utterly unintelligible. Moses made it intelligible; he designed it to be so. His object was to reveal, to the Jews, Jehovah as the maker of all things, and the object of supreme reverence and adoration. This object he has accomplished; not by astronomical and geological representations, but by popular ones. Is not this just as it should be; and just as we might reasonably expect it to be?

As to the relative importance, given by the Biblical account to our earth, we may say, at least, that it tallies well with the mission of God's own Son, to redeem our guilty race. Yet after all, the account only decides, that on the fourth day the heavenly bodies were formed; and not their relative importance.

The objections of geologists will deserve more serious consideration, when any two respectable authors among them ever come to agree with each other, and when the earth shall have been penetrated and examined, a little more than a eight thousandth part of its diameter; for this has not yet been done. In regard to the theory of gradual formations, which makes some thousands of years necessary to be comprehended in each of the six days; one might ask, how it can be proved, that all substances must have been formed in an incipient state merely? Were only acorns made at first instead of oaks? And was man an infant, when first from the hands of his Creator?

As to the views of our author, in respect to the length of the days and nights at the creation; nothing can be plainer than that usual days and nights are meant. How could he say, that "the evening and the morning made them," if this be not true? And if it be not true, then how long was the seventh day or sabbath, which followed the other six days? Moses in the fourth commandment, has given us as a reason for the sabbatical institution, that God made all things in six days, and rested on the seventh. Did Moses suppose the seventh day, then, to have been a different kind of a day, as to length, from the other six? Or did he mean, that after six days, each of several thousand years, a sabbath of equal length should be kept by the Jews? If not, then our cosmogony means of course to convey the idea of ordinary days, and no others. If indeed Moses does, after all, contradict geology, then be it so; but to violate the laws of exegesis in order to accommodate a geological theory, (about which, moreover, no two considerable geologists are agreed), is not acting in accordance with the precepts of Scriptural Hermeneutics. Who does not know, too, that the latest and highest efforts of geologists, are turning toward the confirmation of the Scripture account of the deluge; and that some among the most distinguished of them, find no occasion to force the language of the sacred record, even in the present case, out of its common and obvious meaning? I trust the time is coming, when all the lights of science will serve to render more intense, and more widely to diffuse, the light of revelation. May that cheering day be near!

It has often been alleged, that 'the whole of the cosmogony in question must evidently be a $\mu\dot{v}\theta\sigma\varsigma$, or a philosophem, because the very nature of the case shews, that no man could have witnessed any part of the work of creation, inasmuch as man was made last of all.' But this allegation rests entirely upon the assumption, that no revelation to man, respecting the origin of all things, was ever made in any supernatural way; an assumption not compatible with the benevolence of the Creator, the natural ignorance and error of man, and the duties which he owes to God as the Author of his spiritual being.

No. IX. Gen. II. 7-25.

(זְרֵבֶּעֶר, from peculiar, from בַּרָּרָעָּר, Fut. בַּרִּיּעָר, with the tone not retracted, i. e. without Vav conversive, (in almost every case, the Fut. with final Tseri is of such a form as בַּרַבּי, or בַּעֵּר, 244. a.) This verb has also a Fut. like that of Class III. verbs בַּר, 251, viz. בַר. As an intrans. verb signifying to be distressed, it has other forms of the Future, viz. בַּעַר, and בַּעֵּר (which is analogical, 244. a). בַּעַר, Acc. of material, as grammarians call it, i. e. the Acc. designating the materials out of which a thing is made, used in a kind of adverbial way, 428. e.

רְבְּאָרָק, Dec. XI. That this name gave occasion to the appellation בְּאָ, seems quite probable, both from the nature of the case as here represented, and also as represented in Gen. III. 19. The etymology, which derives בְּאָ from בּאָ red, because oriental men are of a reddish hue, is too fanciful to be entitled to much credit. Lit. [with, by means of] dust from the earth, i. e.

with terrestrial dust.—וְּבֶּבֶּי , from וְבָּבָּ, Fut. Pattahh, 235.—וְצָּבָּי , dual suff. of בַּבָּבּי ; lit. breathed into his nostrils the breath of life. Meaning: 'Endowed him with living or animated breath.' The language is clearly מֹע ອົດກວກ ພອ ພິຊ ; I mean, it is occasioned by the action of breathing among men.— בַּבָּב בְּבָּב וְלַבְּי , lit. for a living or animated being; a periphrasis often employed by the Hebrews, in connexion with the verb of existence, when it signifies he became, it became.

(8) יַבְּשֵׁל , from יַבְּשֵׁל , Fut. 235. בְּדִּלָה , an appellation of God, never employed in Gen. I., but uniformly used in Gen. II., and nearly so in Gen. III. A like distinction obtains, in many other parts of the book of Genesis. From this it has been argued, by late critics, that this book is made up of records earlier than the time in which the author of the Pentateuch lived, and composed by different persons; a supposition which has some external evidence in the book of Genesis to favour it. On the supposition that these ancient records were introduced by Moses himself, the authenticity of the book remains untouched by this critical opinion.

ገደ , Dec. VIII. The etymology would naturally lead to the idea of an enclosed place, (፲፰፮ protegere); but this is not necessarily attached to the idea of ፲፮ .—፲፱፮ , here prop. name; comp. 2 K. 19: 12. Is. 37: 12. Ezek. 27: 23, (where it is pointed ፲፱፮ , however, but this only determines the views of the Rabbinical Punctators); in all which places it is mentioned along with Haran (፲፱፱), a town of Mesopotamia, Gen. 11: 31, 32. 12: 5. 25: 43; and therefore Eden was probably at no great distance from Haran. See also Amos 1: 5, which probably refers to an Eden in Syria. That Eden means a country or tract of land here, is evident from Gen. 4: 16. The word is used figuratively, in allusion to the garden here described, in Is. 51: 3. Ezek. 28: 13. 31: 9. Joel 2: 3; in the three former cases it is accompanied by the parallel or epexegetical phrase, 'garden of the Lord.'

קרֶד, of the eastern country, (א prep. often makes a periphrasis of the Gen.), or toward the east, eastward, at the east, Gen. 12: 8 bis; so אָבָלָּהְ northward, Judg. 7: 1.—בּשָּׁהַר, apoc. Fut. Hiph.

of thu, with tone retracted and vowel shortened, 270. c. 3, comp. 208. Note 2.

9. בַּבְּבֵּה, apoc. Fut. Hiph. with Gutt., 236.—בַּבְּבַּה, Part. Niph.; for pointing, see 225.—בּבְּבָּה, pleasant to the sight.

בַּבְּבָּה, Dec. II.—בַּבְּבָּה, in the same construction with the preceding עַבֻ, and governed by בַּבְּבַּה implied. Meaning: 'The tree which preserves life;' or, 'The tree of which he that eateth shall live, and not die;' comp. Gen. 3: 22.

עץ הדעה טוב ורע, the tree of knowing good and evil. הדעה, fem. Inf. noun, used as a verbal from ידינ. The meaning has been greatly contested. Rosenm. contends that the meaning here is the same, as when applied to infants, in order to designate their entire ignorance; and he refers to Deut. 1: 39. Is. 7: 16. Jonah 4: 11. The two last cases, however, are quite different as to the manner of expression; and there remains only one, viz. Deut. 1: 39, to compare with our phrase. But that the meaning is the same in the latter instance, as in the former, appears to be contradicted by all the context preceding and succeeding, as well as by the nature of the case. Was man, made in the image of God, at first as ignorant as an infant? How then did he preserve himself? Or how could be understand his moral relations to his Creator; and how be guilty for not obeying a command, the nature of which he was incapable of understanding? Must we suppose the writer of our history to be so weak, as to put all these things together?

Then what crime could there be in attaining such a knowledge, as would enable one nicely to distinguish between moral good and evil? Has it not always been, and must it not always be, a virtue in the intelligent and moral creatures of God to do this?

There remains then but one rational supposition, in regard to the meaning of our phrase. This is, that by the knowledge of good and evil is meant, 'a knowledge of the difference or distinction between happiness and misery,' (as good and evil very commonly signify in the Scriptures, e.g. Is. 3: 10, 11, et. al. saepe); i.e. man, by eating the forbidden fruit, came to know the difference between happiness and misery;' or, 'the eating of the fruit which was prohibited, occasioned him to know, by unhappy experience, the difference between a state of happiness and one of misery.' This explanation plainly accords with the nature of the whole transaction, and with what ensued upon eating the fruit of the tree in question. The name, then, considered in this point of view, is quite intelligible and significant; is it so in any other?

The words of the tempter (Gen. 3: 5), whose object it was to deceive, can not be justly alleged against this interpretation; nor do the words of Jehovah, in Gen. 3: 22, make against it, for they are evidently of the nature of solemn irony, with allusion to the deception of the tempter, as recorded in Gen. 3: 5.

(10) אַבֶּי, issued, 527. b.—קֹבֶעֶּבֶּן, i.e. from some part of the region called Eden.—לַבְעֵּבֶּן, lnf. Hiph. with ה praefix retained, 216. 3. It is plain, that the river flowed through the garden, where our first parents were placed; and this, before its stream was disparted; i.e. one stream only watered Paradise.—הַבְּעָּד, and thence, which may refer either to זְבַ, or to the region in which it was, viz. בְּבֶּרָ . Rosenm. refers it to זְבָּ, (Alterthumskunde I. 192); but it is equally agreeable to usage in this case, to refer it to דָבֶּר; and some may prefer this here.—דָבֶּרָ, Fut. Niph., used as the Praeter by virtue of the Vav before the preceding word, connected with it and with the preceding x בָּבָרָ, comp. 503. Note 1.—קֹבֶרָ, 459.—יבָּרָ, sources, heads, here river-heads or sources; comp. v. 13, where בּוֹנִי is substituted for בַּבֹּרָר.

(11) הַבְּּבָּהְ, 465.—קֹישׁבַּ, the Phasis, as Rosenmueller and others suppose, a river of Colchis, running into the east end of the Black Sea. Taking off the endings—is and קֹיִם, we have the same radicals (שבּ) in both words. Xenophon, however, in his Anabasis, IV. 6, mentions a Phasis with which he met, farther south, and which must be, as it would seem, either the present Kur (Cyrus), or the Aras or Araxes. I regard the former as the more probable; because the Araxes seems to be the Gihon, mentioned in v. 13. The Kur takes its rise, if we may credit the best maps, in the northern part of Armenia, and running first northward, and then eastward, either passes through or grazes upon, the ancient ally construed as meaning, to encompass, to flow round on the margin of; but it plainly signifies, also, to pass through, to wind one's way through, as Is. 23: 16. 1 Sam. 7: 16 clearly shew. This sense of the word may be applied either to the Kur, or to the northern Phasis, both of which pass through Havilah, i. e. the country of Colchis; or it may be applied to the Kur, which also grazes upon, encompasses, a part of Havilah or Colchis.—קליי, prob. Colchis; which was rich in gold; e.g. Jason went thither after the golden fleece, i. e. gold caught in fleeces, gold separated from the waters of the Phasis by means of them. Colchis, no doubt, like all the early countries of Nomades and predatory hordes, was not a definitely bounded country. It lies at the east end of the Black Sea.—

Colchis, or Havilah. It finaly unites with the Araxes, and both empty into the south-western part of the Caspian Lake.

- (12) בַּהֵרֹא (for הַהָּיֹם, see 165. b. f), the same is, 469.— בַּבְּבֹּבְ, Βοελλιον, bdellium, a gum used as incense for burning, and of an aromatic smell.—בַּבָּב , prob. the onyx. So Rosenm. I, 209. Alterth.
- (13) גְּיִדּוֹרָ, not improbably the Araxes or Aras; which the Persians still call, בְּבֹּיבֶב , Gihon el Ras. בּבֹיבֶב , encompasses, or winds its way through; see on v. 11. Which of these senses it bears here, must depend on the situation of שוֹם, in respect to the river in question. כווא עונה , Cush or Kush.

But where is Cush? 'In the narrower sense,' says Gesenius, 'it means Ethiopia, i. e. the southern part of Arabia, or Ethiopia in Africa, which was a colony of the former; as the language shews.' But Ethiopia, in the widest sense, both Gesenius and Rosenmueller represent as equivalent to Southern Country, Torrid Zone, i. e. the region inhabited by people of colour; and both avow that there is an entire want of geographical accuracy in the Scriptural account of the local situation of Paradise.

^{&#}x27;How could Gihon,' (the Oxus, as Rosenmueller and others suppose, which running from the remote eastern country, empties itself into the south-eastern part of the Caspian Lake), 'how could this stream encompass the South-Land, or Ethiopia, or Southern Arabia?'

Fully to discuss these difficult problems of ancient geography, here, would be out of place. But as affirmations of this nature, on the part of such acute, learned, and distinguished critics as Gesenius and Rosenmueller, have a strong tendency to undermine the belief of the young inquirer, in the accuracy of the sacred historians, I shall suggest a few reasons, very briefly, why one may still believe, with the older critics, that there was a Cush Oriental, as well as a Cush Southern.

- (1) The very general custom in all ages, early and late, of naming places after distinguished persons, will be allowed.* Now Cush was the eldest son of Ham, (Gen. 10: 1. 1 Chron. 1: 8); and the father of Nimrod, the founder of the Babylonian empire, and of its great cities; the founder also of Nineveh, Rehoboth, Calah, and Resen, in Assyria; see Gen. 10: 8—12. In v. 11, the rendering should be, (as it is in the margin of our English bibles), He [Nimrod] went out of that land [viz. Babylon], into Assyria, 71.28, Acc. adverbial of place, 428. a. So Rosenm. in Alterthumskunde, Th. II. p. 94. The father of such a distinguished founder of empires and cities, which were the wonder of all succeeding ages, must himself have been entitled to distinction in this respect; not to mention, that he was a grandson of Noah. Had he no region or place in the East, named after him by such a son as Nimrod?
- (2) Among the people, whom the king of Assyria transported to the land of Israel, after he had conquered the ten tribes, and carried them away to Halah, Habor, the river Gozan, and the cities of the Medes, (i. e. to the northern part of Assyria and to Media), is one named אַבְּשֵׁר כַּוּח , men of Cuth, 2 K. 17: 30; also written הַהָּם, in 2 K. 17: 24. These are, in both places, mentioned in connexion with Babylonians, אַבְּשֵׁר בָּבֶּב , who accompanied them. The idol which they worshipped, is named בַּבְּבַר, 2 K.

^{*} Rosenmueller says, that most of the names in Gen. X. are names of countries, as well as of persons. Alterth. II. p. 94.

17: 30; plainly an oriental name, (not a Shemitish one), as appears in the proper names of the princes of Babylon, Nergal-Sharezer, Jer. 39: 3, 13, (also in Neriglissor, who slew Evilmerodach and mounted the throne of Babylon). אַבְּיִבֶּירִכּיבּת, דובּ הוּשׁ הוּשׁ בּיִּבּי הוּשׁ בּיִּבְּי הוּשׁ בּיִּבְּי הוּשׁ בּיִבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי בּיבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי בּיבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי בּיבּי בּיבּי בּיבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי בּיבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי בּיבּי הוּשׁ בּיבּי בּיבי בּיבּי ב

That the Cuthites or Cushites, transplanted from the east, were the most considerable of all the colonies which the king of Assyria placed in Samaria, is evident from the fact, that they gave name afterwards to the whole people of Samaria; for the Jews, ever since, have called the Samaritans Cuthites, בַּחִים or בַּחִים. There were, then, oriental Cuthites or Cushites.

- (3) Moses Choronensis, a native of Armenia, and who, in the fifth Century, wrote the history of that country, still extant, in his Geography appended to this work by the Whistons, includes all the country east of the Tigris, from the Caspian lake down to the Persian Gulph, under the name of Cush. Media he calls, Chushi-Capcoch; Elymais, Chushi-Chorasan; Persia, Chushi-Nemroz, and under Elymais he reckons a province named Chusastan, p.363. As there is no ground to dispute either the knowledge or the veracity of this historian, in respect to such a subject; and as this testimony reaches very far back, and shews the wide prevalence of the oriental generic name Cush, among the ancients who were natives of the east; so is it plain, that an oriental Cush is not merely ideal.
- (4) Chusistan, i. e. Cush country, is still the name of a province, on the east of the Tigris and of ancient Babylonia; although the Arabians appear to have changed the original orthography of the word.
- (5) The author of our history has referred to countries and places certainly known, as serving to confirm his account, and to put his readers in possession of definite views, respecting the situation of Eden. Would he venture to mix fable with truth, in a thing of this nature so easily contradicted by any oriental traveler? Did he not know to what he referred? Did not the original ancestors of the Jews spring from the East? Did not Jacob live there many years? Could it be a mere conjecture with him, (and with his descendents), whether there was a Cush in that region?

- (6) After a lapse of more than 3000 years, can the present names of places or rivers be adduced, in order to confute the account of Moses?
- (7) The acknowledged geographical accuracy (in the popular sense) of the Scriptures in general, makes very much against the supposition of Gesenius, Rosenmueller, and many others, that our author has here committed great mistakes, in his account of Paradise, and that the whole is a mere $\mu \dot{v} \vartheta o g$. Is it the manner of those who write $\mu \dot{v} \vartheta o u$, to describe locality in the way here practised?

I will only add, that understanding Cush of Cushi-Capcoch, i.e. the northern part of the region between the Caspian Lake and the Persian Gulph; and supposing the Gihon to be the Araxes; then does this river encompass Cush. There need be no $\mu\dot{\nu}$ - $\vartheta o s$ supposed here.

But is not Assyria, as a province, to be distinguished from As-

⁽¹⁴⁾ בְּלֶּבֶּה, the Tigris. The ה is prob. prefixed to make the quadriliteral, as in הַבְּצֶבָה, בְּבָּבָה, בְּבָּבָה, etc. In Aramaean, Digla, and Diglath; in Arab. Diglath, in the Pehlvi, Zedschera. — קּבְבַּתה, eastward, in the eastern part of, or before, which however is equivalent to the other meanings.

^{&#}x27;But how could the writer say thus? Assyria lies beyond the Tigris, which makes its western border, not its eastern one.' To which Rosenm., as often in other parts of this description of the local situation of Paradise, answers, that 'this description results manifestly from the ignorance of our author, in respect to the geography of the places named.' The same has been affirmed by many other late critics.

syria as a kingdom? Passing over the extravagant and contradictory accounts of Herodotus and Ctesias, in regard to the early history of this monarchy, so much may be inferred from them and from the Scriptures, that Assyria did, very early, attain great political eminence, and push far and wide its conquests. Was not Nimrod of a character to do this? In Moses' time, we find Balaam adverting to the conquests of this powerful monarchy, Num. 24: 22. In David's time, they are reckoned among his enemies, and ranked with neighboring nations, Ps. 84: 9. Of course they must then have been in possession of Syria; or at least, of a part of it.

Was not the Tigris, then, on the east, or in the eastern part of Assyria viewed as a kingdom? And will not this view compare with that which Balaam takes, in Num. 24: 22? Indeed, Rosenm. concedes the above facts, in Alterth. II. 103 seq.; what need then of $\mu\dot{v}\theta os$ here?

מְרָה, the Euphrates, which being nearer, and better known, than any of the rivers before named, is not described by a particular reference to country, as in the other cases.

(15) רָבֶּה , Fut. of רְבָּה , Fut. Hiph. from רָבָּה, 251. Yodh between the last two radicals is dropped, 65; יבָּה verbal suff. with penult tone, 309. רְבָּבְּרָה, Beth Raphe, 80. רְּבָּבְּרָה, Inf. with suff. הַבָּ; see in Par. XXII., and comp. 312. 4. הַבָּרָה, ibid.

It may be noted, here, that it was obviously the design of the Creator, that man should be active, and should labour, even in the pardisaical state. Labour itself is not a part of the curse.

which followed the apostasy; but labouring with toil and sorrow, and labouring to cultivate ground which is comparatively barren, is a part of the curse. Gen. 3: 17—19.

From the view given above, of the rivers which issued from Eden, (which in its general features resembles that given by Reland and Calmet), it appears, that there is no necessity of supposing the description of the locality of Eden to be a mere $\mu \dot{v} \partial o s$, as most of the recent German critics have done. Rosenmueller says, "From the description given in Gen. II., to endeavour to make out the locality of Paradise, idem esse videtur, atque Virgilii de Elysio phantasmata (Eneid. Vl. 637 seq.) ad veritatem revocare;" Comm. in Gen. 2: 10. Yet it is a fact, that four great rivers do take their rise in the region of Armenia, viz. the Kur, the Araxes, the Euphrates and the Tigris. It is a fact, that the sources of all four, at present, are in the neighborhood of each other, in the middle region of Armenia, and at no great distance from Ararat. There seems, then, to be no important difficulty in the way of admitting, that the countries, on which they are said by our author to graze, or through which they wind their way, are countries correctly designated, according to the geography of the day. Indeed, the very nature of the appeal, on the part of the writer, to the productions of the country, e.g. to the gold and bdellium and onvx of Havilah, of itself shews, that he felt himself secure against the imputation of fiction. Only one important circumstance remains. This is, that the four rivers just named, do not, at present, flow from one source, but are some 30 or 40 miles apart. This, no doubt, must be admitted, as things now are. But if the history of the deluge be not also a $\mu \dot{v} \dot{v} \sigma s$, (and I am aware that the critics in question believe it to be so, yet geology is proceeding now to overthrow their position), then is it certain that no very important objection to the accuracy of our author can be drawn from this. That important changes must have been made by the deluge, in the face of the earth, in the courses of rivers, and in the plainness or unevenness of the surface of every country, needs not to be demonstrated. Moses does not say, that at the time when he is writing, the four rivers which he names were flowing from one source; he merely avers, that originally they did so. The possibility of this, considering the present proximity of these rivers, and the changes that a deluge must have made, cannot well be denied. The probability rests mainly on the credit of the writer. Those who believe that he was divinely guided, may safely believe that he has given us something different from a fable, (like that respecting the garden of the Hesperides), in his account of Paradise. They may believe that there was a grand river-source in the Armenian country, (the ancient Eden), from which issued a stream, on whose banks the garden of Eden was situated; and that after this stream had wound its way through the garden, it became disparted, and running in different directions, gave rise to four large rivers. Where so much is known to be true, both in respect to the existence of such rivers, and (I believe I may add) in regard to the countries named, we may, all things considered, believe the rest on the credibility of the writer of our account, without being justly liable to the imputation of any inordinate credulity.

What is here stated implies, of course, the full persuasion of the writer, that language or speech belonged to man at the first, as an attribute of his being. It did not arise merely from the mutual intercourse of human beings; for Adam is here represented as having given names to animals, before the creation of Eve. Indeed, I am not able to see why it is not as probable, that the gift of language was one with which the Creator originally endowed the progenitors of the human race, as that he endowed them with understanding and reason. Articulate speech is as much a peculiar characteristic of human nature, in its maturity, as either of these attributes. And that the first pair were not created infants, needs no proof but a consideration of the nature of the case. We might as well suppose, that the first oaks were only acorns when created; that all the first vegetables were only seeds; and that all these grew up to maturity afterwards. If so, how in the mean time did man and animals get their sustenance? Or how did our infant parents, and the young of animals, provide for themselves this sustenance, if any were to be had?

The idea, so often repeated by some late philosophers and critics, that our first parents were formed with merely the powers of speaking articulate language, which they improved and extened by first imitating noises made by the brute creation, is nothing less than maintaining, that the Creator, who made man in his own image, left him in a state less finished than he did the brutes; and that he consulted, or provided for, neither his wants nor his dignity. Believe this whoever will; for myself I must believe, that man, recent from the hands of his Creator, and with the image of the Eternal enstamped upon him, was more perfect than any of his degenerate posterity have ever been, in all those powers which make our nature superior to that of the lower creation around us.

This whole account of naming the animals, and of the formation of woman, is regarded by Rosenmueller, Gesenius, and many other interpreters, as a mere $\mu\nu\partial\sigma_{\mathcal{G}}$; pleasantly devised, indeed, and ingenious as to the execution, as some of them concede. But if there be a God, who created the world, made man in his own image, and endowed him with the gift of speech, it was not unworthy of him to call that gift into exercise. If that God made a 'help meet' for solitary man, there is nothing unbecoming with respect to his dignity and wisdom, in the supposition that he did form woman from man as here related, in order to constitute an indissoluble tie of endearing connexion between the sexes in this way, and for this very purpose. The question, whether he could not have inspired the sexes with the same feelings, in some other way, may be sufficiently answered, by asking, How will the critics in question prove to us, that divine wisdom could not, and did not, choose this way of doing it? And until this be shewn, we may venture to give credit to our author; especially as our Saviour and his apostles so expressly recognize the real verity of the narration in question; see Matt. 19: 5, 6. Mark 10: 5-9. 1 Cor. 6: 16. Eph. 5: 31. 1 Cor. 11: 8, 9. 1 Tim. 2: 13. The question, 'whether one of the ribs of men is now found lacking,' (which has been scoffingly asked, in order to refute the narration above), is hardly entitled to a serious answer. Does a man now, who breaks or loses a rib, beget children who are lacking as to one of theirs? If not, why should Adam's male descendants partake of a mere physical peculiarity of their progenitor?

The primaeval state of man, without clothing, and without shame, serves to shew, that his Creator had adapted the temperature of the region, in which he placed him, to a condition in which the fewest wants possible would be experienced. The labour necessary to procure clothing, was to be dispensed with. Integrity and innocence too are designated by these traits. No guilty passions arose in the breast of the first happy pair. Sin only gives a sense of shame; and as they had not yet sinned, they found nothing to excite a blush. Even Plato, without the light of revelation, formed in his own mind a picture of the primitive state of man, more rational and becoming than some of our modern philosophical critics have pourtrayed. It is thus he describes it; Θεὸς ἔνεμεν αὐτοὺς, αὐτὸς ἐπιστατῶν, καθάπεο νῦν ἄνθοωποι, ζῶον οὺν θειότερον, ἄλλα γένη φαυλότερα αὐτῶν νο-

No. XI. Gen. III. 1-7.

The student will observe, that in the sequel, the full train of accents is introduced. This is not done with a design to lead him, as yet, to the study of the accents, in respect to their consecution or train, i. e. the manner in which they follow one another, or stand mutually related or connected. This can be done better. at a future period, and when the means of doing it shall be afforded to the student.* The particular reason why all the accents are here admitted, is, that the student may now become accustomed to read with them; and that he may become acquainted with the manner in which they are all employed, in order to mark tone-syllables; with the various ways in which they affect the quantity of the yowels, and their restoration where they would by the principles of common analogy be dropped; with the influence they exert over the insertion or omission of Dagh. lene in the Aspirates; and also with the power which they exert in changing the place of the tone syllable, in a multitude of words. These are sufficient reasons, founded in the grammatical phenomena of the language as it is now presented to us, why the student ought not to be, and must not be, ignorant of the influence exercised by the accents over the forms and tone of words.

Besides these, there is another reason which is not destitute of weight. The accents, as conjunctive and disjunctive, serve, (at least they often do, and in the estimation of most older critics they always do), to shew what words are to be considered as intimately connected in regard to relation and meaning, and what are to be more or less disjoined; a help, which in some doubtful cases is very grateful to the critic, and to which the most enlight-

^{*} The second edition of my Hebrew Grammar exhibits the consecution of the accents here referred to, both in poetry and prose, in the Appendix. In the third edition it was omitted, in order to save the room it would occupy; but particularly, because Prof. Gibbs expects to insert it in his Lexicon Formarum.

ened interpreters of the present day do not fail occasionally to resort. With this use of the accents, however, the student need not trouble himself, for the present; and when he comes to obtain a knowledge of it, it may be done with very little trouble, and without going deeply into the study of the whole consecution of the accents, i.e. of their various relations, positions, and dependencies.

In the sequel, I shall remark on the accents, only when they in some way affect the vowels, the Aspirates, or the tone-syllable, or when, from their position as praepositive or postpositive, they might naturally mislead the beginner, as to the proper place of the tone of any word. For the rest, I take it for granted, that the student will here acquaint himself with the names and forms of the first and second class of disjunctives, (if he has not already done it); as this will cost him but a few minutes labour each day, for a small number of days; and that he will afterwards go on, gradually to make himself acquainted with the whole number, in the like manner. In this way, the time spent on this object will never be distinctly recognized; and the student will find sufficient profit and satisfaction, to repay him amply for his labour.

(1) তালুল, the serpent. The effort of Dr. Clarke to prove that wing here means an ape or monkey, is not only opposed to the usus loquendi of the Hebrews, but the thing is in itself utterly improbable; for when or where has the ape been regarded as 'cunning above all the beasts of the field?' The serpent, however, is the known emblem of sagacity, in Egypt, and through the eastern world.

But was this a literal serpent, or only a symbolical one? Did the writer attribute to a mere animal serpent all which the sequel discloses; or did he suppose the tempter to be an evil demon, whom he represents as in the shape of a serpent? The latter, as I must believe; for (1) This accords with the commonly received traditions and language of the East. E.g. the Zend-Avesta of Zoroaster attributes the first seduction of men to evil, to Ahriman, the prince of evil genii, under the shape of a serpent; Zend-Avesta, Vol. I. p. 25. III. 84 seq. edit. Kleuker. The Jewish tradition is, that Sammael, the principal evil demon, first seduced Eve, and led her to sin; see Eisenmenger, Entdecktes Judenthum, I. p. 822. (2) There is satisfactory evidence, that the New Testament writers believed in the same thing. E.g. Rev. 12: 9, the devil, or Satan, is called, ο δράκων ο μέγας, ο όσις ο αργαίος - ο πλανών την οἰκουμένην ὅλην and again, in Rev. 20: 2, the same appellations are repeated. See also 2 Cor. 11: 3. John 8:44, where the Saviour expressly recognizes the temptation of our first parents to sin, as the work of the devil; so in 1 John 3: 8. See also Wisd. 2: 24, where is the same sentiment. (3) The nature of the case is sufficient to shew that the writer did not intend a mere literal serpent. Did the author really believe, that literal serpents could speak, and form plans for seducing to the commission of moral evil? If not, (and who will venture to charge him with such ignorance?) then must we suppose, that, like the writer of the Apocalypse, he has represented the devil under the image or form of a serpent; see Rev. 12: 9. 20: 2; comp. 2 Cor. 11: 3. That a part of the representation which follows, seems to be applicable only to a literal serpent, is merely the consequence of the writer's carrying on, through the whole narration, a uniform consistency in the mode of representation, which he had adopted at the beginning. See on v. 15 below.

On the question, Whether the actual form of a serpent presented itself to the ocular vision of Eve? most persons would perhaps decide readily in favour of the affirmative; nor would I venture to gainsay the correctness of such a belief, for who can disprove it? Yet it is no more necessary to the essential verity of the narration and transaction in question, to suppose that there was an actual physical form presented to view, than it is in the case of our Saviour's temptation, as related by the Evangelists, to suppose that there was a physical appearance of Satan, and audible words (audible with the outward ear), addressed to him. If Jesus was 'tempted in all points as we are,' a physical appearance of the devil can hardly be supposed to have been one of the means of temptation.

On the supposition that our first parents were tempted by an evil spirit, (and if Christ and his apostles are to be credited, this must have been the case), then we may either suppose that the tempter assumed the actual form of a serpent, and accosted the mind or eye of Eve, by mounting the tree which bore the forbidden fruit, and eating this fruit, and thus affording probable evidence that it might be eaten with impunity, and therefore tempting our first mother to follow his example; or we may suppose the whole to be a figurative method of describing a real fact, viz. the fact that Eve was tempted by an evil spirit, and did yield to the temptation. Either of these may be adopted, salva fide et salva ecclesia; for the Scriptures are full of examples, in which the like principles of exegesis are generally admitted.

Of the two methods here proposed, the former is more easy and obvious, at first view; the second is the most consonant with the nature of the tempter. The objection to the first is, that to suppose the devil in reality to have assumed the visible form of a serpent, would be attributing a miraculous power to him, (which none possess but God, or those whom God commissions for purposes of good)—a miraculous power, employed here for the most fatal of all purposes. The second method is relieved of this difficulty. Nor would the boldly figurative costume of the whole, thus construed, be any more objection to the reality of the essential facts in this case, than the acknowledged figurative costume of the 18th Psalm, is an objection to the reality of the facts on which the representation is grounded; or than the plainly figurative manner of describing the Saviour's temptation, which the Evangelists have adopted, is an objection to the reality of his temptation. Is not God every where figuratively spoken of; and yet, is there not reality in the descriptions?

As to the conversation here, between the serpent and the woman, it may be viewed like that between the Saviour and the tempter, i. e. as mental, not with audible words addressed to the external ear. Does it need any proof, that the Scriptures are full of the like examples? So in Greek, $\varphi \tilde{\eta} \mu \nu$ signifies both to think and to speak. Of the whole narration it may be said, that if we adopt the second mode of interpretation proposed above, we have only to suppose, (what is so obvious, and so consonant with the best laws of rhetoric), that the writer has gone through his whole piece, in a manner accordant with the beginning of it. All that concerns the serpent is consistently stated, as though it had respect to a visible serpent. The meaning, however, as in a multitude of the like cases, is tropical.

קר, became, as Storr and others render it. But I prefer the common version.—בּיִרשׁ, cunning, sly, insidious, Part. adj. Dec. III.—בּיִבְּי, 454. 1. מ.—בּיִבְּי, lit. even that, or verily that, i. e. 'is it so that? is it truly so that?' etc. The sign of the interrogative, בִּי, is omitted here, as often elsewhere, 557.—בְּיִב, the genuine sense of the Praeterite, has said, 503. a.—בַּיבָּי, of every, i. e. 'is any one tree prohibited?' בְּיִי , collective, of the trees.

(3) הַבְּיִלְּהָ, sing. here, of the tree. הְבְּיִלְּהָ, Methegh, 87. l. e; const. form of הָבָּיִ, Dec. VI. הְּאַבְּלֹּהְ, Methegh, 87. c. בְּיִבְּיִּלְּהָ, in No. IX. י. 17. הְּאַבְּלֹּה, Tav Raphe, 80. בּיִבּ, Dagh. lene, 79. 3.—הָבָּ, Dagh. lene, 73. 3, as Athnahh precedes.—הְבִּילִּהְ, instead of הְבִּילִּהְרָּ, 65 and 41; ק paragogic, 211. a. 1. The tone also is shifted from the penult (100. g) to the ultimate, by the pause-accent and the ending זְּדְ, 100. l.

(5) יְבֵּעֵל, לְּבֵעֵל, לְבֵעֵל, fif. with suff. used as a Gerund, see in Par. XXII. 2 masc. plural, for the short vowel (Qamets Hhateph), see 129. מ.—וְּבְּקַקְּהַוּר, Niph. Praet., made Fut. as to the sense by יְ prefixed, 209 and 503. e. Note 2. Here the words, which indicate a future sense, are בְּבִּיבָּת, a time yet to come.—בּבִיבֶּת, suff. dual of בְּבִירָת, Praet. as Fut., 209; Methegh, 87. d. יְרָבֵיר, plural Part. in const. state, 531; Methegh, 87. c.

Observe, that the tempter does not here say, simply, 'ye shall know good and evil;' but, 'ye shall, like the Elohim, know good and evil;' a different meaning I apprehend, from that of the first form of expression. Our first parents, from communing with God, must have known something of the superior knowledge and happiness of the Elohim; and this might naturally become an object of desire. But to 'know good and evil,' in the sense explained in No. IX. v. 17, was of course no allurement to eat the forbidden fruit. Insidious, truly, was the suggestion here, בַּאלַהָּרִם, (for בַּאלַהָּרִם, 119. c. 1.)

- (6) תַּבֶּרָא, vav conversive; תַּבֶּרָא, apoc. Fut. Kal of מַבְּרָא, 283. γ. letter b.— מַבְּרָא; a pleasant thing, an object of desire, Dec. X.—קּבָּרָא, Part. Niph. 225; Fut. in dus, 529.—בּבְּרָבָּרָ, Inf. Hiph., retaining the ה, 216. 3.—מַבְּרָה, 3 fem. Fut. of הַבָּלָ, with conversive.—בּבְּרָבּיּרָ, for final Pattahh, see 145.—קַבָּיִרָּ, Fut. of מַבָּרָל, 3 fem. with conversive.—בּבָּרָל, 408. 5.
- (קבְּרָהָה, 3 fem. plur. Fut. Niph., with Vav. רַבְּרָתָּה, Kal Fut. of יָבְיִּתְּה, 244. a; for Methegh, 87. c.—מיבְתָּה, Dec. VIII., plur. of יָבִית, Hholem goes into Qibbuts when the syllable is shortened, 129. c. b; the Yodh in the ultimate is omitted in the writing, 65.—מיב, they were, 469.—מיב, const. state of יִבָּי, Dec. IX.—מֹבְרֹת, Dec. X.; for omission of the two Vavs (מְבִּרֹרִנֹת), see 65.

The sentiment plainly is, that after they had eaten the forbidden fruit, they were filled with a sense of shame. It is not improbable, so far as can be gathered from the narration here, that they had been stimulated by the fruit to excessive sensual gratification; the consequence of which was, the sense of shame here attributed to them.

No. XII. Gen. III. 8-19.

(8) אַרָּ, either voice, or noise viz. of approach, which they heard either with the outward ear, (and this is certainly a possible case); or with the inward one, which seems as probable, and perhaps more so. The reality of the divine summons and sentence, does not depend on the particular manner in which God manifested himself, or communicated them. אַלְהָוֹבְּ, sing. number, agreeing with בְּבָּל, or, if it be preferred, with אַלְהָּבָּל, 152. a. Note. מוֹנִים the breeze or wind, i. e. towards evening, when the wind rises in the warm oriental countries.—מתוח , prob. of the same day in which they had transgressed.—אבַּקְתַּהְיַבְּי, 187. c. 1; also 493. b. Meaning; 'They withdrew from the expected approach of Jehovah;' or, 'they endeavoured, through fear, to secrete themselves, because they were conscious of guilt.'

- (9) אַּיֶּכָּה (compound of אֵי, which shortened becomes אַיָּכָּה, (like Tseri final in nouns of Dec. V.); בָּה is a verbal suffix with epenthetic 7 (see under 309. d); אַר is varied like Dec. VIII'; and for adverbs with verbal suffixes, see 405; the בָּה אָי with דּ paragogic, 309. a. 2d pers. sing. masc.

- (11) הַּבְּרֹ, Praet. Hiph. of הָבָּל, 252 seq.—הָּבְּאָ, in pause, 144.—הְבָּלְּהָ, הָ is the interrogative, like the Latin ne?—בְּרִלְּהָ, Piel. of הָבָּל, with suffix, 286. 1.—קֹבְלָּהִי , adv. here, compounded of הַבָּל, nothing, nothingness, prep., and paragogic.—בְּבָּלְּהָּי , אַמּגּאוֹטׁוֹ, short O, 89, Inf. of בַּבָּל Lit. respecting the nothing of the eating of it, i.e. respecting the not eating of it, the omitting to eat of it. בַּבָּל is the Gen. after בְּבָּלְהִי , which is constructed as a noun here, 520.—הַבְּבָּת, in pause, 144.

(15) אֵיבָה, for אֵבֶּה, 118; followed by Pesiq. 93. No. 20.— אַיבָּה, Fut. Kal. of אָיבָה, Fut. Kal of אָשִׁר, Fut. Kal of אָשִׁר, Fut. Kal of אָשִׁר, the Qamets under being dropped, 133; lit. bruise, crush thee, אַבָּה as to the head, Acc. of manner, 428. f.—אָטִרְּבָּר, strike, smite, Tav Daghesh'd, 79. 3; with epenth. suffix, 309. d; Qamets dropped under Tav, 133.—אָבָּד, as to the heel, 428. f. Dec. V.

But how can the tempter here be imagined to be an evil spirit? What is going upon his belly? Who are his seed? And how is the seed of the woman to bruise his head? Or he to strike the heel of her seed? Questions which have been repeatedly asked, with a seeming assurance that no satisfactory answer can be given, by those who believe that the writer means, in this narration, to describe the machinations of an evil spirit.

To these questions, we may answer, (1) That the figurative language respecting the serpent, is merely carried through in consistency with itself; (and this is in accordance with the demands made by the common rules of rhetoric, in respect to metaphorical language). (2) The seed of the serpent, or the children of the devil, was a common expression among the Jews, to designate those who were like him in the temper of their minds; John 8: 44. 1 John 3: 8, 10. Matt. 13: 38. Acts 13: 10. In this case, the enmity between those who resemble the tempter in character, and those who are of an opposite disposition, appears to be designated. But (3) If by the seed of the woman be here meant, 'Him who was born of a woman, and made under the law' (Gal. 4: 4), then does the whole passage acquire an emphatic meaning, which it is easy to understand. This is, 'That there should be enmity between the prince of darkness with all who resemble him, and the Messiah; and perhaps, also, that the latter should oppose and crush the former, while all which the former could achieve. would amount only to what may be compared with the crushing of a serpent's head on one part, and receiving a wound from it in the heel, on the other.-But as the New Testament writers have no where expressly given this interpretation to the passage in question, and we are not directly authorized to make such an interpretation of it; I must, on the whole, acquiesce in the general idea, here designated by the particular imagery that is employed. I would deduce from the whole, the sentiment, that the serpent or evil spirit, instead of gaining a complete victory over our first parents, (as he designed to do), should experience disappointment, and be himself crushed as it were with mortal wounds, (see Rom. 16: 20); while he should inflict only less deadly or fatal ones, on those whom he maligns. The manner in which this was to be accomplished, does not seem to be definitely pointed out by the words in question.

As to the expressions, going upon his belly, and eating dust, what are these but a tropical manner of designating the humiliation of the tempter? A humiliation yet to be more generally and completely manifested, than it ever has hitherto been.

קברבוב, Inf. abs. sui generis, 287. 2. 514. a.—קברבה, with fem. suff., Dec. III. e, and 352. 1.—קבר, Dec. I., as the Tseri is impure; for the idiom, see 569.—קברבה, 244. a.—קביר, with fem. suff., אישר, man, husband.—קביר, rendered by the Lexicons, desire, sexual passion or affection; but how does this agree with the sequel? The Sept. (Alexandrine) renders it ἀναστροφή, conversio, viz. attitude of obedience, comp. Ps. 123: 2; and Aben Ezra explains it by בְּעַבְּחָרָ, thy obedience; which accords well with the context, and may be easily derived from ביה to run about after any thing, which is characteristic of a state of subjection. As to the meaning, sexual desire, how is this possible in Gen. 4: 7, where is it said of Abel, (or of sin), that 'his (its) desire, הביבה, should be unto Cain?—ביביר, 89.

(17) দুগ্রুড়, tone on the penult, but accent (Zarqa) on the ultimate, because it is postpositive, 93. No. 13; also 95. a.—ব্রুড়ায়, with tone on the penult, which changes the Sheva that would regularly be under the দ (see in Dec. XIII. c) into a Seghol, 148. a, (without a penult tone the word would be read, বুল্ডায়); but the accent, Segholta, is on the ultimate, because it is postpositive, 93. No. 8. The student may see for himself, in the frequent instances of this nature, how uncertain a guide the accents would be, in finding the real tone of many words; comp. 95. — אַבְּירָהִיּרִיּ , [in regard to] which, 428 3, I gave thee commandment. Of the two accents (it is the same accent repeated) here, on the verb, the former marks the penult tone, 95. לאַבּירָ , 119. c. 1.— אַבְּרַבְּרָ , see in No. XI. v. 3.— אַבְּרַבְּרָ , fem. of אָבָרַבְּרָ , 323, in Par. No. III.— אַבְּרַבְּרָ , compound of בַּ prep., אַבּרָר , 119. c. 1.— אַבְּרַבְּרָ , אַרְרָּר , 119. c. 1.— אַבְּרַבְּרָ , 23, in Par. No. III.— אָבָרַבְּרָבְּרָ , suff. with pause accent (Zaqeph Gadhol, 93. No. 7) on the penult, which turns the regular Sheva into Seghol, 148. מּבּרַבְּרָבְּרָבָּרָ, Fut. Kal 2 pers. sing., with אַבָּרָ , epenth. suffix, 309. d. The composite Sheva (instead of Sheva simple) under the Kaph, is not a very usual thing; still it is nothing very uncommon, 51.— בַּרַבְּרָ, plur. const. of בַּרָבָּר, Milel, 100. j, remark in small type.

- (19) זְּעָה from זְּעָה , Dec. X., because the Tseri penult is immutable. In Talmudic Hebrew, it is written אַבְּי, which shews the true form of the word; whose root is אַבְּי, אָבָּי, 95. b.—בּבֹּע, with penult tone, because the word precedes a tone-syllable, 101. d.—קבּע, Inf. with suff. 521.—מַבְּעָבָּי, see in No. XI. v. 3.—קבָּבָּי in pause, Pual Praeter.—קעָּעָה, Fut. of verb אַשִּׁבּר.

The curse here pronounced on man, involves the idea, that henceforth the earth was to become much less fruitful than before, and also that it was to produce such shrubs and weeds, as would much retard his labour for sustenance, and render it more painful and difficult. 'The sweat of his brow,' by which his bread was to be procured, indicates strenuous labour and exertion.

So far as all these things were painful, and occasioned inconvenience and disappointment, I consider them as much a part of the penalty, (קְּמִתְּהְ, Gen. 2: 17), as 'the returning to dust,' which is mentioned in the last part of v. 14. Why these should so often be separated from each other, as they have been by many critics and divines, it is difficult to see. They stand connected so obviously, that I cannot persuade myself, that they do not make one totality. If so, then מוֹם סוֹם does not mean merely the dissolution of our physical bodies, but every kind of pain, sorrow, and inconvenience. That such may be the meaning of the word here, the common usage of the Old and New Testament clearly shews.

No. XIII. Gen. VI. 5-8.

- (5) בְּרֵבְת , see in No. II. v. 4.—בָּה, fem. of בַּרַבְּת, fem. Dec. X., first Qamets immutable, because it is a Daghesh'd long vowel, the root being בְּעָרָ, masc. noun, בַּרָבָּה, fem. בְּיָבָּה instead of בְּנָבְּה, 32. and 58.—רְבַּבְּה, for רְבָּבְּה, 152. a. Note.—בַּבְּרַבְּיִבְּרָ, Dec. אוֹל מוֹנָבְּבָּה, from בַּבְּרַבְּרַבְּרַ, const. plur. of בַּבְּבָּבָּרָ, pec. אוֹג.—הַבָּב, from בַּבְּרַבְּרַבְּרַבְּרַ, only evil; בּבְּרָבָּרָ, the sense being the same in either case.—בַּבּרִבּּרִבּוֹן, lit. every day; but the Hebrews expressed the idea of semper, per omne vitae tempus, מֹאַת דֹחְν הָּבְּעִבְּעִבּע, by the use of this phrase. In English we may say, continually, without intermission, always.
- (6) בַּיָּבֶּיִם, Niph. Fut., with accent retracted and final Tseri shortened, 101. b, and 129. α.—וֹיָשָׁיָּ, Pluperf. 503. b.—יְרָשָּבָּ, as in v. בּיִּבְּיִם, Hith. Fut., the tone is not retracted here, because the penult syllable is not simple, 101. b in e. g. God is here spoken of in a manner altogether ανθρωποπαθώς. But this is nothing strange; for the same thing may be said of very many expressions, in all parts of the Old Testament and of the New.
- (קֹמָהָה; Fut. Kal. 1 pers. sing. of הָּבָּי, not הָאָ, because of the Guttural א, comp. in 138.—בָּרָאָה, 95. b.—בָּרָאָה, i.e. בֶּרְאָרָה, 406, from man, viz. 'beginning from man or with man, I will destroy , unto beast, unto reptile,' etc, i.e. destruction shall extend from man unto beast, etc.—בּשָּׁבֵּי, in pause כֵּוֹלְמָהִי, Piel, with Dagh. Hhireq under the ב, 232. b.—נְיִשְׁיִהְוּל, with Yodh omitted after the ה, 211. b, and 63.

No. XIV. Gen. VI. 13-22.

- (13) אָבָים, Dec. VII., const. state.—לָפָנִי , suff. of פָנִים, used as a prep. here. Meaning: 'I have determined that all flesh shall come to an end, be destroyed.'—אָרֶאָם and הַאָּה both in the Acc. governed by מְבֵּירָהָם, 511, also 509. in e.g. מְבֵּירָהָם, by them, the original sense of sp being lost, and the compound word becoming a mere preposition.—; with Dagh. forte omitted in the first 2, 73. Note 3, from 737; it takes a verbal suffix, 410. Note, comp. 313.—מְשַׁחְיתִם, Part. Hiph. with suff. ב, used as a Fut. in -rus, 529.—nx, on or in; so this prep. clearly means in 1 K. 9: 25. Ps. 67: 2 (comp. Ps. 31: 17), 1 Sam. 7: 16. On or in a place, where something is done or happens,' is a sense which Gesenius assigns to it in his Lexicon. If, however, 778 be taken here for what it contains, viz. animals, vegetation, etc., then there will be no need of this peculiar sense of אָה, but מַשִׁהִית may be understood before it, and we may translate, I will destroy them, [and I will destroy] the earth. So the Seventy, Onkelos, Aben Ezra, and others; but the Syriac Version has Las Us, on the earth.
- (14) עָּשֵׁה, Imp. Kal.—תְּבָּה, const. of Dec. X., with penult vowel immutable, as it involves an implied Quiescent; which appears in the Chaldee form, הֵיבֵּה, and also in the Arabic.—יָבַּי, const. plur. of עָבֵּיה, a מֵּתמּבָּ λεγόμενον, prob. (from its similarity to בְּבָּר, pitch, tar, and from the nature of the case here), turpentine-tree, pitch-tree; perhaps a species of the fir, or of the cedar.—יְבִיבָּר, nidos, small cells, habitacula divisa, like the nestling places for doves, in which each of the animals was to be included. It is the Acc. of manner here, 428. 2.—קַבְּיַרָּק, Fut. sense. 209.—תַּהָּג, 408. תַּבְּרָבָּרָב, בַּבָּרָב, זְבָּרָבָּרָ, for בַּבָּרָב, 152. a. Note.
- (15) מָהָה, and this [is] what thou shalt make it, i. e. and thus shalt thou make it. שלש, const. state, 457. מ. באור באור , 461.

That the writer here means to express the idea of universality, is clear. The evidences of this fact are now multiplying, in consequence of the progress of geological science. A multitude of phenomena are found to exist, which can be accounted for in no way, so probably and so easily, as by the supposition of a deluge, such as is here declared to have existed.

The student, who is desirous of pursuing the very interesting subject here introduced, may find notices of tradition among heathen nations respecting the flood, in Josephus, Antiqq. I. Cap. 4. edit. Colon.; Eusebius, Praep. Evangelica. IX. 12; Ovidii Metamorph. I. 270 seq. Grotius, de Veritate I. § 16 not. Stillingfleet, Origg. Sac. III. 14. § 8; also in Faber's Horae Mosaicae, and Bryant's Mythology. Those who wish to see the subject geologically treated, are referred to Buckland's Reliquiae Diluvianae, and the works there cited.

(20) מַלְטֵּעֶבֶה, 460. מַלְטֵּעֶבֶּה, with tone on the penult, (the same in No. 14 v. 16); the ה_ therefore is local, 100.

(24) מַאַה, const. of מַאָּה, Dec. XI., 461.

The objection made against the possibility of a deluge which would cover the highest mountains, and be universal, is, that 'there is not sufficient provision in the constitution of the atmosphere, or of the world, for such an occurrence; as such a quantity of water could in no way be generated.' The answer is, that though natural causes may not account for such an occurrence, the God who made the world, could deluge it with the waters of the ocean. Accordingly, in v. 11 above, it is said, that 'the fountains of the בֹבְּקְכוֹן, the great deep, the ocean, were opened [בַּבְּקְכוֹן],' as well as 'the windows of heaven;' i. e. the ocean overflowed, while the rain descended in vast quantities. That the occurrence, after all, was of a miraculous nature, I should not wish to deny. And considering it in this point of view, it is easy to see, that the cause can never be shewn to be inadequate to produce the effect. We may believe the truth of the narration, on the authority of Moses, and because the globe now exhibits striking proofs that an event like the one in question has happened. Who will shew us valid reasons for disbelieving the whole account, or for explaining it as a mere $\mu\nu\theta$ og?

'The tradition that the ark of Noah lodged here, when the waters of the flood subsided, is confirmed,' (says Rosenmueller in his Alterth. I. 257), 'by the most weighty testimony of antiquity, and is one of the oldest which has reached us.' The Persians in the neighborhood call it Kuhi Nuach, mountain of Noah. It is one of the loftiest mountains in all the eastern world, rising from a plain in Armenia, not far from Erivan its capital, and elevating its summit above the region of snow to that of eternal ice, which glitters fearfully under the burning sun of summer. The magnitude of the peak is constantly increasing, in consequence of the continual accession of ice. No one has ever ascended it; and its steepness, with the ice upon its summit, renders ascent impossible.

The fact that the ark of Noah rested here, favours the conclusion which was made above, that the original location of man was in the region of Armenia.

That the whole narration respecting the deluge has been regarded, and is still considered, by many critics, as a story which is partly $\mu\nu\nu\partial \sigma_{S}$ and partly fact, need scarcely be said, after the details which have been exhibited above, respecting opinions relative to the creation of the world, and the original condition of man. That a partial inundation, probably an extensive one, over some one of the widely extended plains of the East, very anciently took place, is generally conceded. The extent which our author assigns to it, is regarded as a fictitious supplement to the story made by tradition, or as resulting from the mistaken views of the writer himself. That difficulties can be easily suggested, relative to an occurrence of this nature, no one will deny; but that the event was impossible, or even improbable, (considering the evidence of it afforded by the present condition of our globe), cannot in any way be made out.

As to all the questions which can be raised, relative to the form of the ark, the possibility of immuring in it all the various kinds of animals which water would destroy, and of supporting them there for so long a time; it is plain that they must be matters of speculation merely. In regard to the beasts going into the ark, it is evident, that the whole occurrence is regarded by our author as a miraculous one; and admitting the truth of this, there is an adequate reason or cause for all the occurrences which took place. The vast quantities of relics, belonging to animals of the tropical regions, which are now found in high northern latitudes, shew that some mighty engine of destruction, like that of the deluge, must have sometime been in operation; and the removal to so great a distance, of animals that are indigenous to the southern climate, shews that the agent must have been a water-flood. We may, therefore, believe the account of Moses; at least we may do it, until something more probable, and better authenticated, shall be substituted for it. And this is not an event which is likely to happen.

No. XVII. Gen. XI. 1-9.

(1) שָּׁבָּה, lit. lip, but here signifying language; as in Is. 19: 18. 33: 19. Zeph. 3: 9. Ps. 81: 6.—תְּבָּא, (instead of מַּבָּא); the pause accent changes the Pattahh under ה into Qamets, 144, and then this occasions the preceding Pattahh to become Seghol, 142. a.—מַבְּיִרָּיִם, plur. of אָבָיִר, and used as plur. merely for the sake of agreement with a plur. noun which it qualifies.

The sentiment here plainly is, that all the earth (or all the land) spoke one and the same language. The repetition of the idea, by adding דְבִּרִים אֲחָרִים, is designed to express as much as to say, 'exactly the same language,' 438. d, and Note. Vitringa and others construe שָּׁכָּה אָּהָרִים, as meaning 'unity of purpose or design;' but Perizonius, in his Origines Babylonicae, Cap. IX., has sufficiently refuted all such interpretations.

(2) בְּכָּכְבֶּי, Inf. of בְּכָּבָּ, with suff. D,, see in Par. XXII.; when they removed, 521. a.—בְּבָּבָּ, either eastward, or from the east. The word may mean either; and there is nothing in the context, which will certainly determine. Ararat in Armenia, where the ark lodged, lies north of the country of Babylon; but as the original settlers of the eastern countries were wandering shepherds (Nomades), it is impossible to say which way the great body of them had travelled, before they came to the plains of Shinar.—בקבה, Dec. XII., properly a valley, intervale; but also, a low plain, as in Syriac and Arabic.—יוביים, with accent on the penult, 101. d, from

(3) ארש אל־רֶעָדְהּ, lit. man to his companions, i. e. each to the other, or, to one another; בנהה , plur. suff. of בי, for הצהה, 336. Note 4. 1. The Tseri of the ground-form is immutable.— , Imp. parag. of הבה, with accent (Yethibh) on the penult, but tone on the ultimate, 100. h, the accent being praepositive. The Imp. without parag. Tag is 27. It is used as a kind of interjection here, like age, agedum.-, 1 pers. plur. Fut. Kal of קבל, with דב paragogic, 205.—בּבָבָי , fem. gender, with a fem. singular, לבנה, 322. The two words together must be rendered, Let us make brick; a literal translation in Latin would be, Laterificemus lateres.—בשׁרְפַה, Fut. parag. as above.—בשׁרְפַה, Dec. X., the Tseri being impure, lit. to a brand, or with a burning, i. e. 'Let us burn them thoroughly.'—וְבָּאָבָ, the asterisk refers to a note at the bottom, זְכֵיץ בוֹ, i. e. Qamets with Zaqeph, marking the effect of this accent in prolonging the Seghol in the word 728, 144, comp. 149. - אור , where the first accent, Munahh, stands in the place of a Methegh, 87. Note 3. The bitumen, which is designated by this word, is common in all the plain of the Euphrates, and floats on the surface of standing water, in small ponds, marshes, etc. It makes a mortar, which in time becomes harder than the brick itself, and seems to be imperishable. - המנה , for יבהחמר.

(4) בַּבְבָּי, 1 plur. Fut. Kal.—זבֹּבְ, Dagh. in Lamedh, 75. a—בּיבָבָּ, Beth Raphe, 80. Meaning: 'Whose top shall be exceedingly elevated.'—בּיבָּבָּרִיבָּ, the like forms as in בַּבְּרַבְּבָּי, 1 pers. plur. Fut. Kal of אַזּבּ, lest we scatter ourselves, or be scattered, 181. Note 2.

(5) בָּרָב, from בָּרָב, 208 Note 2. לְרָאֹת, 63. יַבְרָד, with tone on the ultimate as a verb; but no would be a prep. and a pronoun, signifying with us. In such cases, the accents not unfrequently answer a good purpose.

- (6) אַבֶּלֶה, אָבָׁ with suff. בּ. בּיִבּיה, בּיִבְּיּה, but the final Tseri is shortened on account of the tone being thrown forward upon the suffix, 129. a, while the הוד retains Pattahh, contrary to analogy, which would make the form to be בַּבְּהַה; see 133. a. As to the Daghesh in b, see 258.—הוֹשֵבֵּ בְּבָּיה, and this is their commencing to operate, or, the commencing of their operation.—אֹבַ, there shall not be cut off from them, i. e. one shall not hinder, 500. Note 2.—הוֹשֵבֵּ בְּבָּר מֵּבֶּר מִבְּרָר מִּבְּר מִבְּרָר מִבְּר מִבְּי מִבְּר מִבְּר מִבְּר מִבְּי מִבְּר מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְי
- (קרָהָה), parag. Fut. 1 pers. plur. of בָּרָה. For the use of the plural number, see on Gen. 1: 26 above. בְּבֶּה, the like form from בְּבָּה, 266. שְׁמַת, plainly meaning, language. בַּרָה, see on v. 3. above.
- (8) בְּפֶּץ, apoc. Fut. Hiph. of פּרּץ, with retracted tone.—
- (9) בְּבֶּב, for tone, see 141. Note 2. The word is probably a contraction, from בְּבָב, confusion, or to confound.—נְבָּבְּב, Hiph. Pract. of אָדָם, with suff. בּיִּב; for the dropping of Tseri under the ה, see 133. a.

It has been a very general opinion in times past, that the origin of diverse languages among men is to be found in this occurrence. But facts seem strongly to militate against this, as a principal cause. From the earliest times, down to the present hour, hither Asia has almost all spoken a language which is radically the same. Wherever Abraham travelled, he understood the language of the people with whom he met. We may then with great probability suppose, that the confusion here mentioned was but temporary in its effects, continuing only until the purpose for which it was designed had been accomplished, viz. the scattering abroad, so as to people different countries, those who intended to cluster in one great city. It was thus, that Providence made provision for the peopling of extensive regions; and the design of counteracting this, appears to have been the criminality of the men who purposed to build Babel. Their pride and ambition also, in endeavouring to acquire fame (DW), were offensive in the sight of heaven. Still, as the punishment in this case is comparatively light, their sin does not seem to be treated as of a very heinous character.

That the diversity of languages, among the whole race of man, can not be charged upon the building of Babel as its direct cause, would hardly seem to require proof. Still, as the occurrences on this occasion, gave rise to the separation of men from each other; and this eventually became the indirect occasion of great diversity in language; it is not without some reason, that this diversity is attributed to the building of Babel. The diversity of language, as it now exists, is one of the most difficult problems for the philosopher or the divine to solve. No satisfactory theory, in all respects developing an adequate and probable cause, has yet, so far as I know, been proposed by any writer, who has speculated on the subject of language.

The gift or faculty of speech, may be regarded as natural to man; as much a part of his nature as intelligence and reason. The power of forming sounds, is, from its very nature, almost boundless in extent and variety. Hence the very different sounds which are adopted as the medium of communication between men. Accident, climate, even the physical power of enunciation, with the passions and affections, all have an influence on the sounds, which are employed as signs of ideas or of feelings. Of course, the modification of these is subject, as experience shews, to perpetual change. Let a colony go out from a savage tribe, and remain entirely separate for several centuries, and the language of each will be scarcely intelligible to the other. Still, even examples like these do not account for such radical differences as exist, for example, between the Chinese and the Shemitish languages; or between the latter and the Scythian or Tartar tongues. A part of this great problem, therefore, still remains without any satisfactory solution.

No. XVIII. Gen. XII. 1-4.

- (1) אָלָ, Imp. of אַרָּ, reg. אָרָ, but before Maqqeph, אָרָ, 89.— אָרָ, lit. go for thyself, i. e. go; for the form of expression, see 545. The idiom is frequent in the Shemitish languages. In a similar manner, we say in English, 'Away with yourself.'— אַרְאָרָ, thy country.— אָרָאָרָ, from thy native place, put elliptically for אָרָאָרָ, thy native land.— אָרָאָרָ, to the land.— אַרָאָרָ, אַרָאָרָ, Fut. Hiph. of אַרָאָרָ, which loses its final syllable and vowel, when it takes a suffix, 313.
- (2) אָגָעטְּךְ, Methegh, 87. b; for vowels, 226. אַבָּרִר, 507. b. בְּצִּבְּרֶכְּךְ, 129. a. בְּצִבְּרֶכְּךְ, with parag. הַ, 205. אָבָּרָכְּךְ, 148. a. הַ, 167. in form, Fut. Kal in sense, thou shalt be; for Methegh, 87. d; for the use of the Imp. as Future, 505. b. 2.
- (3) מְבֶּרֶבֶּרְ, lit. thy blessers, Part. Piel, suff. plural. מְבֵּלֶבֶּרְ, him who curseth thee, i. e. every one, or any one, who curseth thee, the sing. being used generically; Part. Piel of בְּבָּרָב,; as to tone and penult vowel, 129. a. מָאַרִר, Fut. Kal of יְנִבְּרֶבוּ, Niph. Praet., 209.
- (4) בְּרָ, Piel, 214. 1.—קבַ etc., lit. the son of 5 years and of 70 years; the usual method in which the Hebrew describes the age of any person.—בַּאַת, Inf. fem. of בָּרָ, with suffix, הַאָּבָּ, 119. c. 3, also 521.—קָרָה, from Haran, a town in Mesopotamia.

There is a chronological difficulty respecting the departure of Abraham from Haran, to which it may be proper to advert. In Gen. 12: 26, it is said that Terah begat Abraham, at the age of 70; in Gen. 12: 4, that Abraham left Haran, at the age of 75; which added together make the age of Terah then to be 145. But in Gen. 12: 32, Terah is said to have lived 205 years; yet Stephen, Acts 7: 4, says, that 'Terah was dead when Abraham left Haran.' As the Hebrew text now stands, this emigration of Abraham happened 60 years before the death of Terah.

The Samaritan Codex, however, reads 145, in Gen. 12: 32, which exactly agrees with the account of Stephen, and also of Philo Judaeus, who says, τελευτήσωντος δε ωυτώ του πατρος εκεῖσε μετανίσταται, i. e. Abraham left Haran, when his father was dead; De Migrat. Abram. p. 463.

The difficulty can be solved, only by supposing that the Samaritan Codex has preserved the correct reading, (which seems to be confirmed by the authority of Stephen and of Philo), and that there is an error in the Hebrew of Gen. 12: 32; or, that Stephen merely adopts the mode of reckoning, in regard to the departure of Abraham from Haran, which was customary among the Jews of that day. See Kuinoel on Acts 7: 4. The effort of Jarchi and others to solve the difficulty, by alleging that Gen. 12: 32 refers only to the moral death of Terah, because he was an idolater, hardly deserves a serious notice. Was he not morally dead, as an idolater, long before the departure of Abraham?

In regard to the nature of the promise here made to Abraham, it is only general. In v. 2, there is an assurance of a numerous offspring, 'I will make of thee a great nation;' of much prosperity, 'I will bless thee;' and of great renown among the nations, 'I will make thy name great, and thou shalt be a blessing,' i. e. a subject of praise or of blessing. In v. 3 is an assurance, that the friends of the posterity of Abraham shall be regarded with approbation, and their enemies with dislike, 'I will bless them who bless thee, and curse him who curseth thee.' There is a further and general assurance, that in Abraham, (including of course his descendants), all nations should be blessed. I understand this as a prophetic intimation, in very general terms, respecting the Messiah, "who was the son of David, the son of Abraham." In what respect have the descendants of Abraham been a blessing to all nations, or can they be, unless in the one which this interpretation supposes? Comp. the sentiment of Paul, in Gal. 3: 14-18, Whether Abraham understood the nature or extent of this promise, when it was first made, may be questioned. But it cannot be shewn that he did not; and perhaps not fully, that he did. Yet the fact, that he left his native country, in consequence of this call from heaven, shews that he had a strong expectation of future blessings of some kind or other.

- (6) בְּהֹשֶּׁבְּרָ, for הָאֲבִירָ, 63.—, see Part II. No. 10.—, see Part II. No. 10.—, 75. a.

For a commentary on this passage, see Rom. IV. throughout. In the second promise here made to Abraham, only a numerous offspring is included. But was this mere natural offspring; or were they 'children of faith,' who were promised?—See the opinion of Paul on this subject, Rom. 4: 11 seq.; particularly Gal. 3: 7: 9, 14—18, 29. Rom. 9: 6—8. Gal. 4: 28, 29. Whether Abraham had a clear apprehension of the spiritual meaning of the promise in question, must have depended on his state of knowledge, and on his state of mind at the time when the promise was made; and with neither of these are we definitely acquainted. That he, however, either in regard to the promise made here, or on some other occasion, was inspired with a certain expectation of a future Messiah, appears from John 8: 56, comp. Luke 10: 24. In regard to דָרָבָּר, in v. 5, see Gal. 3: 16.

Niph. of בְּרָאָר, full form בָּרָאָר, 58, and 285. 3; lit. shewed himself, 182. b. 3.—יבָּאָר, Almighty; perhaps pluralis majestaticus, 325. b. b, and 437 2.—יבָּאָר, when employed in the same sense as here; comp. Gen. 5: 22. 1 Sam. 25: 15. Ps. 35: 14. It also has אַרְרֵבְּרָ , in the same sense, Deut. 8: 19. 11: 28. 13: 4. 1 K. 14: 8. et al. All these mean, 'To live on friendly terms with God; as it were to converse familiarly with him; Deum ceu ducem sectari; to act agreeably to his precepts.' So the sequel explains it; בְּרָבֶּרָה בָּרָבֶּר, esto integer, be upright, comp. Gen. 6: 9, בְּרָבֶּר denotes freedom from blemish, from any charge of moral corruption or wickedness. For Imp. בְּרַבְּרָבְּר d, as to the Methegh; and for יְ , see 152. c. 6.
- (2) וְּאֶהְיָה, Vav simply conjunction, the Fut. form here retaining the Fut. sense; אָהְיָה, Fut. 1 pers. of הָבָּי, with parag. הַבְּי, 205.—קָּאָה, 148. מ.—אָרָה, 456. מ.

- (5) אָבֶר, 500. a.—אָבְרָם pater and בְּ excelsus, i.e. exalted father, 317.—בָּ , either compounded of אָב father, בַּ בְּרָהָם (omitting the last letter), and הַמּלוֹן multitude (omitting the ending קֹיב), and so meaning, exalted father of a multitude; or else of אָיב, and containing as the Arabic plan great multitude. The first method of composition agrees best with the explanation subjoined by the writer.

- (6) בְּגוֹנִם ... פַּרָה 209. Hiph. of בָּהַנִּם ... לָגוֹנִם , 507. b.
- (7) יְהַקְּמִּתִי, 65.—גְּבִינֶּךְ, 148. מ.—זְרָצֶךְ, comp. Gal. 3: 16.— זַרְצֶּךְ, 65.—אַלְהִיתְּ, 87. d and 152. c. 6.—נְאַלְהִיתְ, 507. b.
- (8) מְגְרֶר , 209. מְגְרֶר, suff. of מָגְרָר, Dec. III., 63 and 41. בְּלֵיתְר, אָרֶץ, וֹנְחֵתִּר, אָרֶץ, בְּצַלְּר, in apposition with the preceding וְהָיִתִּר. אָרֶץ, בַּצַלְּרִים, 507. b.

In regard to the promises here made, it is evident that they are of a temporal as well as of a spiritual nature. That they comprehend spiritual blessings, may be seen by consulting the passages referred to in the remarks subjoined to No. XIX. v. 6. That temporal blessings are also included, must be acknowledged by every one who attentively considers v. 8 above. The greatest difficulty arises from Gal. 3: 16. The word זרל, in v. 7 above, seems to mean, 'the whole posterity of Abraham.' That this, however, is the necessary meaning of it, cannot be shewn. Certainly Paul did not consider it so, when he wrote Rom. 9: 6-8. No line of distinction is drawn in the promises to Abraham, between spiritual and temporal blessings. We are left to gather this, from the nature of the case, and from the reasonings of Paul. There is nothing at all incongruous in the supposition, that blessings of both kinds were promised. Nay, it is, of course, what one would naturally expect; and it is what is found in many other parts of the Scriptures. And that Abraham himself apprehended the import of these promises to be spiritual in part, seems plain from the assurance of the Saviour, in John 8: 56. Comp. also, Heb. 11: 8-10, 13-16.

Compare with this account of Abraham, what is said of him in respect to the transaction here described, in Rom. 4: 16—22. Heb. 11: 17—19. James 2: 20—23. It is, indeed, a most signal example of the strength of Abraham's faith; one which is seldom equalled, I believe, under the Christian dispensation. In respect to the views of Eichhorn and others, who maintain that Abraham dreamed of his obligation to offer up his son, and superstitiously proceeded to the performance of this supposed duty; it is sufficient to ask, What is there in the character of Abraham, which will justify taking such a liberty with it, as to maintain that he was not raised above the superstitions of the merest savages; or who can shew, that he understood nothing of the nature of dreams? And then, whence the approbation of God, of Christ, and of the hely apostles, bestowed on a horrible act of mere superstition? For horrible it was, if superstition only dictated it. This is a nodus, to solve which, something more than witty conjectures and brilliant declamation is needed.

No. XXII. Gen. XXXV. 9-15.

- (9) נוֹרָא, see on No. XX. v. 1.—זיָג, again, a second time; for the first appearance, see Gen. 28: 12 seq.—זְגָּבְא, Inf. with prep. בַ, and suff. זֹּ.
- (10) ינקב, still, any longer.— ינקב, i. e. supplanter. But Moses himself, and other writers of the Old Testament, every where make frequent use of the appellation Jacob, after this. What then can be the meaning of the declaration before us? The Jewish commentators are not agreed on this point. Aben Ezra and others say, 'Jacob was not any longer to be the exclusive name; Israel also was to be employed.' But Jarchi, (nearer to the true meaning, as it seems to me), 'You shall no more be called Jacob in the original sense of that word (supplanter), but Israel, which is a name of nobler import.'—בשראל, from שַׁרָה to contend or struggle with, and by God. For the explanation of the name, see Gen. 32: 24 seq. Another explanation is equally consistent with etymology, viz. from and, in its second sense, to reign, to be a prince, and by God. The latter seems to be adopted, in Gen. 32: 28. The whole, as repeated here, appears to be a confirmation of what is said in Gen. 32: 28 etc. - אָנָי, 148. a.
- (11) שַּבֵּר, see on Gen. 17: 1. פַּרֵה, Imp., be fruitful, i. e. thou shalt be fruitful, etc. 505. בּוֹרְ בְּקַבֵּל בּוֹרְם , a nation, yea, an assemblage of nations, i. e. the twelve tribes, each of which might, in the language of the day, be called בָּלְּבָּיך. , suff. בְּרָ, for בֶּלָּה, suff. , , suff. , , for בָּלָּה, 309. d, and 407. Note.

- (12) אַהַבֶּרָדְ, אָהְכָּבָּה , אַהְבָּרָדְ, פָּהַן, suff. 309. d; Fut. of אַהַבֶּרָדְ, 407. b. בּבָּרָדְ, 283. γ.—יַבָּלָן, lit. from above, i. e. God, or the symbol of the divine presence, ascended above him, or rose upwards towards heaven.—יַבָּאָר, i. e. אַאָּרָ, 559, in which.—יַבָּדְ, 214. 1.
- (14) רַיַּצִי, Fut. Hiph. of בָּצָב, 206. Note 1. רַיַּצִּב, as above. בּיָבֶּר, const. state, as Dec. XI. הַ אֶּבֶּן, 144. הַיַּבֶּר, 144. רַיִּבֶּר, 206. Note 1. רַיִּבָּר, 251.
- (15) שְּׁלֵּי, mhere, 478. b.—בְּקְרַבְּּאָ, house of God, for Methegh, 87. m.

No. XXIII. Ex. II. 1-15.

- (2) וַתַּלֵּר, 283. γ. וַתֵּלֶר, 244. a. 247. c. וַתַּלֶּר, 283. γ. b, from לְּבָּה, 469. הוֹא יַנְחִים, 457.
- (3) הַצְּפִּיכוֹ, Inf. Hiph., with Dagh. acuting in בַּ , 77. c. It has a penult tone, although the accent (Segholta) is on the ultimate, 95. a.—וְבָּשִּי, procured, obtained, or caused to be fetched.— הַבָּה, const. of Dec. I., the Tseri being immutable, an ark, a little boat or hollow vessel—יִּבְיִהְבִּי, with fem. pron. suffix.—יִבְּהַבָּי, tor יִבְּהַבָּר, בַּזְבֶּבֶר, 144, Dec. XIII. fem.—יַבְּהַבֶּר, 274. 2.—יִבְּרָב, 152. a. 5.
- (4) הַתְּחַבֵּאַר, Fut. Hithp., form sui generis, for הַתְּחַבַּאַר, the Tseri under the first ה stands instead of the mixed syllable הַה; the second ה assumes the pointing of the Yodh which follows (comp. 118), and the Yodh then drops out, 118. Note 3. For Pattahh in the final syllable, see 218. 1; lit. stationed herself, placed herself, 187. c. 1. הַהְּהַבָּא, from הַהָּא, anomalous, as Dec. III. in regard to the penult vowel. בְּלֵיבֶה, an unusual fem. Inf. form, for הַּבְּיבֶּה, 75. a.
- (5) יְתֵּרֶד, from יְרֵבְ . לַרְחֹץ -. לַרְחֹץ , as in v. 3.— הֹלְכֹת , for הּוֹלְכוֹת , 63.— מָמָחָה, a maiden of hers, Dec. X.— תַּמְחָה it, viz. the ark, 312. 5.

- (7) זְבֶּאבֶל , interrog. 152. d. 3. יְקְרָאתִי , 209, accent on the penult, 101. a. 2.—קב, fem. Dativus commodi, as the grammarians say.—קבָּי, Part, fem. Hiph., from זְּבָי, 248, and Note, one that suckles, gives suck, a nurse.—קבָּר, 319. b.—קבָּר, Hiph. Fut. of בְּבֵי, 63 and 250.—קבָּ, Dat. commodi.
- (8) בָּלָר, 148. a, out of pause בְּלָר, fem. of Imp. לָבָי, from בָּלָרָי,
- (9) בּיבִּיכִי, fem. of Imp. Hiph., from בָּיבִי, which in this case is treated as בּיבִּיכִי, class II., 248 seq., cause to go, conduct away.—
 בּיבִּיבִּי, Imp. fem. with the suff. בָּיבֹי, the fem. ending of the verb (בִּי) falling away in order to receive the suffix; comp. 313.
 בּיבִי, Dat. commodi.—בְּיבִי, with suff. fem.—בּיבִי, the Qamets under בּיבִין בּיבִין מַרְּבִירִי, וְּתְּבִיבְּרָרִי, יִבְּיִבְּרָרִי, the Qamets under בּיבּין מבּיבין מבּיבין מבּיבין מבּיבין מבּיבין מבּיבין אונה בּיבין פּיבין מבּיבין אונה בּיבין פּיבין מבּיבין אונה בּיבין פּיבין מבּיבין אונה בּיבין בּיבין בּיבין אונה בּיבין בּיבין אונה בּיבין בּיין בּיבין ביבין בּיבין בּיבין ביבין בּיבין בּיבין ביבין ביביין ביבין ביבין ביבין ביבין ביביין ביביין ביביין ביביין ביביין ביב
- (10) בְּתַבְּאָהוֹ, 133.—בָּרָ, 507. b.—הְּמָשָׁה, Moses, if of Hebrew etymology, means extracter, deliverer, which seems to characterize Pharaoh's daughter, rather than the child. The giving of names in this way, was very common in the East. If the word is from the Egyptian Mo water, and Ousche to save, then it means, one saved from the water. The former etymology agrees best with the context; the latter with the persons who are actors.—קאָמָה, for she said.—הְּבְּשִׁיִּחְהָּ, i.e. בְּשִׁיִּחְה, 211. b and 63; for the dropping of Qamets under בּ, see 133; for suff. הּ, 309. a, comp. 307. a.!
- (11) אָהְיר , for אָהְיר, אָהָיר, אָהְיר , אָהְיר , אָהְיר , אָהְיר , אָהְיר , אָהְיר , אַהְיר , אַהְיר , with Pattahh impure. Two forms are mixed throughout, in this word; the one with Qamets pure, as אָהִי , אָהִי , the other a Daghesh'd form, as אָהִיר , אָהִיר , אָהִיר , אָהִיר , אַהִים, , but also אָהָר , הַּבְּלָּה , Dec. XII., from אָהָיר ; for ב, see 506, also 507. a.—אָבְר , מַבְּרָה, פּבָּר, ר. אַבְר , אַבּר , אַב , אַב , אַב , אַבּר , אַב , אַבּר , אַב , אַבּר , אַב , אַבּר , אַב , אַבּי , אַב , אַב
- (12) מֵין, 283. אָרֹן, as a const. state of מֵין, nothing of, none of, no.—יָבָן, apoc. Fut. Hiph. of בָּבָּה, see in Par. XIX.— בַּבָּה for בַּבְּהַרוּל
- (13) יִּבְרֵים, 325. e.g. 2.—נְצִים, Part. Niph. of בָּצָה; for meaning, see 182. b. 6.—הבֹּב (Milel); before Gutturals, בַּמָה

(Milra) is the more usual form; both have the same meaning.—
תַּבָּה, Fut. Hiph. of בָּבָּה, 148. b.

(14) אָרָשָׁ, Praeter Kal of שָׁרָשׁ, with suffix.—שִׁיָּשׁ, 507. b.— אַרָּיִּשְׁ, prince, lit. for a man, a prince, i.e. a princely man, or simply, a prince.—יְבָּיִרְ בָּיִרְ , that thou wilt kill me; הַ interrog.; בְּׁ before the Inf.; הַרְבָּיִר, Inf. with suff., 306, the verbal suff. here denoting the object of the verb, i.e. the killing of me. By mistake this form is omitted in the Inf. forms of Par. XXII.—אַבָּיה , dost thou say? In English, the force of the interrog. הַ falls on these words; in Hebrew it is prefixed to the whole phrase.—הַבָּבָּר, the matter, the affair, viz. of killing the Egyptian.—קָּרָבַר, a country in Arabia Petraea, lying south-east of Palestine.

The student will find it useful to read the account of Moses in Josephus, where he will see what Jewish tradition has handed down concerning him; or at least, what the fancy of the writer himself has added.

No. XXIV. Ex. III. 1-6.

- (1) אָתְּבִּיהָ, Acc., 527 and 531; אָתִּבְּיהָ, 118.—וֹבְיּהָה, Dec. VII.—יְבְּיִהְ, the hinder part, i. e. the remote part.—יְבָּיִהְ, of the pasture-ground, of the uncultivated country, desert, which is the pasture-ground of the Nomades of Arabia; Acc. 428. a.— י אָרָבָּה, with הַ local, 100. i. Horeb is a peak of the Sinai ridge; some say it is east, and some west, of the proper Sinai. The two mountains are not far distant.—אָרָבָּה, shewed himself, 182. b. 3.
- (2) בְּלֵּבְרְ בְּהְרָה. Jehovah as manifesting himself to Moses, Jehovah as exhibited by symbol; see Ex. 4: 11. 3: 4, 6, 15, 16. 4: 5, and comp. with Acts 7: 30—32.—הַבָּבָּר, bush, thorn-bush.—בּבָּבָּר, for בַּבְּבָּר, 215. 2.
 - (3) אַכְרָה אָכָרָה, 41 and 205.
 - (5) שׁל, Imp. of שָׁלָ .—עָרֶמֶת־קֹרֶשׁ, 440. מ. הַנָּא , 469.
- (6) בַּרְסְהֵר, Milra, 101. b. in e. g.—בָּרִט, בָּרָסְהֵר, הַבָּרִט ; הַבָּרִט , Inf. Hiph. of בָּבָּט, upon, to, towards.

No. XXV. Ex. VI. 1-11.

בּרְבֵּלְּבִי, the one with tone retracted, the other not, 101. b. e.g.. The verb בְּדַ designates the idea, that some communication was made; the verb אַבִּר has reference to the words of that communication, and is followed by a recital of them. So often, elsewhere.

Whether words audible to the outward ear, were addressed to Moses on this occasion, and often at other times, is not an important inquiry; neither can we answer it with any absolute certainty. Jehovah can speak as well to the soul, as to the outward ear; and there is no need of an audible sound, in order that he may cause the soul to listen. On the other hand, he can speak audibly too; for he certainly is not limited in his method of communication. That he did speak so, at mount Sinai, seems to be signified in Ex. XIX., compared with Heb. 12: 19. But that this was usually the method of communication, when he spake to Moses and other prophets, is by no means certain. It is altogether unnecessary to suppose it. Communications made directly to the soul by him, without the use of the common external means which men employ in their communications with each other, are surely as real, and as authoritative, as any that could be made in a different way.

⁽²⁾ רְאֵרָא , Niph. of רְאָר, 182. b. 3.—יְבָא , i.e. by the name of God Almighty, בְּאֵל שֵׁבַּר, as the next words that follow shew; lit. in El Shaddai, i. e. as an almighty God. See in Gen. 17: 1. 28: 3. 35: 11. 43: 14. 48: 3. 49: 25.*

⁽⁴⁾ וּבִּשְּבִּר, i. e. וּבִּשְּבִּר, and by my name, ב being implied from the preceding בְּאֵל , as there בְּיֵי was impliedly taken from this place; comp. 562, for the principle there stated applies, for substance, to prose as well as poetry, in a great variety of ways.—

^{*} There is a mistake in the numerals of the two verses above; I should be 2, and 2 should be 3. But to avoid mistake in my notes, I have preserved the numbering of the text.

נורעתי, I did not make myself known, 182. b. 3, Niphal of בר כורעתי. But in what sense can this be said? That the name Jehovah was often employed in communications to the patriarchs, is plain; see, for one example only, Gen. 15: 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 8, 18. The meaning then must be, that as performing what the name Jehovah signifies, he had not revealed himself to the fathers of the Jewish nation. As God omnipotent, he had declared and shewn himself; e. g. by causing the birth of Isaac, of Joseph, and Benjamin, and by signal deliverances afforded to the patriarchs. But as a God of constancy and immutability, (which the name יהודה implies, for it is ο οιν, ο ην, και ο έφχομενος), in fulfilling his promises respecting the land of Canaan, he had not hitherto shewn himself to the patriarchs, inasmuch as the possession of the promised land had been long deferred. The assertion therefore in v. 1 (2), implies, that now he was about to exhibit himself, as fulfilling all his promises made in former times. הַקְמִּחִי, 63.— , see in Gen. 17: 1 seq. 26: 2 seq. 35: 9 seq. בריתי , prep. 152. b. 2; און is peculiar, for first we have און, Inf. of און, 252. b, and 254. c. Note; then, nn for nan, 107. 2.- 7225, 144.-, plur. suff. of מגריהם, 437. 3. בה פהר, אשר, 478. a.

(5) אַנִי (5) אָנִי, אַ אָּרָר, אַשֶּׁר, אַרָּס, אָרָס, אָנִי (5), אַנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנְי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָני (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנִי (75), אָנְי (75),

Hiph., enslaved, caused to perform the work of slaves.

(6) בְּבְּלֵּחְ , Dec. XII., the burdensome task. קבְּבִּיךְם, Hiph. of בְּבִּילִּתְּ. הַיְבִּילְתְּם, from their state of slavery. בְּיִבְּיִּרְתְם, Part. pass. fem. of בְּבָילִי, see in Par. XXI. בְּיִבְּיִבְּיִם, from שַּׁבָּי , from שִּׁבָּי , and with [great] judgments, i. e. distinguished chastisement or evil to be inflicted on the Egyptians.

- (8) בְּעֵּאְתִּרְ אָחּרְיָרִי, lit. I have lifted up my hand, i. e. I have sworn; ανθοσποπαθώς, for men, when they swear, lift up the hand toward heaven; comp. Deut. 32: 40. Dan. 12: 7. Rev. 10: 5, 6.— בְּחָהְ, i. e. I will surely perform my promises, I will shew myself immutable.
- (10) מְּבְּבֶּר , on account of their impatience of mind, lit. shortness of mind; so, in English, 'he is short,' for 'he is impatient,' or 'fretted.'
 - (11) רְישֵׁלֵח, for הְשָׁלֵח, 115. The Vav here is not a Vav conversive; for then it would be pointed בְּיָשֵׁבָ, 208. e.g; lit. And he shall send away, or, that he may send away.

No. XXVI. Ex. XII. 18-33.

- (18) בְּרָאשׁוֹן, i. e. בְּהֹרֶשׁ הָרָאשׁוֹן, in the first month, comp. 551; בָּהָאשׁוֹן is here implied from the sequel, comp. 562.—בָּבֶּבֶּרָבּ for יְּיִם, נְּיִם, 63, Dec. X.—בָּהָעֶרֶב , after it is implied, 459 and 551. Note.
- (19) שָׁבְעֵת , 457. a.—אָׁבְיֵת , leaven, with which bread is raised or fermented. בְּבָבְּיִבְּיִבְּ, bebhöt-tē-khēm, irreg. plur. of בָּבָּ, coming (as it would seem) from אַבְּ or אבּ. For the Methegh, see 66. Note.—אָבְיִבְּי, Dec. XIII., that which is leavened, leavened bread. בַּבֶּר וּבְּצִייְבָּי, const. of בַּבָּר וּבְצִייִבְּי, lit. in the stranger, and in the native of the land, i. e. both the stranger and the native.
 - (20) No. 150, no, none. 150Nn, 146.
- (21) מְשָׁכּוּ, lay hold upon, seize; for Methegh, 87. h; for באור Raphe, 81. 1.—קחים, Imp. of אור , the Paschal lamb.
- (22) אַבָּאַ, a bundle, bunch.—אְבַבַּ, in the basin; for this controverted word, and for the sense here given, comp. Zech. 12: 2. Jer. 52: 19. 1 K. 7: 50.—אָבָּבְּבָּאָ , and ye shall put on, 506.—בּבָּיַבָּאָ, of the blood, some of the blood.
- (23) וְרָאָה, 209.—וְּלָּאׁ יָתֵּן, and he will not permit.
 - (24) 77, Dat. commodi.
 - (26) bbb, 421. a.
- (27) אָשֶׁר, אַשֶּׁר, because.—בְּבְּבְּפֹּל, see Inf. in Par. XXII. בְּבְּבְּפֹּל, Fut. Kal of קָרֵר, 261.—יוּיִחָיָם, Fut. Hithpalel from מָחֵרָת or הַתָּשָ, 292, also 187. b. 1.
- (28) בָּן בְּשׁהְ, exactness or sedulousness of action, is denoted by this repetition.
- (פָּבְּרֹת הָבָּה , from הָבָּה , the captive, or the prisoner.— בְּרַת הֲבּוּר, lit. in the house of the pit, or in the place of the pit, viz. in the deepest part of the dungeon, which was a low cellar or pit. Meaning of the whole: 'From the highest to the lowest, without distinction.'—The sequel shews, that this was extended to the tame animals also.

- (30) ממו, Part. Par. XIII., comp. 202. Note 1.
- (31) אַצּאָּד, Dagh. conj. in Tsadhe, 75. a. The asterisk here points to a note at the bottom, which is, Tsadhe with Daghesh; thus marking the unusual appearance of it after a Shureq, as here; see in 75. e.g. קֹנִהְי, from קָנֵה. בּבַּ , both . . . and also. בַּבֶּרְכֶּם, Inf. Piel with suffix, 521.
- (32) יבלכו in pause, זלכו out of pause, 146.
- (33) הַשְּׁבֵּרֵם, Fut. Kal 3 fem., agreeing with בַּשְׁבֵּרָם Egypt, which is fem. and takes a sing. verb, '485 or 487. The name of the country is here used instead of the inhabitants, i. e. a metonymy here occurs, by which the place is put for what is contained in it.

No. XXVII. Ex. XX. 1-17.

- (1) יוֹבֵּבְר, spake, but whether audibly to the outward ear, or only to the inward one, is not here said. The noise of the thunder and of the trumpet, on this occasion, was plainly audible to all with the outward ear; see Ex. 19: 16, 19. 20: 18. But from Heb. 12: 19, it appears that audible words were spoken, i. e. proclaimed with a sound loud like that of a trumpet. The probability then is, that the ten commandments were thus audibly and awfully proclaimed, in the hearing of all Israel.
- (2) מַבֵּרְח עַבְּרִים, lit. from the place of servants or slaves, i. e. from a state of slavish bondage. This verse contains a prefatory declaration, setting forth the character and claims of him, who gives the commandments which follow. The commandments properly begin with v. 3.
- (3) אֵלְהִרִם אֲחֵרִים, which may be rendered, any other God, as a pluralis excellentiae, 437. 2; or it may be rendered in the plural, as designating the many gods of the heathen. The first method of construing it, makes the command most significant; for then it forbids any other god or gods.—יַבֶּיבֶּיבֶ, either before me, or besides me. The former is followed by the Vulgate, coram me, by Rosenm., and others; the latter by the Sept., $\pi\lambda\eta\nu$ εμοῦ, and by many critics. The usus loquendi will support either; e.g. ½, coram, Ex. 27: 21. Lev. 26: 1; ½, πλην, except, Gen. 31: 50. Ps. 16: 2. Coram me means, (as God was present in the camp of the Israelites), in my sight, in my presence; i. e. he would suffer no rival god to prefer any claims. The phrase besides me, needs no explanation; and (with the Sept.) I prefer this sense.

- (4) בְּלֵר ְרְבֵל־חְמוּרָכָה, graven image, nor any likeness, viz. of God; for images of other things were not prohibited, as appears plainly from directions respecting the architecture of the tabernacle and temple.—אָשֶׁר, i. e. הְמֵבֹּנְם אֲשֶׁר, a likeness of any thing which, etc.
- (5) תְּלֶבְרֵלְה, Hithpalel of תְּלֶבְרֵלְה, to-ŏbh-dhēm, Hoph. in the same sense as Kal; which is quite unusual.—אָבָּר, jealous, i. e. he will not bear with any rival gods; as v. 3 indicates.— בּלִּבְּרָבָּרָת visiting means punishing when עָלֵבְּרָבָּרָת , לַשִּׁבְּעָּרָ, 506. בְּלֵבְּרָרָת , Part. plur. suff. of עָלֵבְּרָת , שֵׁבֶּלֶּח , Part. plur. suff. of עָלֵבְּרָת , שֵּבֶּע , i. e. בַּעִים , שַּׁבְּעִים , שִּׁבְּעִים , שִּׁבְּעִים , i. e. בַּעִים , בַּעִים , שִּׁבְּעִים , שִּׁבְּעִים , אוֹנִה פּפּרפּרations, which is understood here. But how does this consist with Ezek. 18: 20. Deut. 24: 16. 2 K. 14: 6. 2 Chron. 25: 4. Jer. 31: 29, 30; in all which places it is affirmed, that the son shall not die for the iniquity of his father? Onkelos felt the difficulty, and adds, in his version, 'when the children continue to sin after the example of their parents.'

In whatever way the difficulty may be met, it is clear that our text agrees with many others in the Scriptures; e.g. Ex. 34: 7. Lev. 26: 39. Num. 14: 18; and also with examples of the execution of such a threatening, e.g. 2 Sam. 12: 14. 1 K. 13: 34. 14: 10, 17. 1 Sam 2: 33. Josh. 7: 24, 25, and a multitude of other cases.

I understand the text simply to threaten severe punishment, for the crime in question. In the East, when any man commits an offence against the government with which it is specially displeased, he and all his direct descendants, even to the remotest branch, (and oftentimes all his near relatives), are destroyed together. Such is the common practice, over all western Asia, even to the present day. The meaning of our text then is, that the man, who makes idol-gods, shall be punished with a severe punishment, (like that of utter excision in cases of high treason); for here is treason against the Majesty of heaven. More than this need not be drawn from the text; and more than this, I do not apprehend it was designed to convey. But in this, there is no contradiction to Ezek. 18: 20, and other texts like it. It is interpreting by the letter, and not by the spirit and object of the text, which creates all the difficulty in question.

- (6) עשֶׁה , doing kindness, performing that which is merciful; the Part. שִׁיָּה here governs the Acc. after it. בְּצַבְּׁבָּרַם, viz. לַּבְּּבָּרָם, to thousands of generations. Meaning: 'Although punishment in the case of idolatry will be severe, (like that in cases of treason under the government of kings); yet my mercy shall be exceedingly greater than the measure of my severity. While the one extends, (so to describe it), to the third or fourth generation only, the other, (to describe it in like manner), extends to the thousandth.'—יְבִּיבִּירַ, mits-vō-thāy, the Vav being moveable here, and its vowel being placed over it, for convenience' sake in the printing; from בְּבָּבְּרָהַ, where the mobility of the Vav is sufficiently manifest.
- (7) NUR A's, thou shalt not utter, pronounce, viz. buing, the name of Jehovah, etc. Exactly in such a sense, is Nuz used before the Acc., in Ex. 23: 1, and in Ps. 15: 3 - אַנָשָּׁרָא, for אַזָשֶׁבָּל, נס that which is false; xiv is of the Seghol. class of nouns, see 363. 4. That it means fulsehood here, seems clear. The usus loquendiin this sense, is above exception; see v. 16 below, where we have קבר עד, false witness or testimony, but which same thing is called אָד שוֹא, in repeating this command in Deut. 5: 20; in both places the Seventy rightly translate μαρτυρία ψευδής. So Ex. 23: 1, גד שׁוָא, false witness; see also, Ps. 12: 3. 41: 7. Job 31: 5. Hos. 10: 4. 12: 11. Ps. 24: 4. Is. 1: 13. The usual expression in Hebrew for in vain, is הָבֶל or בְּרַרְקָם, or בֵּרַרְקָם. Instances, however, in which אינט is used in a sense like this, occur in the later Hebrew writers; e.g. Mal. 3: 14. Jer. 2: 30. 4: 30. 6: 29. But in the case before us, this meaning would not give the best sense; for it would be, 'Thou shalt not utter the name of Jehovah, without some profit,' or, 'for any useless purpose.' By a sufficient metaphrasis, this may, indeed, be made somewhat significant; but the evident meaning of the Hebrew seems to be, Thou shalt not utter the name of Jehovah, in respect to a fulsehood, i. e. thou shalt not take a false oath, thou shalt not call God as a witness to that which is not true. So the Seventy; and so Rosenm. and Gesenius. Comp. Matt. 5: 33—37. James 5: 12.

183. b. 2. But here is what rhetoricians and grammarians call λιιότης, i. e. a figure of speech, by which the negative form of an expression is used, where an affirmative meaning is designed to be conveyed; for here the meaning is, 'The Lord will punish.' So John 1: 20, οὐκ ἡονήσατο, the same in sense as ωμολόγησε in the other part of the verse; and so, often elsewhere.

It has been strongly contended by some, that the Sabbath was first given to the Israelites in the wilderness; as no mention is made of it in any part of the histories of the patriarchs; as Nehemiah (9: 14) seems to say, that the Sabbath was first disclosed to the Jews, and to them only; and as Moses seems to declare, that the Sabbath was instituted in commemoration of the deliverance of the Israelites from their Egyptian bondage, Deut. 5: 15.

On the other hand it is alleged, that Ex. 16: 22, 23 plainly implies, that the Sabbath was kept before the legislation at Sinai; and that the silence of the patriarchal histories respecting the observance of the Sabbath, decides nothing; since from the fact that a thing is not described, we cannot deduce the conclusion that it did not exist, save only in some very special cases.

For a full exhibition of the arguments employed by both parties, see Ikenius, Diss. de Instt. etc. Mosaicae Legis, § XI.; and also his Diss. Philol. Theol. II. p. 25 seq. On the other side, see Selden, De Jure etc. L. III. c. 16; Spencer, De Leg. Heb. etc. L. I. c. 5. § 10. In particular, Eichhorn, Urgeschichte. Th. I. s. 234 seq. edit. Gabler, and Paley's Moral Philosophy, chap. on the Sabbath.

For myself, as I find a plain reference to the weekly division of time, in the antediluvian history; as no limits either in respect to the period of beginning, or in regard to extent, can be assigned to this; as the Sabbath, in Ex. 16: 22, 23, is plainly spoken of as a thing already well known; as the passage, in Neh. 9: 14, does not necessarily mean any more, than that God had published the law of the Sabbath at Sinai, with renewed, awful, and peculiar sanctions; as Deut. 5: 15, does not necessarily mean, that the Sabbath was instituted in commemoration of the deliverance from Egypt, but only declares, that the observance of it was specially enjoined on the Israelites, because they were God's redeemed and chosen people, and that they were to make the Sabbath a day of peculiar recognition of their deliverance from bondage; as true religion cannot exist in the world without some day to be specially devoted to its services, because the nature of man is such, that a religious memento of this kind is altogether necessary for him; I cannot help believing, that the Sabbath began with the creation of the world, and is to end only with its destruction. Even then, indeed, it is not to end, but to be renewed, and celebrated forever in the courts above, where is the true and blessed 'rest $(\sigma \alpha \beta \beta \alpha$ τισμός) which remaineth for the people of God.'

I do not hold the Sabbath to be binding on Christians, merely because it is enjoined by one of the ten commandments; but because the necessity of it is found in the very nature of man, and of the relations which he sustains, and of the worship which he owes, to his Creator. And as these are the same in every age of the world, so the obligations resulting from them must be the same, and the law of the Sabbath, under every form of religion, must substantially remain.

- (18) בְּרֵהָה , for Jehovah, i. e. sacred to him, consecrated to him, set apart for his worship.—קבָּה, nor, because it follows אל in the preceding clause, 558. Note.—קבָר, nor thy stranger, i. e. any foreigner. Rosenm. thinks this applies only to foreigners who were slaves; but there is no probability that other foreigners would be permitted to violate the Sabbath; see Neh. 13: 15—22.—קבּרֶה, in thy gates, i. e. thy cities, by ymetonymy of a conspicuous part for the whole, (as threshhold for house); see Deut. 12: 15, 18, 21.
- (11) אַבֶּילֵ , in six days, 428. c; not in 6000 years, as geologists tell us, for then the seventh day, which follows, must of course make up 1000 more.—חבַיָּבִי , 270. 3. Fut. apoc. Gutt.—קבַב etc., a most evident allusion to Gen. 2: 3. In Deut. V., where the fourth command is repeated, this 11th verse is omitted, and v. 15 there is substituted in its room, which has reference to liberation from Egyptian bondage; one among the multiplied proofs, that unessential circumstances may be varied, while the substance remains the same. The substance was, to keep the day holy to the Lord; it might be a day, in which the creation should be specially commemorated, or deliverance from the bondage of Egypt, or both; and yet be kept as the Sabbath of the Lord.
- (12) אומר i. e. reverence and obey; or, support, maintain, which is a doubtful sense, although one that the corresponding Greek נְּנְשְׁמְשׁ clearly has, e. g. in 1 Tim. 5: 3, 17.—מְּבְּבְּרֵהְיִּבְּיִרְּ אָרִיּ אָרִי אָרָי אָרִי אָרְ אָרְי אָרְ
 - (13) לא חָרֶצָח אל, comp. Matt. 5: 21—25.

(17) בְּבֶּה, eagerly desire, covet.—בְּבָּה, 148. b; in this case, however, the Seghol occasioned by the accent, is a variation from the usual principle, as the original comp. Sheva here is Hhateph Qamets; see in v. 16.—קבָּה, and לְבֵבֶּה at the end of verse, are pointed in the same way, although the accents are different.

The old custom of deducing every duty, either toward God or toward man, from these ten commandments, is unsatisfactory and inexpedient. Unsatisfactory, because one must strain them beyond measure in order to make them comprise every duty, and therefore do violence to the laws of exegesis; inexpedient, because if these ten commands embrace all duty, then is the rest of the Pentateuch, which comprises statutes that are a rule of duty, either more or less superfluous, and might well be spared.

The argument, that these commands are perpetual because they were engraven in stone, will not weigh much with any one who knows, that all important laws of ancient times were engraven on stone or metal, in order that they might be both a public and a lasting monument of what the legislative power required. The perpetuity of obligation, in respect to these commands, is what we ought fully to believe; but we may believe it, because these commands are founded in the immutable relations and affections of human nature, which are the same in every age; and not because they were engraven on stone, or given to the Jews at Sinai. Other laws were given there, which we do not profess to obey, and which we are not obliged to obey; cessante ratione, cessat ipsa lex; and equally true is it, manente ratione, manet ipsa lex. We are, and always must be, bound to those laws of piety and morality, which are founded in our very nature, and not on what is local and temporary.

It is plain, from the bare inspection of the ten commandments, that they comprised, and were designed to comprise, only the leading and most important maxims of piety and morality. To deduce more from them than this, is to force on them a construction which they will not fairly bear.

It may be proper to note here, that in several verses of No. XXVII., there is a double train of accents, in our common Hebrew Bibles; so also in Deut. V., where the ten commandments are repeated. The reason of this appears to be, that when the decalogue was read in course, (in the annual reading of the Scriptures), it was read as 15 verses, and the accents were adjusted accordingly. But at the feast of Pentecost, when the giving of the law was celebrated, the decalogue was then read as ten portions, and the accents adjusted accordingly. In some of these, there is a concurrence with the first division, and then there is only a single train of accents; the rest are furnished, in the common editions of our Hebrew Bibles, with a double one. This I have not adopted here; but have separated the train which agrees with the common division of verses, from the other, in order not to embarrass the beginner with such perplexities. It is a difficult task, indeed, to make this separation; but I trust the present train of accents will be found to be analogous. On the subject of the double accentuation here, see Abicht, De Accentibus Heb. c. VII.

- (4) nin; , 63 and 41.
- (5) בְּרֶבֶּל, from בְּלֶבֶּל, for בְּלֶבֶּל, 142. α, and 152. α. Note.—בְּשֵׁם יְהּלָה, he worshipped Jehovah, he prayed to him and praised him.
- (6) צַל־פָּבֶּרו , before him, so אַ in this connexion usually signifies.—אָבֶר, proclaimed, uttered aloud.—אָבָר, const. of אָבֶר, Dec. V., 423.
- (ק) לְּכְּעֵיע וְהַטָּעְה , i. e. every kind of offence; for these three words are nearly synonymous in Hebrew, 438. Note.—בַּקָה , Inf. abs. with a finite verb, 514. b.—בַּקָה etc., see above, in No. XXVII. v. 5.
- (8) נְיִקְּדׁר, from קָרֵר, קָרָר, apoc. Fut. Hithp.; see in 120. b, and in 292.

(28) הַבְּרָה , of the covenant, or rather here, arrangement, ordinance. That the word בְּרִיה , is used to designate ordinance or arrangement, (διαθήκη as the Seventy render it), as well as compact or agreement, is clear from the application of it here to the Decalogue.

No. XXIX. Lev. X. 1-3.

- (1) בַּקְּחָה Dagh. omitted in ף, 73. N. 3.—יְּקְחָה Dec. X.— מַדְּתְּה, pec. X.— מַדְּתְּה, in them, fem., referring to מַדְּתְּה implied.—יָּבֶּה, on it, viz. the fire, שׁבָּ being comm. gender, and here treated as feminine.

 —יֹבָּי מַנְּתָּה, strange fire, i. e. fire not consecrated, fire not taken from the altar.
- (2) 법칙 자꾸고, and there went out fire, i.e. lightning; for this is called the fire of God; see Job 1:16. It is obvious here, that the kind of punishment was adapted to the species of crime which they had committed.
- (3) הַּהְלֹב, this is, 469. בַּקְרֹבֵי, const. plur. of קרוֹב , by those who are near to me, i. e. who approach my presence. אַקְרַשׁ, I will be treated with reverence. זְיָרָם , from בַּקַר , 261.

In v. 10 which follows, is a command to Aaron and his sons, that they should 'drink neither wine nor strong drink when they were to go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest they should die there,' viz. as Nadab and Abihu had just done. The connexion of the whole would seem to shew, pretty-plainly, that these offenders were under the influence of intoxicating liquor, when they offered strange fire before the Lord. It would be well for all who minister in the sanctuary of the Lord, to observe the prescription here given to Aaron and his sons; that they may not offer "strange fire" before God, which may devour both them and the people of their charge.

- (23) אָמֵוֹר, saying, or thus shall ye say, Inf. abs., 517. The whole phrase filled out would be thus, אָמוֹר האָמִר, thus shall ye say.
- (24) זְבֶּרֶבְּרְ, used as Imp. of 3d person, 201. Note; and so of the other verbs which follow.—קָבֶּרֶבְּר, 148. a. Meaning: 'May Jehovah make thee happy and prosperous; may he keep thee from evil.'
- (26) אשׁרִ etc., may Jehovah lift up his face upon you, i. e. let him look on you with a face elevated, and betokening friendship and approbation; and not with a face cast down, a fallen countenance, betokening disapprobation and regret. So we say, in English, 'to look with an open face;' which is used to denote either cheerfulness, or a sense of approbation.—בשֶּׁר, Kal. Fut. of שִׁרָּב, 274. 2; the r is merely conjunctive here, and not conversive. Hence the different mode of pointing it.—בשִּׁר, prosperity of every kind, εἰρήνην.
- (27) יְשָׂמֵל , 209; lit. and let them put my name over the children of Israel, i.e. when they make supplication for them, or bless them, let them add my name, viz. the name of Jehovah; which, being connected with their requests, shall render these acceptable or prevalent, when made in behalf of the people. So it follows, באַבְרַבָּב.

The name of Jehovah is thrice repeated, in this solemn benediction. From this some have argued, that the doctrine of the Trinity was intended to be taught here, although somewhat veiled. Repetitions however of this sort denote intensity according to the usus loquendi of the Hebrews; e.g. "O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the Lord! Jer. 22: 29." From this we should not argue the triplex nature of the earth. Arguments of this kind, even if they have their foundation in what is real, are rather too tenuious to be of much use in polemic theology.

 2. c. Meaning: 'They are not of my own choice or impulse.'
- (29) אַלָּהְיּה, if according to the dying of all men, these shall die, i. e. if these men die a natural death, like others.— מַּלְּכְּדָּרִ etc., and the punishment of other men be inflicted on them; [then] Jehovah hath not sent me.
- (30) But if Jehovah create a new creation, (see on Gen. 11: 3), i.e. make a new thing, perform something new.—בּבְּאָשָׁ, with בּ local, into Sheol, into the grave or under-world.
- (31) בְּחֵבֶּק, Piel of יְבִּבְּלִי, בַּכֹּלּחֹים, בַּבְּלָּח, that the earth opened itself, separated itself, Niph. Fut., 182. b. 3.—בְּחִיהֵם, plur. suff. of בְּחִיהֵם, irregular, and actually derived from בְּחָה or בֹּחַ.
 - (33) בַּלָּה, as in v. 30 above.—פָּלָה, Piel Fut. apoc. of בָּלָה,

Dagh. forte omitted in the ס, 72 and 286. 2. בַּלְינָהם, 506. הַמָּלֹרָ, 506. הַמָּלְרָ, from הַנֵּךְ

(34) פְּרֵבֹתְיְהָם, prop. a noun, used here as a preposition, 407. b.—בּלָבְּל, Aed at their cry, viz. of terror and distress.—וְאָבְּלְרוּ, viz. the men of Israel said.—הְּבְּלֵבֶּה, for Qamets under בי, see 312. 5.

(35) אַאָּרְרֶבֶּר, fire, i.e. lightning.—אַישׁ, 461.—מַקְרַבֶּר, Part. Hiph. in const. state, the offerers of, those who presented incense. In respect to the 250 men here, who offered incense, see in vs. 2, 6, 7, 16—18, of this chapter.

The narration, contained in the preceding extract, has met with peculiar treatment from some of the critics of the new school in Germany. One class have suggested, that Moses probably caused the tents of the rebels to be undermined; and as he knew at what hour of the day the mine would be sprung, so he could predict when the rebels would be swallowed up in the earth.

Eichhorn is somewhat more expert, in his explanation. He attempts to shew, that Moses ordered the rebels to be buried alive, with all that appertained to them. As to 'the 250 men, consumed by fire,' he thinks that 'they were first slain, and then their bodies consumed by fire;' and this, by the orders of Moses.

To argue against conjectures of such a nature, would be operose agere nihil. It is not possible for any one who reads the narration above, really to suppose that the writer did not regard the event in question as miraculous. Now the object of an interpreter is, to explain the meaning of the author whom he interprets. The question, Whether such an event as that related above is possible, or credible? may be raised by critics, or skeptics, and may be answered by them in the negative; but those, who believe that the Creator of the world has it at all times entirely under his control, and that the authors of the sacred volume are worthy of full credit, will not be anxious to explain away the obvious meaning of the Scriptures, nor to free themselves from the obligation to believe in occurrences of a supernatural kind.

To wonder or to scoff at this (so named) credulity, is not difficult; but to argue it down, with grounds of reasoning that will abide the test of careful, extensive, and sober investigation, is quite a different task.

From Ps. 106: 33, and Deut. 32: 49—52, it appears that Moses sinned on this occasion; but the nature of his offence is not particularly specified in either passage. In the Psalm it is said, that 'he spake unadvisedly with his lips;' in Deut. loc. cit., that 'he did not sanctify the Lord in the midst of the children of Israel.'—But by Num. 20: 12, it appears that Moses and Aaron themselves indulged a spirit of unbelief, on this occasion. It was for this, that they were excluded from the promised land. Well may we conclude, that an unbelieving spirit is offensive to God.

- (6) אַרַקְבַּי, and one buried, or he [Jehovah] buried; for the Nom. is not expressed in this case, and we are left to make it out from the context. The latter seems to me to be the mind of the writer. One would not expect an impersonal verb here.—אַבַי, in a valley, (a Wady, as the Arabians call a ravine, with banks more or less steep, and either narrow, or of some considerable width).—אַרָּבָּי, before i. e. on the east; or over against i. e. not far from, in view of.—אַרָּבָי אָרַיִּבְּי אָרִיּבְי אָרִיבִי אָרִיּבְי אָרִיבְי אָרִיבִי אָרִיבְי אָרִבּי אָרִיבְי אָרִיב אָרִיבְי אָרִיבְי אָרִיבְי אָרִיבְי אָרִיבְי אָרִיבְי אָרִי אָרִיבְי אָרִיבְּי אָרִי אָרִי אָרְי אָר יִי אָרְי אָרְי אָרְי אָרְי אָרְי אָרְי אָרְי אָרְי אָּרְי אָרְי אָּי אָרְי אָרְי אָּי אָרְי אָ

- (16) בְּיַבְּיִר , 226. בְּיַבְּיִר , as an adverb, 403. d; far, remote from.—בּיִבְּיִר בּיִבְּיִר , for which, in the margin, we have אַבְּיִר , from Adam, a town or city, as the context shews. If the reading בּיִבְּיִב is retained, then we must render the whole phrase, very far in respect to Adam.—בִּיב , at the side.—בִיבְין , viz. בִּיבְּי, [the waters] which came down, i. e. towards the Dead Lake, otherwise called (as here), Sea of the Plain, or Salt Sea.—בּיב , were entirely cut off, 533.—בַּיָּב, opposite to, over against.

(17) בְּחְרֶבָּה, 142. a.—זְבֶּה, form of Hiph. Inf. of בָּחְרֶבָּה, used as an adverb here, 403. d; firmly, safely.

It is quite impossible here, to explain away the meaning of the writer in respect to this miraculous interposition. The 15th and 16th verses are so specific and definite as to their meaning, that to allege that the Jordan was forded by the Israelites, at a time when the waters were very low, is quite impossible; i. e. it is impossible to shew that the writer means to convey this idea. There is no alternative here, but either to believe in a miraculous interposition of God, or to abandon all confidence in the correctness of the sacred historian.

- (29) בְּיִלְפּוֹים, stooped down towards, the sense requires, took hold of.
- (30) בְּלֵּטְה , let me die, 475. 2. a.—נְבֶּט , Par. XIX., he laid out, he put forth.
- (31) אָקְרֵין, for אָקְרִין, 142, a.—זְּשָׁאַר, Dagh. omitted in the Sin, 73. Note 3; Fut. of אָקָרִין, בּרַין, between . . . and between; the Hebrews repeated the particle in such a case, while we use it only once, and that before the first noun, e. g. here, between Zorah and Eshtaol.—שַּשָּׁ, ruled over, governed, directed. The office of judge in the East, is invariably connected with that of magistracy in other respects. All kings are judges; and all judges besides them, are executive officers under them of some kind or other. Hence, in the Scriptures, the word to judge often means, in a figurative sense, to have a predominance among, to have a superiority over, etc.

If any one should question the possibility of 3000 people being upon the roof of the temple in question, he may be referred to the accounts of the temples at Thebes in Upper Egypt, which have been given by all recent travellers; accounts which, while they come to us authenticated in such a manner as to admit of no doubt in regard to their verity and correctness, at the same time present things apparently incredible, and contrary to all the philosophizing of most speculative and theoretical historians. The ruins of ancient Greece and Rome, so far as vastness and extent are concerned, dwindle into insignificance when compared with the astonishing remains of early architecture at Thebes. What is most confounding of all to that philosophizing, in which historians of a skeptical cast are continually prone to indulge, is, that these mighty ruins are, beyond all doubt, the relics of architecture designed and executed in ages, when, as some popular writers admonish us to believe, men were not yet weaned from contending with the beasts of the forest for their lairs and for their acorns, nor but very little elevated above them. The ruins at Thebes, present evidences of control over physical, mechanical power; of skill in architecture on a scale of surprising magnitude; and of art in mixing and laying on colours, that are fresh as if painted but vesterday, after having been laid on for more than 30 centuries; which confound and put to shame all that the arts and sciences, and the experience of 3000 years, have since been able to accomplish. So much for the rudeness, and barbarity, and ignorance, of the primitive ages. The Philistines, the near neighbors of the Egyptians, and their hearty coadjutors in polytheism, might well have, and doubtless had, large temples as well as they; large enough to afford room for 3000, and some of them not improbably for many more, to stand upon the roof.

As to the strength of Sampson, in tearing away pillars on which such an enormous weight rested; those who disbelieve any thing which is miraculous, will of course regard the whole as $\mu\nu$ - ϑos ; those who admit the reality of miracles, will doubtless be ready to believe, that there was some supernatural aid afforded him, in the case under consideration. A heavy blow was inflicted on polytheism, by the event in question, and on its votaries who were the enemies of God's chosen people.

SELECT PASSAGES OF HEBREW POETRY.

THE poetry of the Hebrews has characteristics which are peculiar, and which widely distinguish it, in some respects, from the poetry of the western world. So far as any one has yet been able to discover, the Hebrews had no knowledge of what we call quantity, or syllabic measure as employed in the construction of poetic verses. Many attempts have been made, since the revival of Hebrew study in Europe, to discover something of the Grecian and Roman measure in the poetry of the Scriptures; but none have met with the desired success. Men of different nations, of extensive learning, and of great enthusiasm for Hebrew study, have made these fruitless attempts. It has indeed been affirmed by Jerome and others in ancient times, and by critics of no small reputation in modern times, that the poetry of the Old Testament displays all the rich variety of Greek and Latin measure: and that one may find there the heroics and lyrics of the West, not only in respect to spirit, but even in regard to form.

Every attempt however to discover them, has failed to produce any general conviction of their real existence, in the minds of those who are acquainted with oriental studies; and it is now a matter of almost universal accord, that the characteristics which distinguish Hebrew poetry, are principally the following: viz. (1) A kind of rhythmical conformation of $\sigma i / \gamma o i$ or distichs. (2) A parallelism of the same in regard to sentiment. (3) A figurative, ornate, parabolic style. (4) A diction in some respects peculiar.

In regard to the first of these characteristics, the measure of syllables, i.e. their length or brevity as it regards what is called quantity, is not concerned; at least it is not, as has been already said above, discoverable by us. The terms rhythmical conformation, here employed, are designed only to mark a conformation in general, as to the respective length of lines and the number of syllables, in two corresponding orizon or distichs. This is the most general of all the distinguishing features of Hebrew poetry. The exactness does not, indeed, correspond with that observed in English rhyme. But still, it is so general, and so considerable, as to force the observation of it upon every reader, who has any powers of discernment.

The second characteristic, viz. parallelism, applies to the correspondence of sentiment. This sentiment may be either the same, (or the same with only a slight variation in the diction, or the thought, or in both), and then the distich consists of two parallel passages, in the usual sense of the word parallel, as well as in a poetic sense; or the sentiment in one origos may be an antithesis to that which is contained in the other, the antithetic correspondence being plainly a matter of design and calculation; or lastly, there may be nothing more than a correspondence in the length of the στίγοι, and a general sameness of design, without either a synonymous or antithetic sense in the members of the distich. To produce examples of all these would be very easy; but it would be out of place here. I refer the reader, for ample satisfaction in respect to this whole subject, and that he may acquire a right and adequate understanding of it, to Bishop Lowth's celebrated and admirable Lectures on Hebrew Poetry, in particular Lect. XVIII-XX; or, (to what in some respects is still more satisfactory), to his Preface to the Translation of Isaiah. He may also consult De Wette, Commentar über den Psalmen, Einleit. § 7; Vogel, de Dialecto Poetico; Meyer, Hermeneutik des Alt. Testaments; and other writers, who have composed introductions to the Hebrew Scriptures.

In regard to the third characteristic of Hebrew poetry, it is common, in some respects, to the poetry of all languages. A diction figurative, elevated, remote from the vulgar one, and abounding in comparisons, is almost of course the characteristic of all poetry, which exhibits any striking display either of feeling or of imagination. But the Hebrew poetry, (which is in a peculiar sense the offspring of feeling), abounds to an uncommon degree in these characteristics.

The peculiar diction of Hebrew poetry is displayed in the choice of words; in the meaning assigned to them; and in the forms which it gives them.

- (a) The choice of words. Thus אָלָה instead of אָדָה, man; אָדָה instead of אָדָה, to come; אָרָה instead of אָדָה, word; אַרְה instead of קָּבָּה, former time; מִנְם instead of מָנָם, water.
- (b) The meaning of words. E. g. אָבִיר strong for God; אָבִיר strong, for bull; יוֹכֵּף the only, the darling, for life; יוֹכֵף Joseph, for the nation of Israel, etc.
- (c) The forms of words. E. g. מַלְדָּהְ instead of אֱלְהָּרָם, God; הָּרָה instead of מָבָּרָם, to be; שְׁבָּרִם instead of מָבָּרָם, nations; מְבָּרָם instead of הָבָּר, years; הָלְּהְ instead of הָבִּר, days; שְׁבִּרִם instead of הָבָּר, from; יְבִּרְם instead of הָבָּרָם, he will go.
- (d) In poetry, several grammatical forms are peculiar. E.g. paragogic is suffixed to nouns in the absolute state; יב and יב are suffixed to nouns in regimen; יב suffix is used instead of ביב them, their; יב and יב instead of יב thine; יב and יב plur. instead of יב thine; יב and יב plur. instead of יב thine; יב and יב plur. instead of יב thine;

In other respects too, poetic usage gives peculiar liberty. The conjugations Piel and Hithpael are sometimes used intransitively; the apocopated future stands for the common future; the participle is often used for the verb; and anomalies in respect to concord, ellipsis etc. are more frequent than in prose.

The design of this brief sketch, is principally to awaken in the student a desire to make himself acquainted with this deeply interesting subject, and to direct him where he should go to attain the requisite knowledge in question. To pursue the topic here, would be premature and out of place. Nor is it necessary, since the student can hardly fail to procure at least some of the authors, who have been mentioned above as treating of the subject before us.

It may be proper here to note, that in making the division of Hebrew στίχοι or parallelisms, I have not been always guided by the train of accents put upon them. In general, these are an adequate guide and may be trusted. But they always need a watchful eye over them; and, not unfrequently, a departure from them is absolutely necessary, in order to preserve the best sense of the passage. Where this is necessary, or at least where I have judged it to be so, I have not scrupled at all to make such departure. It is now a position which needs no longer to be formally established, that the accents are not of ancient and obligatory authority. The palpable (not to say gross) mistakes, into which the Accentuators have sometimes fallen, is a sufficient ground why we should be allowed, when exigency demands, to depart from the path which they have marked out. I have done so; but I have done it only when I thought it quite necessary, or at least important, to do it, in order not to injure the poetry, or the meaning of the author. The student, who gains even a slight acquaintance with the accents, and with their nature as signs of pause, and as conjunctive as well as disjunctive, will be able at once to judge of all the departures which I have made; and to decide in some good measure, as to the expediency of them. It must be obvious, that the determining of the respective length of στίγοι, must sometimes be a matter of taste, and feeling, and judgment, rather than the following of any technical rules. Hence different persons may not always agree here. I can only say, that I have made no division contrary to the accents, without considering the subject and examining before I decided.

No. XLI. Psalm CL.

If we may suppose, (what at least is very probable), that the first and last $\sigma ri\chi o g$ of this Psalm was sung by the whole united temple-choir; and that the rest was sung responsively, by parts of the same; it is easy to see, that the effect must have been exceedingly great, upon those who were present at its recital, as well as upon the singers themselves. That the choir of voices was accompanied by a variety of instruments, is sufficiently evident from the matter of the Psalm itself.

(1) $7 = \frac{1}{\sqrt{3}}$, Piel, Dagh. omitted in the first $\frac{1}{2}$, 73. Note 3. The accent is here put on the penult, because a tone-syllable immediately follows the word, 101. d. In the last line of the Psalm, the student will see that Maqqeph and Methegh are employed, instead of a tonic accent as here. The real tone of the word is on the ultimate.—The Dag. forte is omitted in all the succeeding derivates of \$\frac{1}{2}\tau_{7}\$, for the same reason as above; and they are all in Piel Imperative.

- (2) בְּבַבּוּרְהָּדוּ, on account of his mighty deeds. בְּבַבּוּרְהָּדוּ, lit. according to the abundance of his greatness, i.e. in a manner that corresponds with his exceeding greatness, 438. d, and Note.
- (3) בְּבֶּל, lit. stroke. In English we say, blast.—בָבֶל, prob. harp.—זְבָּבָל, prob. lyre.
- (4) קֹּה, small-drum.—בְּקְתְּשׁ, the solemn dance, a measured step accompanying the music, and as it were beating the time for it.—בְּבָּת, on the strings, i.e. stringed instruments.—בְּבָּת, commonly written עִּבְּבָּר, comp. 31. Note 4; bag-pipe, bassoon? The translation of it by organ, seems to be incorrect.
- (5) אַבְיּבְיּבְּיִ (בְּצִבְּיִבְּיִ (מַנְעֵּטְ in pause), lit. with cymbals of sound, i. e. with sounding cymbals, 440. a. קור וּעָדה, of joyful noise or sound. A slight variation here makes the difference between this and the preceding στίχος.
- (6) הַּלְּשְׁהָה, lit. breath, i.e. every creature which breathes, all which has life.—בּלְבָּה, fem. because of its agreement with בְּעָבָה.

No. XLII. Ps. CXXXIV.

The title to this Psalm, (and to the others which follow), I have printed in small type, in order to distinguish it from the body of the Psalm. That this has not long ago been done, has been occasioned by following the Masoretic rules of arrangement, by which the title is not only confounded with the Psalm itself. as to the enumeration of the verses, but actually made a regular part of it, even in the train of the accents. As this is surely not distinguishing things that differ, I have ventured to throw the title into a line by itself, to omit the accentuation upon it, and to distinguish it from the body of the Psalm, by the mode of printing it.

שיר המעלות , (in the title), means, either 'pilgrim-song,' i. e. song sung when going up, ascending, to Jerusalem, as at the yearly feasts, etc., (which explanation will fit several of the 15 Psalms with this title); or, 'gradation-song, degree-song,' i. e. a song in which one distich gradually advances upon the other, or is built partly upon it, by repeating some of its words or thoughts, (which explanation fits many origor, but not all, of the Psalms bearing the title in question.)

Such are the usual explanations. But may not some light be thrown on this word, by referring to the poetry of the Syrians? One scalae, of the same signification as מַצְלוֹת. The name in Syriac appears to refer to a particular species of metre; see Oberleitner's Chrestom. Syr. p. 287. But what the metre is, in the psalms entitled מַכְלָּוֹת, (if indeed this title refers to metre), we have not the means of determining.

(1) הבה, see! i. e. attend, hortatory in its sense, in this place. ברכוּ , Imp. Piel, bless, i. e. praise, laud. ברכוּ here means, those employed in the temple-service, as the next orizos shews .-הים, העמרים, העמרים, who, 412. Note 1; lit. standing, which is the attitude of those who are in waiting or attendance, and alert in performing service. בַּלִילוֹת, the temple. בַּלִילוֹת, plur. masc. of 322; by night, lit. during the nights. Meaning: 'Ye Levites, ministering in the temple, and keeping the night-watches there, praise the Lord!'

(2) שאוי, Imp. of אינו. - בין, toward the sanctuary, 428. a, i.e. the most holy place where God dwelt; for toward this the worshipper always turned, when he offered up his supplications, which is expressed here by 'lifting up the hands.'

(3) יְבֶּרֶכְּהְ , 201. Note.—יְבָּרֶכְּהְ , from Zion, where God dwelt in his sanctuary; in other words, 'May the God who dwells in Zion bless thee!'—יְבָּיִבְּי, Part in const. state, 531. The dot over the middle tooth of the Shin is part of the Rebhia Geresh, 95. No. 11, which is placed on this word.—יְבָּיִבֶּ נְאָרֶץ, which, in the usual method of speaking, are the same as το παν, i.e. the universe.

No. XLIII. Ps. CXVII.

- (1) אבירם, fem. plur. of אבירם, 322.
- (פ) בְּבֶּר, he has magnified.—הְנָּעָהָה, for אָנֶינָה, 107. 2; fidelity, faithfulness, viz. in keeping his promises.—קּבָּלְּרַכָּה, plainly a general chorus to the Psalm.

The whole psalm is evidently one adapted to be sung at the commencement, or at the close, of worship.

No. XLIV. Ps. CXIII.

- (1) אָמר name, a periphrasis for Jehovah himself. Thus, "The name of the God of Jacob defend thee," i. e. the God of Jacob etc.; and so very often throughout the Scriptures.
 - (2) יְהֵר, 120. b, and 201. Note.—, מבר, Part. Pual.
- (3) מְבוֹאוֹ, Dec. III. departure, going down.—בּלְבּי, Part. Pual, laudandum.
- (4) בָּם, Part. Kal of בּבוֹדוֹם, his splendor, excellency, majesty.
- (5) בּיַרְּהָר, see Part II. No. 10.—בּיַבְּבְּרָה, Hiph. Part. with Yodh parag., 211. a. 4.—וּבְּבָּרָה, in pause, Inf. of יָּבֶּיך; lit. in respect to his dwelling. Both words together, 'Who maketh high [the place בְּקְבִּיֹם] of his habitation,' i. e. dwells in heaven.
- (6) בַּמְשָׁכִּילִי , Part. Hiph.. 211. a. 4, who condescends, who stoops down.—בַּשְׁבָּיִב, upon the heavens, etc.
- (7) מְקְרְמִי , Part. Hiph., 211. a. 4, the final Yodh (which draws down the tone) causing the Tseri under ב to fall away, 133.— גָּרִיב, 504. b.

(8) להוֹביבר, Inf. Hiph. with Yodh parag., 211. a. 4.

(9) מּיֹטֶיכִּי, Part. Hiph. 211. a. 4.—הַבָּי, Seghol. fem. of אָבֶּר, The whole phrase, 'Who maketh the barren woman to dwell in the house,' is a euphemism to express the idea of causing fecundity; which the next στίχος clearly shews. To those who are acquainted with the peculiar views of the Orientals on this subject, it will appear nothing strange that this is reckoned as a distinguished blessing. Comp. Gen. 15: 2. 16: 1 seq. 30. 1 seq. Luke 1: 25.

No. XLV. Ps. CIII.

לְּרָיֵּר (title), לְּ auctoris, as the critics say, i.e. בְ indicating the author; a common method of expressing authorship.

- (1) בְּפְשֵׁר, O my soul! Thus could the Hebrew address himself; and thus we imitate him in English. In like manner, Pindar addresses himself by מְוֹס מְּלִבְּי, suff. plur. of קָרֶבּ, the meaning is, 'my soul, myself,' or, 'all my powers and faculties.'—שׁי, governed by בְּרֶבּוֹ implied. —שׁי, שֵׁים קִּרְשׁוֹ ... שׁי , קַרֶבּוֹ אַלְּאָרָבּוֹ ... ישׁים, אָנְיִשׁי, 440. a.
 - (2) בְּמִרּבֶּיר, Dec. I., his kindnesses, beneficence.
- (3) יְבֹּוֹבֶר, suff. fem. sing. of יָלּוֹ, the fem. suff. דָּ taking a parag. Yodh, (a poetic form).—יָבִי הַּדְּלֵּוּאָיִכִּר in pause, for בְּיַבִּר, 236. c. fem. suff. plural.
- (4) הַלְּכֵּכּי, suff. plur. of the same form as the preceding.— קביב, Part. Piel, Dagh. omitted in ב, 152. a. 5; בְּבָּעַבְּבֵּרָכִּי suff. referring to הֶבֶּבָּר. בָּבָּשׁ , Acc. בַּחָמִים, ib., used only in the plural, and of a peculiar form.
- (5) טיב (with good of every kind adapted to produce happiness.—קבר, from יֵבֶר, Dec. VI., suffix as in 336. b; a doubtful word, but probably meaning here, senectus, advanced age, as the

Chaldee has translated it. The Arabic oc, red, means seculum:

- קתה א א קתה א היה, 3 fem sing in Fut. Hith., with קעוריבר for its Nom., 495. b. This noun has the fem. suff. יביר in pause, for יביר יבי 336. in c, and comes from the plur. יביר ; lit. thy youth is renewed like that of the eagle.—Some translate thus; thou renewest thy youth like the eagle. If this be the intention of the author, one would expect אַרְּחָרָהְּה, as שֵׁבֶּי is addressed, which is usually feminine. But as בַּבֶּי is also masc. occasionally, there can be no valid objection to this mode of interpretation.—אַיָּבֶּי, viz. as the eagle renews her pinions, and thus puts on the appearance of youth; the actual renewing of her age is, of course, out of question. The object of comparison is adverted to by the writer, in the same light in which it is commonly viewed and spoken of. The meaning after all may be simply, that a vigorous and healthy old age shall be enjoyed, like that of the eagle.

- (6) עֹשֵּׁה , lit. the doer of, const. Part., 531.—יּבָּקּרִּח, justice.— רָמִשְׁפָּוִים, [is] Jebovah, 554, i. e. Jehovah executes justice.—יְהּנָה, and judgment, equity.
 - (7) יוֹדְיע, Fut. as past time, 504. c. 2.
- (מּבֶּרֶלְ, with Daghesh'd Pattahh, 58.—קרָת , const. of אָבֶּרְ, Dec. V., constructed like Participials.—בְּבַּאַ , dual, indignation. Whole phrase; protracted of indignation, i. e. long suffering, slow to anger.—הַבֶּרְבַי, abounding as to kindness, 428. 3.
- (9) יְרֶרב, Fut. Kal of יְרֶרב, Fut. Kal of יָרֶרב, with ז fulcrum, 64. The phrase is here elliptical, אָם being implied after יְשׁוֹר, i. e. he will not always retain his displeasure.
- (10) בְּחֲטָאֵינּג, suff. plur. of בְּחָטָאַינּ, Dec. VI.—לָנוּ, Dat. incommodi here.
- (11) בְּבְבַּהַ, Dec. III., from בְּבֹּהַ, lit. according to the height.— אָבּרְרָאָיר, towards those who fear him, בַּלּרְרָאָר having here quite a different sense from what it has in the preceding סיוֹנְסָכָּ.
- (12) כְּרְהֹק, 521. b, like to the removing, i.e. remoteness.— פְּרָהִיק etc., i.e. he has separated our sins very far from us; which means, 'he has fully and freely forgiven them.'
- (13) בְּרֵחֵם, 521. b, Inf. Piel.—בָּי, towards.—רְחַם, Piel Praeter, 232. b.
- (14) יְצַרֵכּר, suff. state of יְצָרֵכּר, our frame, i. e. of what materials we are made; as the sequel advertises us.—זָכוֹר, i. e. זָכוֹר, 517; he surely remembers, he recognises well.
 - (15) בְּחָצִיר, as the grass, i. e. short, as the grass, i. e. short lived, soon withering away.—בָּן יָצִיץ, so he blooms, Fut. Kal of ציץ.

- (16) זֹב, 75. a, also 506.—זְבֵּירֶנּוּ, 405.—זְבֵּירֶנּ, Fut. Hiph. of יָבֵירֶנּ, with epenth. suffix, 309. d.
- (17) יְבִּרְקְתוֹ , kindness, beneficence, a sense which this word frequently has; and so δικαιοσύνη, in the New Testament.
- (18) לְשֵׁמְבֵרְ, with בְּרָקְתוּ implied before it, taken from the preceding סיוֹעְסַכּ.—נְיָשׁי , to do them, i. e. to obey them.
- (20) בַּבֵּר כֹחַ , ye mighty of strength.—בָּלְשָׁמִצַ בְּ, who hearken to, 523. b.
 - (21) עשֶׁרְהָיוּ, Part. Piel.—עשֵׁי , const. plur. Part., 531.
- (22) בְּרְכִי נַפְּשִׁי אֲח־יְהֹּהָה, ending with the same words which stand at the beginning; and which probably were sung as a general chorus.

It is difficult to conceive of any thing more delightful than this hymn of gratitude and praise to God, for all his bounty, his compassion, and his kindness. He who can read it, without entering into the feelings and views of the writer by sympathies kindred with his, may well suspect that all is not right within him, and that his heart is yet estranged from God.

No. XLVI. Ps. 100.

הְלְתּוּכְה, (title), of praise. This appellation is probably taken from the first סיולעסט in v. 4.

- (1) הַרְיעה, Hiph. Imp. of דּרָרעה, shout, make a joyful noise.
- (3) דְּעָר , Imp. of דְּבֶּר , is, even he is, 469.—אָבָּר, 467.
 —יַבְּעָּי , 313.—יַבְּעָּר , i. e. we did not [make ourselves]. So with the Sept., the Accentuators, our English version, and most critics, I interpret this expression. But Rosenmueller and others read it for אַבָּ, and translate, he made us for himself, throwing into the next στίχος.—יִּבַּעַ , i. e. יִּבַעַ , from the preceding στίχος, 562; we are his people, because he made us, and we did not create ourselves.
 - (4) בְּהָהָלָה, with song, i. e. songs.

(5) אמרכחו , his faithfulness, fidelity in keeping his promises.

No. XLVII. Ps. 93.

- (1) בְּלֵבְי, 149, reigns, is king.—הַאָּבְּ, Dec. I., with majesty, 511, ישבּבְּ being the other Acc. here, which is implied after בַּבְּעָ . Meaning: 'He is all-surrounded with majesty or glory, he is exceedingly majestic or glorious.'—בַּבָּי, in the second סוֹנְסָכָּ, implies a repetition of הַבְּעָבְּ, thus marking intensity by repetition.—יבַּבְּי, he girdeth himself with strength, as before in the case of בַּאַבְּי, שַּבְּי, ad fem. Fut. of Niphal, from בַּבְּי, which is fem. and has immutable vowels; the world is made firm.—בִּילִם, id. from בַּבִּילִם.
- (2) מָאָד, lit. from then, i. e. from ancient times, of old; for it is parallel with מֵעוֹבֶם in the next line.
- (3) יָּבֶּרְהֹּת, floods, a figurative term, designating an overwhelming multitude of threatening enemies. The repetition in the next line, denotes intensity.
- (4) מִּלְּלֵּוֹת , in comparison with the roaring, 454. The adjective which precedes this comparison, אַדִּיר, follows below.—

 waves of the sea, Jehovah in his lofty place is mighty. Meaning:

 God in heaven is mightier than all my strong and numerous enemies.' After מֵלִים , אַדִּירִים is implied.
- (5) עֵרְהָּדְרָ, thy testimonies, i.e. thy promises, assurances.— גָּאָמָרָרָ, 226.— בָּאַיָּרָה, Pilel of בָּאָרָרָ, 292.— לָאַרֶּלָ, before which is implied, 562. For Dagh. in p, see 75. a.— בָּאַרָרָר, for a length of days, i.e. for a long time, for ever.

No. XLVIII. Ps. 65.

לַלְנַצֵּבְּ (title), to the overseer, i. e. the chief chorister, or leader in the music; to him who has the direction or oversight; comp. 2 Chron. 2: 2, 18. 34: 12.—In ישיר, (so also in Ps. 67: 68, 87, and שיר מִיְנִנוֹר in Ps. 48: 66, 83. 108), one of the words is supposed by Rosenmueller, Gesenius, and others, to be pleonastic; as in the phrases הְּבְּהַתְּ בִּיְהָה, sapientia intelligentine; אָבָרִים, praeda spolii; תְּבְּהִיהָ, statutum legis; בֶּרִים, servus servorum. But with this explanation I do not feel satisfied. I should much rather believe that שִׁיך has reference either to the kind of poetry of which the psalm is composed, or to the kind of music in which it was to be sung, or to something which was concerned with the manner of its recital.

- (2) אָדְּ בְּלִּיְה , lit. to thee is quiet expectation, i. e. to thee I look in quietude, confiding in the aid which thou wilt afford. אָבָּיִה, i. q. הַבְּיִה, 41, a noun with the ending אָבָּי which is equivalent to אַבְּי סָר הוּת בּרָה, i. e. הַבְּיהְ, i. e. קבִּי אָרָ, i. e. who dwellest in Zion. יְבָּי , viz. the vuw made in the day of calamity, and to be paid after deliverance from it.
- (3) אָבֶרֶבֶּ, O thou who hearest.—קָדֶבֶּ, from בָּ, unto, 407. b.
 —קָבֶּי, flesh, noun collective here, for men, and so it takes a verb plural.
- (4) דְּבְרֵי עֵילֹת, iniquities, the word דְּבְרֵי עֵילֹת signifying matters of, and matters of iniquity means iniquities. The form of expression is pleonastic.—בְּבֶר בְּיָלִי , are stronger than I, 454. Note.—פְּעָצִינִר מָּנִי , at to our transgressions, 415 and 416. b.—בַּבְּבֶר, thou dost cover them, i. e. thou dost forgive them.
- (5) אָשָרֵר חְבָּחָר, i.e. אַשְּׁרֵר חִבְּחָר, happy they whom thou wilt choose, or, happy the people whom thou choosest, q. d. happy they who are, like Israel, thy chosen people. For the ellipsis of אַשָּׁר, see 553. f.—יְּבָּרְרֵב יִשְּׁרֵב, [whom] thou makest to approach nigh [to thee], that they may dwell, etc.; i.e. whom thou admittest to worship in thy temple, where thou dwellest, and who thus enjoy near approach to thee, q. d. are treated as confidential or beloved friends. The forms of expression are elliptical; out of poetry we might expect, בַּבֶּרְבָּרֵב יִּרִבֶּר יִּרָבְּרָב , נִיבְּרָבְּרַ , וֹנִיבְּרָבְּרַ , with the happiness, or, with the enjoyments.—יְּבָּרֵבְּרַ בְּרֵבְּרַ , before which בַּרֵב is to be repeated, 562, [with the enjoyments] of thy holy temple; בּרַרְ in this case, making the adjective, 440. b.
- (6) נוֹרְאוֹת, i.e. terrible to the enemies of God's people.— בְּצֶבֶק, in justice, viz. to the heathen.—קבָבָב, dost thou respond to us, viz. to our prayers; or, by deeds which strike terror into our enemies, dost thou, in justice, answer our supplications.— מְצֵרֵי , the object of the trust or confidence.— בְּבֵרֵי , const. plur. of אָבֶרִי , one of the very few nouns which permit a furtive vowel before at the end of a word; see 120. b.—בּיִ יִּרְם, the extremities of the earth and sea, means, the most distant parts of the world, or, all the world.—בּיִבִּים, from בְּבִּרִים , agreeing with בִּבִּרִים implied, 562; in English we may say, even the most distant, viz. extremities.

- (קברן (קברן , Part. Hiph. of בבהול , by his power; for the change of person here, see 565. a.—גָּאָזָר, he [God] is girded, Niph. Participle.
- (8) שָּאֵלֹן, Part. Hiph., who stilleth, composeth.—יְשָׁאַלֹּן, Dec. III., the noise, the tumult.—יְבַיִּבוֹן לָאֲבִּים, even the tumult of the nations; an epexegesis of the preceding expressions.
- (10) תְּשִׂקְקָה, Polel of אָבָּי, with suffix.—הַבַּק, much, abundantly, as an adverb here.—בּבְּבָּגְּאָלְהָּי, the river of God, either the river which God provides, or, a great river, 456. e.—אַבְּי, is full of.—הַבְּרָן הְּכִּבְּן הְּכִּיְבָּן הָכִיבְּן הִכִּיבְּן הַכִּיבְּן הַכִּיבְּן הַכִּיבְּן הַכִּיבְּן אָנִיבְּן הַכִּיבְּן אָנִיבְּן אָנִיבְּן הַכִּיבְּן אָנִיבְּן אָנִיבְּין אַנּיִיבְּן אָנִיבְּין אָנִיבְּיִים אָנִייִינְיוּ אָנִיבְּיִים אָּנִיבְּיִים אָנִיבְּיִים אָנִייִיבְּיִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִינְיוּ אָנִיבְּיִים אָּנִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִּים אָנִייִּים אָּנִייִּים אָּנִייִים אָּנִייִּים אָנִייִים אָּנִייִּים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָנִייִים אָּנִיבְּיִים אָנִייִים אָּנִייִים אָּנִייִים אָּנִייִים אָנִייִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּנִייִים אָּנִייִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִייִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִּים אָּיִּים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִים אָּיִּים אָּיִּים אָּיִים בּיּיִים אָּייִים אָּייִים אָּיִים בְּיִים בְּיִיבְּיּים אָּיִים אָּיִים בְּיִים בְּיִים בְּיִּים בְּיִים בְּיִים בְּיִים בְּיִים בְּיִים בְּייִים בְּיִים בְּייִים בְּיוּים בְּייִים בְּיִים בְּיּים בְּייִים בְּייִים בְּייִים בְּיים בְּייִים בְּיוּים בּייִים בְּייִים בְּייים אָּייים בּייים בּייים בּייים בּייים אָּייים בְּייִים בְּיים
- (11) תְּהָה, I take as the Inf. abs. of Piel, and standing for בְּהָה, 517, thou dost copiously irrigate, dost cause abundantly to drink.—הבָּב, Inf. Piel of the same construction as בְּרְבִיבִים, with Yodh omitted, 336. Note 4 (5). 1.—פווע with Yodh omitted, 336. Note 4 (5). 1.
- (12) אָבֶרְ מִיבְּרָהְ, thou crownest, i. e. thou adornest.—אָבָר מּיבְרָהְ , lit. the year of thy goodness, i. e. the year in which thy goodness has been displayed, 424.—אָבֶרֶּבֶּי etc., and wherever thou goest, there are exuberant fruits of thy bounty.

- (13) בְּאֵבׁה, Dec. XI., from בְּאָבּה, the pastures of the desert distil דָשֶׁרְ (implied).—בְּבִּרבֹּ, and with joy do the hills gird themselves.
- (14) בֶּרִים, from בַּ, Dec. II. d; the pastures are clothed with flocks, i. e. greatly abound in them.—בַ, with grain; also written בַּ, Hithpolel of רָבְּרֹיִ, they shout; Fut. as present, 504. b; and so of יְשִׁירִי (Fut. Kal. of שִׁירִי), which follows.

No. XLIX. Ps. 46.

, of the sons of Korah, i. e. בבי קבה of the sons of Korah, i. e. בבי קבה persons were, is not altogether certain. The probability is, that they were the descendants of Korah, who perished in the rebellion, Num. 16: 1 seq. It is certain that all his children did not perish with him, Num. 26: 11. It is certain also, that some of their descendants were among those who presided over the tabernacle music; see 1 Chron. 6: 22, comp. vs. 31-38, where it appears that Heman was one of these overseers. In 1 Chron. 9: 19, we find Shallum, a descendant of Korah, mentioned as one of the overseers of the tabernacle, and it appears that he belonged to a family called Korahites. These last are mentioned also, in 1 Chron. 26: 1, and 2 Chron. 20: 19, as being among those who were engaged in religious music. Heman (mentioned above) seems to have been quite a distinguished person, in the time of Solomon, 1 K. 4: 31. From all this, it would appear that there were men of eminence among the Korahites, in the time of David and Solomon, and the probability is, therefore, that the Psalms inscribed דבה לבה , belong to them as authors. These are Psalms 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 84, 85, 87, 88. In style, they differ very sensibly from the compositions of David; and they are some of the most exquisite of all the lyric compositions which the book of Psalms contains. The title was probably affixed by some editor of a later age; who knew only the general report that the Psalms in question belonged to the sons of Korah, and could obtain nothing certain, as to the individuals who were their respective authors.—בלמות, plur. only; found also in 1 Chron. 15: 20.

Gesen., 'a key in music;' Rosenm., 'a musical instrument.'—The former seems more probable; comp. 1 Chr. 15: 20 with v. 21. Does not מַּבְּיבִּית mean treble in v. 20, in distinction from מָבִּיבִּית, bass, in v. 21? If בְּבְּבִּיוֹת be elliptical, for מִּבְּבְּיִר , the voice of maidens, it may very naturally designate the treble.

- (פ) לְּבִּי , Dat. commodi.—יָבִי, our means of strength, i. e. our defender.—אָבָה, from בְּבֶּר, Dec. I., because the first Qamets is immutable.—בְּבָּר, Dec. XII.—אַבֶּב, Part. Niph. masc., agreeing with אָבְּרָה fem., by a constructio ad sensum, see also, 490; inveniendus, ad manus, promptus, at hand, of easy resort; אַבָּיב may be construed, also, as having הַבְּרָה for its subject.
- (3) בְּהָנִיר אָרֶץ, Hiph. Inf. of מוּר; therefore we will not fear, in respect to a change of the earth, or, when the earth changes, i. e. should the earth change, and sea become dry land, and dry land sea; "si fractus illabatur orbis."—הַרִים, and should the mountains quake in the midst of the seas, i. e. should the deepest foundations of the world be convulsed with earthquakes.
- (4) בַּהְבִּרּה, let [the waters] roar tumultuously, the first verb (from הָהָה) being rendered adverbially, 533. 'Should the mountains shake בַּאַנְהוֹ, with the swelling thereof,' viz. of the sea.

Thus far the figurative language employed by the writer, describes the commotions and threatening troubles of the times in which he wrote. He proceeds to open a more cheering prospect; not that of angry and overwhelming waves, but that of fields watered by copious streams, which gladden the country where they flow.

(5) בָּהָר, [there is] a river or stream, בָּלְּרִיר, means the channels or rivulets deduced from it, (in the oriental manner), and directed as convenience may demand. עִיר אֱבֹּהִרם, lit. the city of God, viz. Jerusalem; but the whole is figuratively said. יְבָּהָ מִשְׁבַּבֵּי, the holy dwelling place, 440. b. בְּקַרְבָּה, in the midst of her, viz. of the city. מָבְּרֹת בֹּקֶר, at the approach of the morning, lit. at the turning towards, i e. very early, in good season, opportunely.

. What was before figuratively pourtrayed, is now more literally described.

(ז) בְּקוֹלוֹ, he uttered with his voice, where some complement in the Acc. after בָּיִם seems to be necessary, viz. אָרָעָם, thunder, or some like word; comp. 1 Sam. 7: 10. Ps. 18: 14.—קביגה, the earth melted; an exceedingly vivid description of the powerful effects of Jehovah's mere word of rebuke.

- (8) יְהוֹה אָבָאוֹת, Jehovah of hosts, i.e. God of the hosts of heaven.
- (9) לְכוּ (Imp. of בְּלָה. הִבְּבֶּלוֹת, const. pl. of הְכְּנָּלָה, Dec. אוֹ. בְּאָרֶץ, who made, caused.— מַמֵּה from הַשְּׁטָּר. עִבְּי, viz. in our land.
- (10) But now, how different the scene! מַלְּבָּר, he maketh to cease, etc.—קבָר, even to the remotest parts of.—יְבָּר, he cutteth off, viz. the sharp or wounding point; or, he cutteth in sunder.

 —ייבּגלוֹת, the chariots of war.
- (11) הַּרְכֵּם, Hiph. Imp., addressed to the enemies of God's people; cease your vain efforts.—זְּבֶע , Imp. of הַבְּע, and know, that I have the sovereign control of all.—בּבָּע, from הַבְּע, 181. Note 2:—בַּבָּע, prob. interlude, viz. with instrumental music; so the Seventy, διάψαλμα, an instrumental chorus; perhaps from מַבָּע or בַּבַּע, to lift up, to elevate, viz. the instruments of music, in this case.

No. L. Ps. 29.

- (1) בֵּרֵ אֵבֶּרֹם, ye sons of the mighty, or, ye sons of the gods, an honorary title of nobles and princes; comp. Ps. 89: 7. Some understand it of angels, in both places. Sept. vious κοιῶν, the sons of rams, i. e. lambs; and so all the ancient versions, with Houbigant, making אֵבֶּרֹם the plural of צֵּבִּרָב ; a most singular example of failure in taste to perceive the beauty and meaning of poetry.— פֿברני, ascribe to Jehovah glory and power.
- (2) בְּבְּיִבְּי, the glory due to his name, i.e. to him, 424.— שַּבְּיִבְּי, in sacred ornament, with holy splendor, viz. dressed in sacred, splendid attire, becoming those who approach the presence of the Majesty of Heaven; see 440. a.
- (3) קוֹל יְהוֹה, here means thunder; as the sequel plainly shews.—אַל הַהַּיִם, above the waters, viz. the waters which are in the firmament, the waters in the clouds; comp. Gen. 1: 7.—אַל, יה , the glorious God, 440. a.— Jehovah is above the mighty waters,' expresses his supremacy, or his omnipotent control.

- (4) קַלַב, lit. with strength, i. e. strong, powerful, 442.— זָּבָב, lit. with majesty, i. e. majestic, 442.
- (5) שֵׁבֶר אֲרָזִים, describes the effects of the lightning, in rending the lofty trees on the mountains of Lebanon.—קַבָּבֶּרֹן, from to be white, and so, White-mountain.
- (6) יַרְקִּיְדֵם, he maketh them to leap, i. e. the mountains; referring to the rocking of them under the awful reverberations of the thunder.—בְּיִבְיּם, poetic form for בְּיִבִּיוֹן, the Sidonian name of mount Hermon, (see Deut. 3: 9), which the poet here employs as a diction somewhat more ornate, perhaps, than the common appellation—בִּיבְבֵּיִב, the young buffalo, or, the young wild ox.
- (7) תְּצֵב לַהְבּוֹח, divideth the flames of fire, I refer to the scattered lightning, which so frequently appears in a thunder-storm. Rosenmueller seems to think that it means, 'the thunderbolts striking fire.'
- (8) יְחֵיל, Hiph. Fut. as Present, from ההל, 504. b.—בָּדֶי, Cadesh, the desert through which the Israelites passed, on their way to the promised land.
- (9) אַלָּלוֹת, from הַבְּלֹית ... אַלָּלוֹת, maketh the hinds to bring forth. It is said, that parturition is exceedingly difficult among this species of animals; and hence the effect of the thunder is represented as being very great, by this description. The simple meaning is, that the terror occasioned by the thunder, produces the effect in question, which is often a well known consequence of terror; see 1 Sam. 4: 19.—היעה יערות, it lays bare the forests; which marks the effects of lightning on the trees, as it strips them of their bark and foliage, or scorches both so as to destroy all power of vegetation.—יבהיבלו, and in his palace, which appears to be the original meaning of the word; temple is a secondary meaning. In Ps. 11: 4 and 18: 7, the word seems clearly to be used for palace in heaven; which recent commentators suppose to be here meant. בלים, every one, all of the בלים, v. 1, the suffix i being pronomen multitudinis, as in Jer. 6: 13. Ps. 53: 4. Is. 15: 3 (written בֹּלֹה), and often elsewhere. אמר, declares, speaks forth, celebrates.—קבוֹד, i. e. קבוֹד, his glory, viz. the glory of God. So De Wette; but Rosenmueller quite diversely, thus; 'In his heavenly temple, throughout the universe (קבֹב), the voice of Jehovah speaks his glory;' i.e. the thunder proclaims the divine glory in heaven above, and throughout all the universe below; an expression, which, if correct, is at least a ἄπαξ λεγόμενον of the Scriptures.

I must differ from both of these commentators. In vs. 1, 2, princes and nobles, (so I understand it), are called on to praise God, on account of his power and glory; to praise him in their sacred, splendid attire, שֹבְיבֹיב, i. e. garments such as those put on, who worshipped in the temple or tabernacle, in Jehovah's immediate presence. Then, after recounting the ensigns of Jehovah's power and glory, in wielding the thunder and directing the lightning, the poet resumes his exhortation; let every one in his palace (temple) celebrate his glory; the same idea as in the first part of the Psalm, except that here is a little amplification, וּבִּבֵי מֵבִּי מֵבְּי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְּי מְי מִבְּי מְי מִבְּי מְי מִבְּי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְּי מְבְי מִבְּי מְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְּי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִבְי מִב haziz, on the flood; comp. Ps. 9: 5, אַבְּיִבְּי, thou art seated on the throne, a clear case of similar usage; comp. also is signifying in, with regard to state or condition, as Is. 1: 5. Ps. 69: 22. 45:

 7. Meaning: 'Jehovah, who wields the thunder, also directs, controls the flood of water, which the thunder-cloud bears in its bosom.' Rosenmueller: 'Jehovah who controlled the flood of Noah, still directs, and always will control, the tempests of the skies.'— number of the flood of Noah, will sit enthroned as king forever.

- (11) iv, lit. strength, metaph. protection, strong hold, i. e. protector, the abstract being put for the concrete.—Dibwi, with safety, with a peaceful state.

No. LI. Ps. LIII.

- (1) רָצָה, Part. of רָצָה, my shepherd. David, who was in early life a shepherd's boy, and who probably retained, ever afterwards, a vivid remembrance of his former condition, here uses the charming imagery which is borrowed from pastoral life, to designate the tender care that God had exercised over him, and the kind provision which had been made for all his wants. Comp. John 10: 11—14. Is. 40: 11.
- (2) בְּרֵבֵּבִי, in pastures of tender herbage. בְרַבּיבֵּבִי, he maketh me to lie down, lit. applied to quadrupeds only; but the connexion here demands a verb of this nature, because the object of it here is the flock or the sheep. The whole denotes, repose, quietude, a state of safety.—יבָּבִּבְּיִבְּי, waters of stillness, still waters, in distinction from rapid torrents, where there might be hazard in watering the sheep.—יבָבִּבֹּבִי means, to lead out, as a shepherd does his flock, in order to water them.

thy staff, the same as the preceding שָׁבָּש; save that here the use of it as a staff is indicated, there the use of it as a crook. No translation can well express the delicacy of the original. - זְּנְחַמָּבִיּךְ. Fut. Piel, 41 and 63, give me comfort or support, or, cheer me; i. e. the idea that God will be his guide and support, cheers him when in the deepest, darkest valley of affliction.

- (5) בָּבֶּר , for me, 475. 2. b. בָּבֶּר צֹרְכָּיִר, in presence of mine enemies; i. e. such is the provision thou hast made for my peaceful and happy support, that I can sit down and feast, in the presence of my enemies, without any fear of disturbance. הַּשָּׁבְּּר, lit. thou hast made fot, i. e. thou hast anointed my head with oil; an expression borrowed from the oriental custom of copiously bedewing the head with perfumed oil, on festive occasions, see Matt. 26: 7. Ps. 45: 8 (7). Ecc. 9: 7, 8. Amos 6: 6.—קָרָה, ubertas, abundance, overflowing, from הַּיָּבָר. The idea is that of a plenteous banquet, in which the cups are filled to overflowing.
- (6) יְשַׁבְּהִי , Inf. with soff. from בֵּרֶת יְשַׁבְּהִי , 247. a.— בְּרֵת יְשַׁבְּהִי , i. e. I shall be permitted, in circumstances of quiet and plenty, to worship before my God, all my days. How earnestly David desired the privilege of worshipping in God's house, is sufficiently testified by many psalms, which shew the very high value that he put upon this privilege.

No LII. Ps. XXIV.

If we suppose this Psalm to have been composed, and sung, at the time when the ark of the covenant was brought up to Zion by David, (2 Sam. 6: I seq. 1 Chron. 15: I seq); or on the occasion of the temple being dedicated by Solomon; and that it was sung responsively by priests and people, (as bishop Lowth conjectures, Lect. 19); the beauty and force of it cannot fail to be perceived and felt by the reader. If the inscription is to be trusted, David was the author of the psalm. This may have been the case, even if it was first sung at the dedication of the temple; for David, who had prepared ample materials for this building, may have prepared a song also for the occasion of its dedication.

(1) מְלּוֹמָה , the fulness of it, viz. of the earth, i. e. whatever it contains, all that is on it or in it.—נְבֵּל, a poetic appellation, clearly a synonyme here of אָבֶי בָּה. , 432. a.

(2) על יברם יכדה, he founded it upon the seas, i. e. he (Jehovah) built the earth upon the seas. Such is the Scriptural representation of this subject. See Ps. 18: 16 (15), where it is said, 'The channels of the waters (the sea) were presented to view,' and the parallel hemistich responds, 'The foundations of the earth were disclosed;' i. e. the channels of the great deep are the foundations of the earth. So Ps. 136: 6, 'To him who spread out the earth upon (59) the waters.' Comp. Prov. 8: 29. 2 Pet. 3: 5, 6. Thus were the Hebrews accustomed to think and speak, respecting the construction of the earth. That it is not philosophically correct, i. e. that water does not constitute the interior part of our globe, cannot well be shewn, perhaps not even rendered probable. But if it could be, there would be no more objection, surely, to the sacred writers' speaking of this subject more hominum, than there is to their saying, that 'the sun rises and sets,' or to our daily affirming the same thing. Nothing can be more manifest, than that the Scriptures were not given to teach astronomy, geology, or any of the physical sciences; and, consequently, whenever any thing connected with these is the subject of affirmation, the common popular modes of expression are every where employed by them. So, even after all our knowledge of the Newtonian principles of astronomy, and our universal assent to their correctness, we still continue to speak of the sun, as rising and setting; and who is deceived or misled by this? We ask for the sacred writers only the same liberty of employing language, of which all other writers avail themselves; and when this is granted, the case needs no further explanation.

י רְכּוֹבְּבָּהְ, Polel of בְּהָרָבְּ, the accent falling on the penult Sheva, and making a Seghol of it, 148. a, occasions the vowel, that would otherwise be written under the first בְּהָבָּהְ, to be dropped, i. e. instead of the sentiment of this סבּוֹבְּהָהְ, we have the present form. The sentiment of this σείχος is altogether parallel with that of the one which precedes it; being here employed as a synonyme with בַּבְּרֵבְּהַרְ

- (3) But who can presume to approach the presence of this great and glorious God? Who shall draw nigh to him, and worship acceptably before him?—בְּבֶּרִבְּיִבְּ, the mount of Jehovah, i. e. Zion where the ark of the covenant rested, and where God dwelt.—יַבָּיִקְיֹם קְנִים קִנְים קִנְים קִנִים hit. in the place of his holiness, i. e. in his holy place, 440, in his sanctuary.
- (40) נקר כפרם, lit. the clean of hands, יקר כפרם, like the Latin, integer vitae scelerisque purus. Adjectives are often employed in this manner, 423.—בר לבב , and pure of heart, is the same construction. Both are figurative expressions, denoting innocence of heart, and blameless external deportment.—אשׁב־בּשׁ , a locus vexatus, as the critics say. Stange, and after him De Wette and Rosenmueller, make it the same as Ex. 20: 7. to mean not merely לא תשא אַת־שֶׁם להוָה לְשֵׁיָא, making נַשׁים to mean not merely him, i. e. Jehovah, but also the name of Jehovah; a forced construction, which can not well be supported by any example. What can נְשֵׁא נְבְּשׁׁיִ , to utter . . . him mean? Much more easy and natural does it seem to me, to interpret it thus; Who has not sworn to a falshood intentionally, i. e. בְּנַפְשׁי, 559. So the Syriac, oragio, cum animo suo; and the Chaldee nearly so, in damnum animae suae. In rendering NUI sworn, the verb is taken elliptically, as a constructio pracgnans; and surely if we consult Ex. 20: 7 and Deut. 5: 11, there is no difficulty in this. is implied; but then this is accordant with frequent usage of the like nature, in regard to www; while the construction of the critics above named, is foreign to all usage. Sentiment: Who has not intentionally called on God to witness that which is false.'—So the origos which follows explains it, 'Who has not taken an oath to a falsehood.'
- (5) אָשֶּׁהְ, he shall receive, not without a design of paronomasia here. He who אַשָּבְיּא אַבְּ, has not sworn to a falsehood, אַשָּהְ, shall receive etc. The paronomasia appears sufficiently evident, although I do not find it noticed by the critics. See 571. d.—קרָה, favour, kindness.
- (6) $\exists i$, this, viz. such is the generation etc.; i. e. such are the acceptable worshippers of him who created the world, and to whom it belongs.—אָרָ, genus, race, class.—יָבָי, not without paronomasia again with the preceding word, 571. a, or d.—קָבָּי, lit. thy face, i. e. thee, 475. 2. b.—Those who seek thee יַבְּילָב, are Jacob, i. e. true Jacobites, or Israelites. So Rosenmueller and De Wette. I prefer the elliptical construction, בַּבְּילָב for בִּילָבְיּר, as it is expressed in Ps. 20: 2. 46: 8, 12.

- (7) שאט etc., may be construed thus: 'Be ye more elevated, so as to make a more spacious way for the entrance of the glorious king,' (so De Wette, Lowth, and many others); or 'Be ye elevated, be ye built lofty and magnificent, in a manner worthy of the residence of the King of kings,' (so Rosenmueller). Whoever examines the architecture of the eastern palaces and temples, and sees what boundless expense was laid out upon their lofty and magnificent porticos, will probably feel, that the second mode of interpretation is the most significant. If David wrote this psalm, in anticipation of the building of the temple, the words thus understood would be full of meaning. Whoever wishes to understand them in their extent, let him survey the plates which present us with views of the Egyptian temples at Thebes and other places: Our text so interpreted, means thus: 'Raise high the porch of the royal palace; make it worthy of the king of heaven and earth. Comp. what is said on the appellation, Sublime Porte, in Part II. No. XLVIII. בְּחַהֵּי עוֹלֵם, permanent, eternal doors, in contradistinction, (it is natural to suppose), from the mutable and moveable tabernacle, which had never obtained a permanent station; comp. 2 Sam. 7: 7, 8. 1 K. 8: 13. ___, that [the glorious king] may enter.
- (מֹרְ־נָּה , interrog., who this? i. e. who is this? The gates seem to be represented here, as asking, with astonishment, Who is the glorious king, that is about to enter? To which the poet replies, יְהֹנֶה נְדִּוֹיִ , Jehovah strong and mighty, i. e. Jehovah potentissimus, 438. d and Note.—מִּלְּהָרָה , mighty in battle, which epithet refers, no doubt, to the many signal deliverances from their enemies, and victories over them, which Jehovah had wrought for the children of Israel.

If we suppose our Psalm to have been sung, when the ark of the covenant was introduced into the temple, in which was Jehovah's throne, and where he dwelt, we may see an appropriate reason why the portals of the temple are required to be lofty and magnificent. Jehovah was, indeed, in a peculiar sense, to enter the temple. The ark itself seems to have borne the name of him who sat enthroned upon it, (see 2 Sam. 6: 2, comp. Num. 10: 35, 36); so that there was a double propriety in the expression, that Jehovah was to enter the temple gates, when the ark came in.

- (9) The call for a lofty porch, worthy of Jehovah's place of residence, is repeated, in order to make the deeper impression;
- (10) The question and answer also are repeated, for a like reason. In the answer, we now have יְהֹיָה עִּדְּהְ עִזְּהֹי , instead of as substantially the same in both cases.— הוא בֶּלֶּךְ, הוא בָּלֶּר, אוֹ , he, viz. Jehovah, and none other, is the king of glory.

It is not improbable, that this psalm, (and also many others), was sung responsively by the temple choir; in which case the dialogue form of it would be strikingly represented. On the subject of such responsive singing, see Lowth, Lectt. on Hebrew Poetry, Lect. 19; and for the present Psalm, comp. Lect. 27.

No. LIII. Ps. XIX.

The inscription assigns this psalm to David; nor is there any good reason to suppose that this assignation is not well-grounded, God, as revealed in the book of nature, is the subject of vs. 2—7; God, as exhibited by the purity and excellence of his revealed precepts, is the subject of vs. 8—15.

Rosenmueller (1st edit.), De Wette, and Stuhlmann, suppose this psalm to be a compound of two different ones, because of the two subjects which it presents, and the difference of parallelisms between the first and second part. But in the recent edition of Rosenmueller's Commentary, he says, ... "olim in hanc incidimus conjecturam Quae tamen parallelismi diversitas qualis sit, non indicavit vir doctissimus, (De Wette). Sed missam jam facimus istam conjecturam, ut minime necessariam." May the candour so ingenuously displayed here, be extended to many other "conjectures," which this able critic still defends!

- (2) הַּמַּמִים, the heavens, i. e. the heavenly bodies, by their motions, splendor, and utility, declare the power and glory of their Maker.—יָבָי, the firmament, i. e. the expanse above us, in which all the heavenly bodies appear to be placed, and to move; see on Gen. 1: 7.—יְבָּיִר, Hiph. Part. of בָּבִיר, the work of his hands, i. e. the work performed by him, hands being used only as a symbol of operative power. Meaning: 'The expanse of heaven exhibits evidence of divine, creative power and glory.'
- (3) יַבִּרב, day unto day, i. e. one day unto another. יַבִּרב, hiph. Fut. of יָבֵר, proclaims, utters, 504. b.—יַבְּרָּה, speech, declaration.—יַבְּרָּה, Piel. Fut. of יְבָּרָה, used as a general Present, 504. b.
 יַבְּרָה, knowledge. Meaning: 'One day proclaims as it were to another, the power and glory of the Creator; one night shews to another, knowledge respecting him; and thus the celebration of his praise is continued through all successive time, without intermission.' The idea is exceedingly beautiful, and the personification of day and night, successively handing down to each other the declaration of the divine power and glory, is worthy of the pen of David. 'It is wise to give all nature a tongue, when God is to be praised.'
- (4) אַרך etc., lit. there is no word, no speech, their voice is not heard, i. e. the heavens and the firmament, day and night, (which declare the glory of God), do not indeed utter articulate speech, or pronounce words; they have no voice which addresses the outward ear.
- (5) קַבָּם, i.e. קַבְּים, Dec. VIII., with suffix; sound, Sept. φτογγος; Symmachus, אַנְסָבּ; but the Chaldee has קַבְּים, extension, which Rosenmueller follows, because the usual meaning of זְבַ is line, measuring-line. But how does this parallelize with the following בַּיבְּים, their words?—מַבְּיבָּים, Dec. X., from בַּבְּיבָּים, Nom. to אַבְּיבָּים implied. Meaning: 'Although the natural world has no articulate, audible voice, yet it every where proclaims the power and glory of the Creator.' Before \\ \to \omega_\omega_\end{array}, at the beginning of this verse, \(\tau \) tamen, attamen, seems to be implied, 561. a.—\(\tau \omega_\om

- (6) אוֹהְיִי etc., and he is like a bridegroom going forth from his bridal chamber, i. e. the sun comes forth, all splendid and glorious, like the bridegroom in his richest attire, adorned with splendid jewels, and gold-embroidered garments. To apprehend the force and beauty of this image, one must be conversant with the nuptial dresses of the east, which are magnificent almost beyond description.—שישי etc., (Fut. Kal), he exults, like a mighty man, to run the race; another image to pourtray the sun, drawn from a different source. One characteristic of heroes, greatly admired by all the ancients, was, swiftness in the race. This touch characterises the motion of the sun in his daily course; as the following verse shews.
- (קֹמָבֶּה , Dagh. omitted in ף, קז. Note 3; from [one] extremity.—מְצִּבְּה , plur. of הַבְּבָּה , the extremities of them, viz. of the heavens; describing the apparent circuits of the sun.—הַמְתַּבְּה , from his warmth, i. e. from his warming and cheering influence.

Having thus set forth the testimony which nature gives, and in particular which the sun her most splendid work gives, to the power and glory of its Creator, the Psalmist now comes, (which is very natural for every mind deeply imbued with piety like his), to the contemplation of God as revealed in the Scriptures.

(8) הוֹרֵת יְהֹּלָה, the law of Jehovah, i.e. the Scriptures.— בְּשִׁיבַת נְבֶּשׁ (Part. fem. Hiph.), reviving or refreshing the life or soul; the expression, no doubt, is figurative here, and means, 'to refresh or quicken the soul in a moral sense.' "Converting" is not agreeable to the usus loquendi.—קָּהָי, true, free from all error.—קָּהָי, 148. a, the simple, i. e. the inexpert, the uninstructed.

- (9) The same sentiment, or nearly the same, repeated in different words.—בְּיֻבִּיק, right, i. e. not erroneous or deceptive.—
 בָּבָּיִה, pure, clear, having no obscurity, and so—בְּבָּיִה, enlightening the eyes; all in a moral sense.
- (10) בְּהֹלְרָה, piety, reverence for Jehovah. בְּהַרָּה, pure, free from spot or blemish. יַבֶּקָה לֶּעָה, permanent, lasting, uniform, not being now one thing, and then another, like human institutions or observances. בְּדְלָרְ בִּדְרָּרָ, are altogether right, i. e. are all accordant with each other, correct and true in union or unitedly.
- (11) בּּבֶּהְבָּהְי, Part. plur. Niph., the article is used as a pronoun, 412. Note 1, referring to בְּשָׁבִּים, than pure gold, differing therefore from the common בְּבָּה than pure gold, differing therefore from the common בְּבָּה than the distillation of the honey comb, i. e. than the honey which flows from the comb; before בּבָּה Dec. XIII., בּבָּה compar. is implied. Both of the images here are intensive; the first being taken from one of the strongest passions of our nature, viz. the love of riches; the second, from one of the most delicious of all substances in respect to taste.
- (12) The operation or good effect of these 'statutes,' is next described.—בַּב, moreover, also, i. e. besides being very precious, thy precepts are of an illuminating nature. Obedience to them also is crowned with great reward;—בַּבְּיבָּב, in the keeping of them, Inf. with suff. etc. 521, and Par. XXII.—בַב, 144.
- (13) פֿגִּראוֹת etc., who can comprehend his errors? i.e. who can remember and reckon up their extent and their aggravations?— מִבְּקָרִת , from hidden [errors], i.e. from those which escape my notice or recollection.—יָבָּקָרָר, cleanse me, make me pure, i.e. forgive me in respect to such offences.
- (14) Not only so, but interpose, and 'keep back thy servant from arrogant offences,' מֵזְרֵים, i. e. from offences knowingly and presumptuously committed. אַרָּהָ, in pause, for אַרָּה, see 264.

- 3. Fut. with Pattahh.—יְבִקְיחִר etc., then shall I be free from much transgression.
- (15) בְּרַבְּבוֹץ, 507. b.—בְּלְבְּבוֹץ, 475. 2. b.—יבי, my rock, i. e. my defence, my defender.—יְבוֹנְבִּיִּלְ, and my vindicator or redeemer, i. e. either, who liberatest or redeemest me from the power and penalty of my sins, (referring to the context); or, who hast delivered me in times of trouble and danger.

A truly beautiful psalm, scarcely excelled by any in the whole compass of the Hebrew lyric poetry, in regard to those qualities which please and delight a pious reader. May every one who studies it, and who can look with rapture on the evidence of the power and glory of God, which the book of nature discloses, be able to turn with still higher satisfaction to the brighter evidences of these and other attributes of the Divinity, which are exhibited by the holy Scriptures!

No. LIV. Ps. XV.

It seems probable, that this Psalm was composed by David, when he brought the ark up from the house of Obed Edom, and placed it in the tabernacle on mount Zion, 2 Sam. VI.

- (1) בְּלֵּדְר and יְבִּיּך, lit. who shall dwell, sojourn, i.e. who shall be an acceptable, habitual worshipper there? The answer follows.
- (בְּבֶּר, walketh, i. e. conducteth, demeaneth himself. יְרַבֵּר, and speaketh, the Part. only (in Kal) having such a signification. Piel is the usual conjugation, which has such a meaning.—אָבֶינָה 107. 2.—יִבְּבָּיָה, with his heart, i.e. who sincerely, leartily, speaks truth.
- (3) בָּבֶל, lit. runs about, metaph. goes about slandering. בָּבֶל with used sometimes before a noun signifying the instrument, in the same manner as בַּבֶּבְהוּ , for בָּבֶּבְּהוּ, 336. Note 4 (5). 1; lit. his associates. בַּשֵּא , utters. , קרבור, suff. of בַּרָבוּר.
- (4) בְּלָהֶר , Part. Niph.—, לְּהָרֵע , Hiph. Inf. of יְרָאָה , thiph. Inf. of יְרָבֶּה , as some have taken it; lit. to do evil. Rosenmueller and De Wette, malum facere, in the moral sense. But

No. LV. Ps. I.

- (1) אַשֶּׁבֵּר הַאָּשׁבֵּר , o beatitudines illius viri!—קַבְּאָשׁבִּר הַאָּשׁבִּר הוּ. e. is not conversant with, is not familiar with, does not demean himself agreeably to.—עָּבֶּר, in pause, standeth not, i. e. does not await the company of sinners, does not associate with them.—בְּבַּרְנִיבְּיִי etc., and does not sit in the seat of scorners, indicates a still more intimate familiarity with the wicked than the preceding orizos.—בּבַּבְּי, those who make a mock at religion and virtue. The repetition of the same idea, (the same with a slight variation), in the three different στίχοι, means; 'Who does not in any way whatever unite with, or act like, the wicked.'
- (2) בְּרְ אָם , but if, i. e. 'happiness to the man who does not walk, etc. but if in the law of the Lord etc., [then] happiness to him!—זְּבְחוֹרְתוֹּ, and on his law will be meditate, etc.—דֹנְיִם, by day and by night, i. e. continually, habitually.
- (3) יְהָּדֶּה, for he shall be.—יְבֶּבֶּר, channels, canals, rivulets, with allusion to the method in which trees are made to flourish in the East, by means of being watered by little canals.—יְבָּבָּל, from מָב, Dec. VIII, in its season, in due time, when one expects it, thus subjecting the owner to no disappointment.—יָבָב, from בָּבַל, with Vav fulcrum in the ultimate, 64.— ct., either, all which it [the tree] may produce, shall come to maturity; or, all which he undertakes shall prosper. Usage will support either interpretation. In order to avoid tautology, I prefer the latter; as do Rosenmueller and De Wette. The former is followed by the Chaldee, Faber, Knapp, and others.

- (4) אָבֶרְהָלּי, not so, i.e. it shall not go thus prosperously with the wicked.—קבּי, but [he shall be] like the chaff.—יבּבְּיָה, Fut. Kal of קבָּי, with epenthetic suffix.; for אָבֶר, see 478.
- (5) אָרָ אָלָּ, shall not stand, shall not abide, i. e. shall not continue to hold their place, or to keep in it.—בְּשִׁיבָּב, in judgment, i. e. when [God] judges; which may relate either to this world, or to the next, or to both. The proposition is general.—בְּיִבְּיב, nor, 558. Note.—בַּיַבְּב, i. e. sinners [shall not stand] with or in the assembly of the righteous, they shall not be associated with them, nor partake of their rewards.
- (6) רוֹבֵל, (like the Greek γινώσιω), approves, is pleased with, regards with favour; comp. in Ps. 144: 3. Amos 3: 2. Nah. 1: 7.

 אָרָבָּר, manner of life, the course pursued, viz. course of conduct.

 אַרְבָּרָר, but the way which the wicked pursue, leads to destruction, perishes. So De Wette, "Führt zum Verderben." The way itself (an abstract thing) cannot be said literally to perish; but the counsel, designs, and efforts of the wicked, (which constitute their way, i. e. manner of life), may well be said to be frustrated, (אַרַבָּרָר); and this seems to be the meaning of the writer here. Comp. Matt. 7: 13, 14, 'Broad is the way which leadeth to destruction, etc.'

The general sentiment and nature of this Psalm, probably occasioned its being placed at the head of the whole collection, when it was completed. There are no internal marks, which decide either as to the time or the author of the composition. But with great propriety does it occupy its present place; and it may be justly said to contain an epitome of all the Psalms which follow.

No. LVI. Ps. LXXXIV.

תַּלְּכְּהַהְּאָת, on the Gittith, prob. a musical instrument, named either from Gath, where it may have been invented, or particularly used; or else from אַ a wine-press, because it was an instrument used in the vintage-music.—מְבָּרִכְּקְרָ, see above, No. XLIX.

- (2) יְרִירוֹת, fem. pl. of יְרִיר, agreeing with בְּטִבְּכוֹתֶיך, which, though plural, is used for the tabernacle; so occasionally elsewhere, e. g. Ps. 46: 5 (4). 132: 5.
- (3) בְּכְּסְבָּה, 182. b. 4.—קּבְּקְה, pines, pines away after.—יָבָּב, my heart and my flesh, i. e. I, or rather, all of me, 475. 2. s. d.—יָבָבָּר, cry out, reg. Piel of בָּבָּר, 262.
- (4) אַבְּרֵה, sparrow.—קֹבְּי, i.e. קַרָּה בּיִרָּה, Dat. commodi.

 —קֹבְּהוֹתְי, thine altars, not literally, for on such a place, constantly frequented by worshippers and blazing with fires, the swallows would not build their nests. The meaning is, place of the altars, in near connexion with the altars, i. e. on parts of the temple, the roof, etc.—Or the passage may be understood in another way, viz. with אַבְיָא implied; [let me find] thine altars, O Jehovah, my בְּיִב , etc. So Rosenmueller; but I prefer the first method. Vs. 2, 3, shew that the writer was excluded from the privilege of frequenting God's house; v. 4, that this privilege was granted even to sparrows; the conclusion is not stated. But the σιώπησις is sufficiently intelligible and forcible; viz. 'Wilt thou grant to sparrows a privilege desnied to me?' How much the writer prized this privilege, he proceeds to tell.
- (5) Blessed, etc.—קַבְּלְלֵּדְּךְ, Dagh. omitted in the first 5, 73. Note 3. Meaning: 'So happy are they, who enjoy the privilege of continually frequenting thy temple, that they are constantly lifting up to thee the voice of praise.'
- (6) גוֹז־לוֹ, i. e. לַּבְּר, whose glory, 553. d. בְּרָּ, in pause. מְסַלּוֹת etc., i. e. 'in whose hearts are the ways, viz. the ways which lead to Jerusalem, where the temple is, and where the pleasure of worship can be enjoyed. Before מַבְּבָּבָּם one must understand מְבָּבָבָּם, as also in the preceding clause.—מַבְּבָּבָּם, in whose hearts, a plur. pronoun suffix, but meaning the same as the sing. one in יבֹּי, where the pronoun is generic. Sentiment: 'Happy those who glory in thee, and who cherish an affectionate regard for the ways which lead to thy presence!'

- (7) The writer now turns his view to those, who are (as it were) in the act of travelling in the ways mentioned, in order to visit Jerusalem. Such is the nature and object of their journey. and of their hopes, that no misfortunes by the way will render them unhappy. Apparent evils will be converted into blessings. etc., should they pass through the valley of Baca, i. e. of tears or weeping. Baca is the proper name of a place; but here it is figuratively put, for calamitous circumstances. The tears shed in this barren, desolate valley, will become fountains of water, to quench thirst, and afford grateful refreshment. they will make it [i.e. Baca, tear-valley] a fountain. That is, be there troubles and wants ever so many, God will relieve the one, and provide for the other. Yea, he will abundantly provide; Da etc., yea, with blessings the early rain shall cover [it], viz. the valley. That is, 'those who travel through Baca, shall find this dry unfruitful valley full of springs, and clothed with verdure by timely rains;' a delightful image of the kindness vouchsafed to those, 'in whose hearts the ways of Zion are.'
- (8) גְּקְיֵלְ עֵד דְּיָלְ. i.e. with strength continually increasing as they proceed; "crescit eundo."—גָּקָה, Fut. Niph., i.e. [אַר each] shall exhibit himself, make his appearance in Zion; none shall stop short in the journey, before it is completed and his wishes are attained.
 - (9) עָמִעָה, Imp. parag. 207.
- (10) אַנְשִׁיהָן, of thine anointed one, i. e. of David whom thou hast anointed to be king.—שָּבָּי before; this word may be rendered face, or person; but in sense it is expletive.
- (11) הְּסְתּוֹפְתּ, Hiph. of סָפַּה; standing upon the threshhold.— מְבּוֹרַ rather than dwelling.

(12) הַלְּ , grace, favour. רְבָבוֹר , and abundance, i. e. abundant favour, 440. For such a sense of בָּבוֹר , see Ps. 49: 17. Is. 10: 3. 66: 12, et al. בְּחָבִים בְּחָבִים בְּחָבִים הַ , to those who live in an upright manner, who behave themselves with integrity.

No. LVII. Ps. XC.

The title attributes this Psalm to Moses; nor is there any thing in the contents of it, which would render it improbable that he was the author. If we suppose that it was written by him, near the close of life, and after a great part of the adults, who came out of Egypt with him, had fallen in the wilderness, in consequence of having incurred the divine displeasure, we shall see a force and beauty in the language which are peculiar, and well become the pen to which they are attributed.

- (2) אַבָּר, in pause, 146, lit. were begotten, or were born. So the creation of the mountains is sometimes expressed; see a similar expression respecting the dew, in Job 38: 28, 29; and also respecting Wisdom, Prov. 8: 24, 25.—בַּבָּוֹחַהָּבַ, or thou hadst brought forth, viz. formed, created; a figurative mode of expression, of the same nature as the birth of the mountains above.—יְרַחֲאֵ הוֹי, the earth and the habitable world. When conjoined, as here, בַּבָּה means, orbis habitabilis, οἰκουμένη, and so it is often taken for the inhabitants of a land. But in many cases, there is no difference between יְבָּה and בַּבַּה.—בֹּאֵ הַבָּא, thou art God, i.e. always the same, always God; there is no change, no failure, incident to thee.
- (3) But how different is man! Thou turnest him אַדְּדְדַבְּאָ lit. until he is crushed, i. e. until he becomes dust, or to dust. אַרָּבּרָאָ return, i. e. to dust; comp. Gen. 3: 19.
 - (4) Exceedingly diverse from this is the condition of the everlasting God; who is not affected by any succession or length of time; רְבִיבְּרֵבְ, but with him, or before him, a thousand years, etc. בְּבִיבְּרֵבְ, like the day of yesterday, like yesterday. בְּרִים אֲבְּרֵבְּ, when it is past; a vivid image, descriptive of faint impressions on our minds, which is proverbial in the mouth of even the multitude. בְּבְּבְּרִבְּ, i. e. בְּבְּבְּבְּ, p being brought from the preceding στίχος, 562. לְבָּבְּ, during the night. The question has been disputed, whether the Old Testament makes mention of only three watches; or (like the New Testament, Mark 13: 35) has four. The former is altogether the most probable; see Judg. 7: 19. The object of this comparison is like that of the preceding one, viz. to represent as it were the nothingness of a thousand years, in respect to the eternity of God. Rosenmueller construes this verse differently, and (as it seems to me) with a loss of the antithesis which the poet designed to present.

- (5) זְרֵיִּהְם, lit. thou dost overwhelm them, i. e. thou dost sweep away them [men], as with a flood.—יְּהָבׁה , a sleep are they, i. e. they vanish, or pass away, like sleep, or as a dream.—יְּהְבׁ they shoot up, spring up, like grass in the morning, i. e. like grass when the dews of night have refreshed it.
- (6) בֵּיץ, Fut. Kal of צִיץ, [which] is blooming in the morning.—יְבִּילְ, (in pause), and shoots up. At evening הְיָבִילְ, one cuts it down, 500. יְבְבֵּיב, and it withers; a beautiful image of the brevity of human life, often repeated by the sacred writers.
 - (7) בּי־כָלִי: for we are consumed, 181. Note 2.
- (8) הָשֵּׂי, Praet. Kal. 2 person, from מְשִׁי, and put for הַשְּׁי, 293.—יָבֶּיְבֶּי, 41 and 63, suff. of בָּלִּים, pass. Part. of בַּלְּיִבּי, lit. our hidden thing, i.e. our secret sin.—יָבָּיִר, in thy light, i.e. in full light, thou hast fully disclosed our secret sins.
- (9) פֿבּר, turn, revolve, pass away or vanish, because of thine indignation.—Our years כֹבֹיבוּ, come to an end.—בּבֹיבוּ, as, poet. for בַּ....., a sigh, a murmur, or a thought; another very vivid image of the brevity of human life.
- (10) בְּרֵל שְׁכּוֹתֵיכּה, as to the days of our years, Nom. abs., 415.

 בְּבָּר, lit. in them are 70 years.— יְבִּאָם בִּנְבּוּרְת, and if by reason of strength, i. e. robustness of body, there be 80 years.—בָּחָבָּר, זְּרָהְבָּבּוּ from רְבֵּב, yet is their pride, i. e. that in which men boast.—אָבֶּרְ, sorrow, wretchedness.—זָב, from גָּדּ, [their pride] passes away.— גָּדּ, swifily.—יָבָּעָבָּה, Fut. parag. 1 plur. of גָּדּ; and we fly away; another image of the rapid decline of our days.

- (11) מֵר־יוֹדֵעַ etc., who knoweth the power of thine anger, in reference to the destruction of human life, when the divine displeasure is incurred.—קֹבְיָבְיִּהְדְּ יֻּבְּרָתְּהְ, and according to thy fear, i. e. in such a manner as becomes due reverence toward thee, [who acknowlegeth, מֵר־יוֹדַע, thine indignation? Meaning: 'Who knows the extent to which the power of thine anger may punish; and who acknowledges, with becoming reverence, thine awful indignation?' In this simple way of interpreting, this difficult verse becomes quite plain.
- (12) בֶּן הוֹדֶע, so make us to know, teach us.—הוֹדֶע, to compute, number; i. e. make us so to reckon upon the brevity of human life.—לָבֵב חַבְּכִּה, Fut. Kal of בֹּב חַבְּכִּה, that we may acquire.—לָבַב חַבְּכִּה, lit. a heart of wisdom, i. e. a wise understanding, 440.
- (13) שׁלְבֶּה , Imp. parag., turn, viz. from thy wrath.—אָבַר־כָּיָהְי how long? A σιώπησις standing for, 'How long wilt thou delay to have compassion?'
- (14) בַבֹּק, lit. in the morning, i. e. soon, early, speedily.— בַב, during all.
- (15) בּיכּוֹת, according to the days, i. e. make us glad, for as long a time as thou hast afflicted us.—אָיכִים, i. e. הַּיִטְיַם, like הַיִּבָּים, 559.
- (16) בֶּלֶהְ, Fut. Niph. of בָּלֶרְהְ, thy works, viz. of deliverance, aid; Nom. to בָרָאָה, 489. But other copies make אָבָּהָ, sing.—קָבָּרְרְ, and thy glory, i. e. the glory of thy benignity; comp. Ex. 33: 18, 19.

The wish above expressed, is repeated in the final clause, in accordance with the earnestness of the writer's feelings.

The whole Psalm is acknowledged, by all critics of taste, to be one of the most beautiful of all the elegiac compositions which the Scriptures exhibit. Who can read it, especially in a season of affliction, without feeling its power and admiring its excellence?

No. LVIII. Prov. XXIII. 29-35.

- (פָּאַרִיר, אפֹרָ אָרֹרְ, אפֹרָ also the interjection O! which is an expression of woe. אבּרִיר, sorrow, a paronomasiac form here, for the sake of consonance with אַרֹרְ, אַרֹרְ, בּיִרְיָרָי, from יְמִרְּרָרָ, Dec. III. in the singular; the plur. has Vav moveable, as if from a sing. אַרִּרְיָ, complaint, complaining, שִּרְרָּ, wounds.—בַּיְרָתְ, without reason, gratuitously, i.e. without being engaged in honourable warfare, without fighting against the enemies of his country. The ignoble cause of a drunkard's wounds is, by implication, set in antithesis to the noble source of the patriot-warrior's wounds.—בַּיִּרְנָתְ, dulness of eyes, an exceedingly characteristic stroke of the appearance of the drunkard, after his intoxication. The dull, heavy, (as we say) glassy, appearance of the eye, is an obvious and well known trait of intemperance. In the text of Hooght, the first b of this word has a Munahh over it, which is omitted here because it is an error.
- (30) Now follows the answer to the above questions. נוֹלְמְצְּרִים to those who delay, to those who tarry long etc., is were etc. בֹּצִים, over the wine, or at the wine. Before בַּצְּתְּרָרִם and בַּצְּתִּרָם (to those who go, from אוֹב), the words woe, sorrow, etc., are obviously implied; i. e. to such persons as delay, etc. all the woes enumerated belong. בְּיִלְיִרְרִים (זְּלֵוֹלְרִיתִּהְ 64), lit. to seek out, to investigate, which means here, to taste, to make trial of. It seems like an ironical expression, borrowed from the language which drunkards employ, when they represent themselves as tasting, proving wine; a soft expression in their mouth, to describe the excessive drinking of it.—קבּיִבְּי, mingled wine, i. e. wine mingled with drugs of an intoxicating nature, wine in which such drugs were steeped.
 - (31) אַל־תֵּרֶא, Fut. apoc. Kal of רָאָה; for tone, see 101. c; thow must not look, 504. i.—י, when.—יְהַאַּדֶּרָם, (in pause), when it looks red; which is the distinguishing trait of wine that is approved by the people of the East. E.g. Olearius (Travels) states, that the Armenians colour their white wines with log-wood, or saffron, in order to make them red. בּיִר בִּין etc., lit. when it shall present its eye in the cup, i. e. when it shall sparkle (as we say), when it shall foam with the gas which is in it, and have a lively, sparkling taste. The Hebrew expression has great vivacity. אור בְּבִילְשֶׁרִים, it goes [down] smoothly; which is characteristic of the best of soft wine. בְּבִישְׁרִים means, directly, straightly, i. e. without any impediment, smoothly or easily.

- (32) פֿרַריּתוֹ etc., its latter end, the sequel of it, is like a serpent's bite.—קָּבִי, Fut. Kal of בָּבָרָשׁ, in pause.—יַבְּרָשׁ, Hiph. from בַּבְּשׁ, which means to separate, to divide. But the Syriac Aphel (Hiphil) of this verb, בּבִּרִי, means punxit. Hence we may render here, stings, wounds. This description of the consequences of intoxication is exceedingly vivid. I know not how it could be made more so.
- (33) הַרֹּד, Part. fem. of אַרֹּד, strange women, i. e. prostitutes; one of the natural and usual consequences of intemperate drinking.—קַבְּבֶּד, et animus tuus, i. e. thou thyself, 475. 2. c.—הַבְּבַּדְּהָ, perverse things; another natural consequence of the same beastly vice.
- (34) 크코앤크, like one who lays himself down, i. e. in order to obtain sleep.—그늘로 (그늘), in the midst, lit. in the heart.—날르크, prob. mast. By the first image, the reeling of the drunkard is designated; by the last, both his reeling and his extreme danger are characterised with a powerful hand.
- (אָבָרָה , Hiph. of בָּלְ דָּלְרָהְי, they have stricken me, [shall he say]; for אָבֶר is here implied, אָבָל דָלָרָה בָּל דָלָרָה , [yet] I felt not the pain, i. e. they have stricken me when I was insensible to the wounds, and could make no efforts to escape them. הַלְּבֵּרְהָּר, they have thrust at me, בַּלְבֵּרְהַר, [when] I knew it not.

So much for complaint, on account of the beating and wounds which the drunkard had received in his broils. But all this does not wean him from his cups. No sooner has he finished the complaints, which his pain at first occasions after he has awaked from

No. LIX. Job IV. 12-21.

- (12) יְבֵּבֶּר, now to me.—יְבָּבֶּר, (in pause), was a matter secretly brought or disclosed. And mine ear received אָטָטָ, a whisper, respecting it or of it; i.e. it was whispered, q.d. secretly communicated to me. A preparation by the speaker for the narration which follows, and well adapted to excite attention.
- (13) In the thoughts מֶהְיִּיֹנִוֹת , [which arose] from the visions of the night, i. e. in a dream, or nocturnal vision; as the following στίχος shews.—בָּבֶבָּל, 520 and 521. a.
- (14) קְרָאֵּיִ, came upon me, אָרָא in a like sense with קָרָא, פָּלָ, iit. the multitude, here put for בֹּל, all.
- (15) יְרְרְּהַחְ, for a spirit. The hair of my flesh מָּבֶּבֶּר, was stiff with horror; a most vivid image of fear and alarm.
- (16) אַבּיר... יִבְּעֵּה , viz. יִבְּעֵה , Hiph. of אַבּיר... , its countenance... אָבְירָה, a form, image only, was before my eyes; i. e. he could not, on account of terror, look on it steadily enough to recognize what its features were; he only saw an indistinct form; all graphically expressive of terror and astonishment... בְּיִבְיָה , lit. silence and a voice, i. e. a low voice, a whisper, 569; finely adapted to increase the awe and solemnity of the whole.
- (17) 'Shall mortal man be more just than God ?'—אָב, ne, interrogative. 'Shall man (קבָּן in pause for גָּבֶּר) be purer than his Maker?'

- (18) בַּלְבָּדֶרוּ , in his servants, i. e. those who are more immediately employed by him in heaven, as the following סוֹנְעסָּגְּ shews.—And to his angels he attributes הַבְּבָּדְרּ, folly, error, i. e. compared with his own infinite perfection.
- (19) nx, how much less; so Rosenmueller and Gesenius, supposing it to stand for DAN. The sense is good; but we may come to the same idea with a less violent ellipsis, or at least, by one which is every where practised in poetry; i.e. by simply carrying forward לא יַאַכִּין from the preceding verse, we have a plain idea, viz. אָאַ, 'surely then, [he will not confide in] those who dwell in houses of clay, etc.; see 562.- 72, irreg. const. plural of n. Houses of clay is a vivid image of the frail and perishable nature of human bodies. There seems to be a reference in this, also, to Gen. 2: 7. 3: 19; but it is not absolutely necessary to suppose this. __ יַכּוֹרָם יְכּוֹרָם, whose foundation is in the dust; an additional evidence of great frailty and of a perishable nature.—בְּבְּאִנְּם, lit. they crush them, viz. men who dwell in houses of clay, etc. But the verb has an indefinite Nom., and is here employed in a passive sense, i. e. they are crushed before the moth; an additional, most vivid image of the frailty of man; see 500. Note 2. Rosenmueller and Gesenius construe של השל אם אלפני על אוני אם אלפני אלי the moth, sicut tinea, and appeal to 1 Sam. 1: 16, as a confirmation of this meaning. But as this is a very doubtful sense of לפבר; and as the Hebrews familiarly say, 'are smitten, scattered, crushed, dispirited etc., לְפֵבֵי, before an enemy;' I understand the phrase in a like sense here. 'Men are crushed before the moth;' i. e. the moth, insignificant and harmless as it appears to be, has power to crush them; a more vivid image than the other, while the usus loquendi is equally well preserved.
- (20) בְּבֶּרְר בָּבֶּרְר , from morning to evening, i.e. in a day, in one day, in a very short space of time.—בְּבָּר, Hoph. Fut. of בַּבְּר , בַבְּרָר בַּעִיים, without any one considering.—בּבָּר בַּעִיים is a Hiph. Part. of בוּבָּל , and is a constructio praegnans, implying בַּ , animum, after it; and בַּב שׁׁׁ means, to consider. The meaning is, suddenly, i.e. before any one has time to consider or to think. In the same manner, the Hebrews use yn, one knows not, for suddenly, unexpectedly. The whole verse is exceedingly animated.

(21) אֹבֶּלְ, ecce, lo.—בַּבָּ וֹהַרֶּמ בָּוֹר , lit. their excellence [which is] in them; but the pron. בַּבָּ is redundant, 544.—בַּבָּ, Niph. of בַּבָּי, lit. is torn away, viz. by violence, an intensive description of the sudden and violent manner in which human glory and fancied excellence perish, or are wrested from the possessor.—בַּבָּלְּהַ, lit. but not with wisdom, i.e. men die before they have made any great advances in knowledge and understanding; another trait which strongly indicates their frail, perishable, imperfect state.

The implication of the whole is this: 'How can man, so frail, so short-lived, so ignorant, and so erring, presume to be righteous before God, or to plead his merits there!' The whole picture is drawn with a master-hand, in colours so vivid and so skilfully laid on, that he must be destitute of all taste for painting of this nature, who is not deeply penetrated with a sense of its beauty and excellence.

No. LX. 2 Sam. XII. 1-7.

The student will find an account of the occasion which gave rise to this beautiful parable, in the history of David's conduct, chap. XI., and in the context which follows the parable itself.

- (1) אָדֶּה , 457. a.—חָדֶּא , for אַדָּה , 142. a, and 144.—בֿאַך , plenè , for בָּי , Part. of בָּי , 270. 5.
 - (2) הַּרָבַּה, 403. d.
- (4) הַבְּלָן, lit. way, journeying, here for traveller, i. e. elliptically for אֵרשׁ, 548. b.—בַּוֹחְבוֹן, and he spared, i. e. he was sparing, he refrained.—בַּוֹעשׁוֹח , to dress, to provide.—בַּוּאָ, who had come, 412. Note 1.

- (5) הַרָּהַר, apoc. Fut. of הַרָּהָה. וְּרָהָה, lit. alive is Jehovah, i.e. as Jehovah liveth,—as surely as Jehovah liveth; an oath of the highest nature.—הַנֶּהֶה, it is certain as Jehovah lives, that a son of death, i. e. condemned to death, shall the man be, who has done this, 444. d.
- (7) אַקְּדְה הָאִישׁ, thou art the man; i.e. Thou art the man who hast done this, viz. who hast acted in a manner which corresponds with the conduct of the rich man in this parable, and which may be justly compared to it; thou art the man, who hast wronged and oppressed the poor, and taken from him that which was very dear to him and which was rightfully his; thou, by thine own declaration, art the man, who is worthy of death for the crimes which he has committed.

It may be seen here, that according to the laws of interpreting parables, one principal point is the aim of the speaker, viz. to illustrate the oppression and wrong which David had done to Uriah; while all the other circumstances of the parable are added, merely for the sake of verisimilitude and concinnity.

No. LXI. Judg. IX. 6-20.

- (6) בְּעָבֶר , possessors, inhabitants.—יָבוֹ אַ לּוֹן, by the ilex, near the ilex, בַּעָבֶר, Part. Hoph. of בַּבָּר, planted.
 - (7) יַבְּרִדּר, with an indef. Nom., 500. a.
- (8) בְּלֵּכָה, 514. d.—בְּלְכָה, möl-khā, the points are adapted to the Qeri בְּלְכָה, which is the Imp. paragogic; for such a form, see 212. 5.
- (9) בְּרֵבְי, הַ interrog., 152. d. 2, which, however, supposes that the following הוד is pointed with Qamets. And this should be the case; for no analogy explains the Hhateph Qamets here, and the word should be written either בְּרָבְּרָבְּי, or בְּרָבְּרָבְּי, or אָבֶּרְבָּרָבְּי, or אָבֶּרְבָּרָבְּי, by which, through me.—בּרָבְּרָבְּרָבְּרָבְּרָבְּי, they honour God, i. e. God is honoured etc., 500. Note 2, which seems to refer to the oil used in consecration, as in Ex. 30: 24, or to the oil which was mingled with cakes presented in sacrifice, as in Lev. 14: 10, 12, 21, 27, etc.; and to the perfumed oils used on the head, and parts of the dress etc., in the East.—בְּלֵבוֹלֵי , to wave over the trees, i. e. to reign over them; which is here designated, very appropriately to the nature of the king, by waving over them.

(12) בְּלֵכִי, Imp fem. of בְּלֵכִי, pronoun fem., see 165. e. — בְּלֵכִי, the points are adapted to the Qeri, viz. בְּלֵכִי, fem. Imp., see in 212. 5.—בְּלְבֵּרָ, as before in v. 11.—בְּלְבֵּרָת אֲלֵבְּרִים אֲלֵבְּרִים אֲלֵבְּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אֲלֵבְּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלְבִּרִים אַלִּבְּרִים אַרִּים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָּרִים אָרִים אָּרִים אָרִים אָּרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָּרִים אָרִים אָּרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָרִים אָּרְים אָרִים אָּרְים אָרִים אָרִים אָּרְים אָּבְיבְּים אָרִים אָּבְּים אָרִים אָּבְּיבְּים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּים אָּבְיים אָבְיים אָבְיים אָבְיים אָבְיים אָבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָבְיים אָבּיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָבּיים אָּבְיים אָבּיים אָּבְיים אָּים אָּים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּים אָּים אָּים אָּים אָּיים אָּים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּים אָּים אָּים אָּבְיים אָּבְיים אָּים אָּים אָּים אָּבְיים

(14) אָם, the buck-thorn, or bramble. - אָם, 89.

(15) אַהָּם מְּשְׁרִים, ye will anoint me, i.e. constitute or make me king, which was done by the ceremony of anointing; 527. a. אָבֶּלֶּר, 507. b. הַסָּה, Imp. of בְּצִלֶּר, from בַּצָּלָר, from אָבָר, Dec. VIII.

The explanation of this parable or fable, immediately follows v. 15. The general object cannot be mistaken. Of courtesy and from gratitude, if not of right, one of Gideon's lawful heirs should, in the view of Jotham, have been chosen for a leader in Israel, seeing that Gideon had wrought so many and such signal deliverances for them. But the men of Shechem had slain his 70 sons, (all of the legitimate ones except Jotham), in one day. By the symbol of the clive and the vine, two of the most useful of all the fruit-trees which grow in Palestine, Jotham reminds the men of Shechem, that the nobler branches of his family, (although they ought to have been chosen as leaders in Israel), might despise the thought of ruling over such men as the Shechemites. The bramble represents Abimelech; a truly sarcastic image. The olive and the vine could speak of waving over the trees; but as to the little stinted buck-thorn or bramble, which grows only in a barren desert, how could this wave over them? And then the irony contained in the invitation given by it to the trees, to come and seek refuge in its shadow—the ilex and the lofty cedars of Lebanon seeking refuge in the shadow of a stinted bramble-bush!what could be more severe upon Abimelech? Finally, as the bramble assumes to itself airs of haughtiness, when it is invited to be king, and threatens vengeance to the cedars of Lebanon, in case they refuse to pay due homage to this importance; so Jotham warns the Shehemites, that Abimelech, vile and insignificant as he was, might be expected to revenge all the slights which he would receive from them, after a little while, and that mutual jealousies and contentions would destroy them both.

The whole apologue is not more beautiful for the simplicity of its language and structure, than for the eloquence and severity of the appeal which it makes to the Shechemites, and the boldness of the man who dared thus to address the murderers of all his father's house.

No. LXII. Is. V. 1-7.

- (וֹ אָטִּירָה בָּא , let me sing now, Kal Fut. parag., from יַּיִּרִּדִּיִּדִּי, either, respecting my beloved, or, [a song] of my beloved, taking יַּרִּדְּיִדְּי, from the next stanza, 562. בְּיִרִּדִּיִּדְ may also be rendered, friend. The prophet means to represent the case of a friend of his, who had a vineyard, and who dealt with it as the sequel shews. יַּבְרְבִּיִּרְ before this אָשִירָה is implied, 562. דּיִרִּדִּיּדְ , respecting his vineyard. יְּבַרְבִּיּרְ , on a mountain-top, or, the summit of a hill; probably the southern aspect of a hill is here meant, a place best adapted of all for the production of choice grapes. In Arabic, יְּבָרְ means hill or mountain-summit; and so the Swiss call their mountain-summits, Shreckhorn, Wetterhorn, Aaerhorn, etc. i.e. Terror-horn, Storm-horn, etc.—יְבָּבֶּרְבָּי, lit. the son of oil, i.e. fat, rich; comp. 444. d.
- (2) יְצַוְּקְהֵהּרּ, he dug it up.—And he planted it with the בְּצִּוּקְהָהּרּ, a noble species of vine; at the present day, in a like sense we could say, 'with the Madeira-vine.'—בְּבָּיָרָ, a tower, viz. for the residence of the keeper, and for defence against predatory ravages. Here, as it seems to me, the parable properly ends; as appears from the direct address to Jerusalem and Judah, in the following verse. It is God who speaks, in this direct address, and continues the figurative style, used in the parable itself, the interpretation of which could be attended with no difficulty, in regard to those who were addressed.

- (3) איש and איש and איש and my vineyard, i. e. judge of the case in respect to me who am your God, and yourselves who are my people.
- (4) מַה־בּלְצְשׁוֹת (מַה בּלֹא, 75. a; what can be done, 523. d.—וֹבְ שִׁלְּא נְשִׁרְת בּלֹא נְשִׁרְת וֹנ. and I have not done in respect to it, i. e. which I have not done for it.—בַּדְּבֶּע etc., why then etc., i. e. why, when I had a right to expect obedience and affection, have Israel rebelled, and rendered me evil for good?
- (5) אַרִּינֶה Hiph. Fut. of יָרֵע , I will shew. אַרִּינֶה , acturus sum, 529. הָבֶּר , Hiph. Inf. abs. of סוּר, elliptical for הָבֶּר , I will surely remove, 517. וְהָרָה לְבָּעֵר , lit., and it shall be for burning, i. e. it shall be consumed, 523. d. בַּעֵר בַּעָר is the Inf. of Piel. בַּעַר , Inf. abs. elliptical for אָפָרץ , I will surely break down, 517. יְהַרָה לִּ , 507. b, and it shall be trodden down.
- (6) בְּחָבּה, lit. I will make it an end, i. e. I will make an end of it. More probably the true reading here is בְּבָּב, wasting, desolation; comp. in Is. 7: 19. בְּבֶּבְ אָלֹּה, it shall not be dug with the mattock, hoed, or, it shall not be weeded, cleaned. יְנְעֶּבֶּה, and there shall grow up. בְּבֶּבְּ מִוֹר , and unto. זְנֵבְּ , lit. from raining, i. e. that they shall not rain, 521. Note.

Meaning of vs. 5, 6: 'Because I have done every thing for Israel which could be done, by way of favour and blessing, and they have been altogether ungrateful and disobedient, therefore I will give them over to severe punishment, to wasting and destruction.'

(7) The person speaking is now changed, and the prophet himself directly addresses his countrymen, adding a summary explanation of the whole, in a single sentence. The vineyard of Jehovah are the men of Israel, and the men of Judah, the plant in which he delighted, אַנְשֵׁי ָּנְיִנְי , lit. of his delights. And he looked for justice, but behold, murder; for equity, but lo! the cry [of the oppressed].

A most striking portrait of the character and conduct of the Jews. The student will not overlook the paronomasia here; He looked for בַּבָּקָה, and behold! אַבָּקָה; for אַבָּקָה, and lo! אַבָּקָה, 570. b. In this figure Isaiah greatly abounds, so that it may be regarded as one of the usual characteristics of his writing.

In interpreting this parable, Gesenius makes it to end with v. 6; and in regard to יעל העבים אצהה, he remarks, that 'the writer has fallen out of his fiction here,' inasmuch as the owner of the vineyard is a man merely, and cannot command the clouds. Eichhorn also, feeling the like difficulty, has rendered , by beschwören, to conjure, to exorcise!-a liberty sufficiently large. But on the ground above stated, viz, that the parable properly ends with v. 4, (which seems to be plain from the change in the language, for would the prophet's friend, in his song, address the men of Judah and Jerusalem?) there is no need of charging Isaiah with having forgotten himself in writing-a charge to which he is as little exposed as any author whom I could name; nor of introducing an exorcist into the scene. Did the vine-dressers of Judea, (who had so much occasion for timely rains, and for the want of which they often suffered much), seriously believe, that they could exorcise the clouds, and make them pour down the rain, or refrain from pouring it down? If not, how can the verisimilitude of the parable be kept up by representing the vine-dresser as declaring, that he would exorcise the clouds, so that they should not rain? Where is there any parallel to this?

The whole parable, and the application of it, is exceedingly striking and beautiful. The moral impression is of a high and awful nature, and leaves the mind deeply affected with the guilt of ingratitude and disobedience, on the part of those who are continually receiving unnumbered blessings from heaven.

No. LXIII. Ps. LXXX. 9-20.

This exquisite composition is ascribed, in the title, to Asaph. But whether it was the Asaph so noted in the time of David for his skill in music, and probably in song, (1 Chron. 15: 19), there is nothing which can certainly determine. Some have assigned this Psalm to a period as late as the time of the Maccabees; others to the time of Jehoshaphat; and some to that of Joram; all without any definite and satisfactory reasons. On the contrary, v. 3 seems evidently to refer to a state of things in Palestine, antecedent to the division of the ten tribes; nay, one might almost suspect, antecedent to the time in which the tribe of Benjamin was nearly destroyed, Judg. 20: 41 seq; for the reference in the Psalm appears to be to those tribes which were, at the time of writing it, of conspicuous military significance and power. On the whole, however, one may assign it to the Asaph who was contemporary with David; and the occasion of it seems to have been, some reverse in war which David had suffered, and the consequent destruction of some part of his kingdom.

The ardent intercession which the writer makes for his suffering people, in the first part of the Psalm, is crowned by the allegory or parable which concludes the piece, and which is one of the most exquisite of all this species of composition that can any where be found.

- (9) אָבּיבֶּ, hast thou removed, hast thou transplanted, for so the nature of the image requires it to be rendered.—Thou didst drive out the heathen [the Canaanites], רַתִּשְּבָּה, Fut. Kal of יָנָשֵׁל, with suffix; and didst plant it, viz. the vine, i. e. Israel.
- (10) פּלִּיק, thou didst make room, thou didst remove, viz. whatever stood in its way.—שַּׁרֶשׁי, and cause to take root.—שָּרָשׁי, shŏ-rā-shè-hā, 68.
- (11) אַבָּי, kŏs-sū, with Qamets Hhateph; see in Par. I. Pual.

 בּיבָּיבָ [by] the shade of it, the Abl. of instrument.— מָבָּיבָי , and [by] the shoots of it [were] the cedars of God [covered]; מבּיבֹי is implied after these last nouns, and is adduced from the preceding στίχος, 562. Cedars of God, lofty cedars, 465. e. Rosenmueller and De Wette understand this comparison to mean only, 'like the cedars.'
- (12) קְּבֵּרְהָּהְ, its branches, luxuriant shoots that were to be pruned off, as the etymology of the word shews.—בָּי, i.e. the Mediterranean Sea, the western boundary of Palestine.—זָּב, i.e. the Euphrates, the eastern boundary of Palestine; see Gen. 15:

18.—יְּבְקוֹמֶר, i. e. it sent forth its branches, הַבְּשָבְּה from the preceding סנוֹעְסָב.

The imagery, thus far, presents a lively representation of the flourishing state of the Hebrews, after they had been transplanted from Egypt to Palestine. Next comes the reverse of this prosperous condition; the imagery being still kept up.

- (13) בְּבֶרְיָהָ , why hast thou broken down its hedges, and thus exposed it to be devoured? as follows—So that all who pass by the way אָרְהָּ, crop it off, devour it; from אָרְהָּ,
- (14) בְּרְסְהָבּ, Fut. Pilel, from the pluriliteral בַּרְסְהָבּ, 300. מִיבַּר, out of the forest, or, belonging to the forest.—יְבָי, and the wild beast, lit. the moving creature, of the field; from זּהֹד, to move about.—יְרַבֶּבָּה, Fut. Kal of רָצָה,
- (15) Thus far the wasted, desolate condition of the country; or, at least, of that part of it which is the subject of complaint. And now follows supplication in its behalf. מַבָּט , return, turn back, viz. from thine anger. מַבָּט, from מַבָּט.
- (16) יְבַבֶּה, and protect [it]; so Ges. and LXX. Rosenmueller and others, plantam, plant; but with a less certain etymology. It is Imp. parag. of יְבַבָּה —Protect what thou hast planted with thine own right hand. The parallel סיוֹעסט explains the figure.—יִבַּבְּי, i.e. יְבַבָּה עֵלֵּבְּה יִי yea, protect the son, viz. Israel, often called a son, see Hos. 11: 1.—יְבַבְּה יִּ whom thou hast established for thyself, i. e. to whom thou hast given a settled abode in the promised land, and that they may be a people devoted to thee.
- (17) שָּׁרֵפָּה , Part. pass. fem. of אַרֵשָׁ; burned in the fire is the vine, etc. The writer, from the strength of his feelings, again returns to complaint of the desolation which had been made.—בּסִיּק, Part. pass. of אַבָּיְרָת פָּנִיף, cut up.—קּיִּבְיּת פָּנִיף, lit. at the rebuke of thy countenance, which may be retained; or we may render simply, at thy rebuke, 475. 2. b.—יֹאַבֶּד', in pause, i. e. the vines perish, or, the Israelites, the בַּיִבַ referred to in the preceding verse, perish.
- (18) Let thy hand be שֵׁל אֵרשׁ, over the man, i. e. let it protect him.—קָּמִיבֶּהְ, lit. the man of thy right hand, i. e. Israel whom thy right hand has planted and established; comp. 424, for the latitude of the signification of the Gen. case.—]===== etc., as in the preceding verse.

(19) The writer pleads that this supplication may be answered, because distresses have not come upon them in consequence of apostasy from the worship of the true God; We have not turned back from thee. אָבְּיִבְּיִבְּיִרְ, Piel of הְּבָּיִבְּיִ, lit. restore us to life, i. e. rescue us from our distressing condition, in which our very life is endangered. הְבַּשִּׁבְּיִן, for by thy name are we called; another motive why they should experience the interposition of God's protecting hand.

(20) Jehovah! [God of] the armies of heaven, הַשִּׁרְבֵּבּוּ, bring us back, viz. from our calamitous state, restore us, viz. to our former condition.—קְבָּאֵר פָּבָּיךְ, Hiph. Imp. of אָר הוֹא, lit. make thy face to shine, i. e. look propitiously upon us.—קָבָּי, Fut. Niph. parag. of בַּבָּי, and we shall be delivered, viz. from our troubles and distresses.

The temper of mind, the subdued yet deep feeling of soul, which the writer exhibits; the delicacy of his touches, the simplicity of his imagery, the earnestness with which he pleads for his people and country, the high sense of dependance on the mercy of God which he evidently cherishes, and the unaffected manner in which the whole is presented; unitedly constitute one of the most delightful pictures of this nature which was ever drawn. May he who reads, learn to plead for himself and for others with such fervency, and with such a humble yet confiding spirit!
